THE BUZZ AROUND CO-OP

DON'T HESITATE TO VACCINATE

Spring is an important time to vaccinate your animals. Vaccinations will save you money. They are relatively inexpensive to give compared to disease treatment. Choosing to vaccinate is the best way to assure good health in your animals. Dogs and cats benefit from a combination shot annually.

Livestock benefit in many ways from spring shots for the prevention of disease. Many viral respiratory diseases are prevalent in the Spring. West Nile in horses and blackleg in cattle are just two that can be given for your animals protection.

Co-op carries a large selection of vaccinations for your pets and livestock. Stop in and discuss with our staff a vaccination program for your animals. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Hope to see you soon.

*A Message From Your Mayor
Hello Eagleville*

Well here we are again, with the welcome of Spring, flowers, ball games, fresh air, and soon to be graduation of another class of scholars of Eagleville Seniors.

Spring always brings a fresh new look for the coming year. Regardless of who we are, spring just makes us feel better, maybe the thought of we made it through another winter.

Our city continues to make make strides on moving forward. We have a new dry cleaners and laundry on Main Street, and the talk of a lumber and hardware store. The expansion of our school is on schedule to open this fall for the new school year.

Mr. Mooneyham is replacing mulch at the park and signing up teams for a new ball season.

Our new police Chief, Eli Sturad is working to protect and serve our citizens.

Our city recorder, Mrs. Von Almen, is continuing her certification as required by a new Tennessee law that requires all cities have a certified financial officer. This is a two year class that has seen Mrs. Von Almen as one of the top in her class.

Your city council continues to look at every possible means to solve our need for a public sewer system. I would like to thank everyone who has assisted in the process by attending public meetings and participating in the surveys required for grant money.

Please support our school and local business.

If I can be of assistance, please feel free to call my personal cell number at 849-6509 or city hall at 274-2922.

A Step Back in Time

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

Lawrence Funeral Home and Cremation Services

The community of Chapel Hill Tennessee, population approximately 944, located in north eastern Marshall County, is widely known for its connection to several legendary names; Nathan Bedford Forest, a Confederate General, Henry Hollis Horton, the 33rd Governor of Tennessee, Buford Ellington, the 42nd Governor of Tennessee and the Chapel Hill Ghost that haunts the local railroad. Two well-known, Chapel Hill citizens, can also be added to the list. Brothers and partners in business, Thomas and Garrett Lawrence, not only made a difference in this community, but lived up to a dedicated and sincere commitment to help, not only their community, but all the surrounding communities. A commitment that continues today, 73 years later.

As teenagers, Thomas Jr. and Garrett were entrepreneurs of sorts, working at various jobs to earn spending money and to help provide for the needs of themselves and those of their family.

Their parents, Thomas H. Sr. and Mary Sue White Lawrence, worked hard to provide for their four children; Thomas, Garrett, Helen and Dorothy. Their father was a contractor and truck driver and their mother was a school teacher for many years.

Lawrence Funeral Home Chapel Hill, Tennessee was established and opened for business by Thomas H. Lawrence Jr., who began his funeral service career as an 18 year-old teenager in 1933. He began this endeavor, working for the former Lavender Funeral Home. After graduating from the Gupton-Jones School of Embalming in Nashville, Tennessee, and leaving his employment at Lavender's, on May 19, 1939, Thomas opened a funeral service business at 113 S. Horton Parkway. Exactly one year later, May 19, 1940, the building was destroyed by fire. Lawrence Funeral Home re-opened that same year in a building, built for Thomas, by Mrs. Crutcher at 102 S. Horton Parkway, Chapel Hill, Tennessee. This location is presently occupied by the Horton Highway Utility District offices.

In 1941 Garrett Lawrence, younger brother to Thomas, also started his career in the funeral business. He traveled from Chapel Hill to Nashville every day to attend Gupton-Jones Mortuary School, often hitch-hiking to and from Nashville. He was only required to attend for six months before he was allowed to take the state board exam and obtain his license. For a short time after finishing his studies at Gupton-Jones, Garrett worked for the former Cotton Funeral Home in Franklin, Tennessee. Garrett joined his brother, Thomas, at Lawrence Funeral Home in 1942, thus beginning a 40-year partnership

The two brothers worked together to build the funeral home business before Thomas was called to serve our country in World War II. Since Garrett was turned down for medical reasons, he ran the funeral home until Thomas returned in 1945.

Since its beginning, Lawrence Funeral Home has evolved into one of the most respected funeral homes in Middle Tennessee. As funeral customs changed and consumer demands changed, Lawrence Funeral Home always made the adjustments to meet their needs. Lillian and Jean, wives of Thomas and Garrett respectively, were also an integral part of and guiding force behind the daily operations of the business.

In 1953, Lawrence Funeral Home moved to its present location in a new facility, in part due to the increasing frequency of visitations and funerals being held at the funeral home, rather than in private homes or churches. The business continued to grow as the years passed. Like other funeral homes of that time, Lawrence Funeral Home was involved in much more than "burying folks". In addition to being involved in numerous civic endeavors, (providing tents, chairs, etc.), Thomas and Garrett also provided ambulance service for the surrounding counties, prior to the formation of the County Ambulance Service. They not only responded to accidents and emergencies, they transported patients to and from hospitals, as well as bringing new born babies and their mothers home from the hospital. These ambulance services were provided until September 1973, when other funeral homes in thirteen counties discontinued ambulance service.

People from all walks of life have visited the facilities of Lawrence Funeral Home, for visitations and funerals. In 1972, President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, Vice-President Spiro Agnew, and several other dignitaries attended the funeral services at Lawrence Funeral Home for Governor Buford Ellington who was a personal friend of Thomas and Garrett.

LAWRENCE FUNERAL HOME Chapel Hill, Tennessee

Services for veterans killed in action in every major conflict beginning with World War II and including the war in Iraq have been conducted at this funeral home. Lawrence Funeral Home has always strived to provide compassionate, dignified and professional service to every family it serves regardless of their circumstances.

After the death of Thomas, on February 28, 1982, Garrett continued to lead the funeral home at the forefront of traditional funeral service. His business expertise, compassion and even his witty, dry sense of humor have contributed to the perpetuity of the Lawrence tradition of funeral service.

In 1986, Lawrence Funeral Home underwent its first major expansion, since 1953, by enlarging the former chapel and other renovations to the facilities. Like the original construction of the funeral home, this expansion was necessitated by the continued growth of the business. 1992 saw another expansion, when a state of the art, preparation room was built and office space expanded.

Lawrence Funeral Home officially changed its name to Lawrence Funeral Home and Cremation Services in 2002, to reflect its accommodation, of the many families who are choosing cremation services for their family members. In January 2004, ground was broken for the new chapel facilities. This project was also launched to meet the need for space demanded by the increased call volume, but more importantly by the desires of Garrett, the management and staff of Lawrence Funeral Home to provide a modern yet comfortable facility for the families they serve.

The tradition of Lawrence Funeral Home service has a long history of serving its community and the surrounding area – a time honored and cherished tradition of funeral service, which hopefully will continue for many, many, more years.

Garrett Lawrence, CEO/Owner, who has given much to his community, has now turned the day to day operations of the business to Tommy L. Howell, President/Owner/Manager.

A native of Canton, Georgia, Tommy joined Lawrence Funeral Home in 1980 and became a partner in the business in 1982. He is a graduate of John Gupton College in Nashville, Tennessee and has served two terms as President of the Alumni Association. Tommy also has served as a director for the Tennessee Funeral Directors Association and is active in the Chapel Hill Lions Club. He has served on the Board of Directors for the local chapter of the American Red Cross and on the boards of various local governmental agencies. Tommy attends Smyrna Baptist Church where he serves on the Board of Deacon. Jane Howell, Tommy's wife has served as Secretary and Receptionist for several years. Other full time employees are; William H. Preston, Funeral Director/Embalmer, J. Kevin Pratt, Funeral Director/Embalmer and Sandra Hill, Office Manager. In addition to these full time employees, there are also four part time employees, who make up the dedicated staff of Lawrence Funeral Home and Cremation Services, Chapel Hill, Tennessee.

TO THE EAGLEVILLE COMMUNITY

Brother Tommy Jobe, Pastor at Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church

Spring is here and with it comes the serious season of Lent when the Christian community prepares for the celebration of Easter. In most churches are a series of events and services leading up to this most important day in the year for us. Most of those events are a recollection of the events in the life of Jesus Christ up to his crucifixion & resurrection. Holy week, from Palm Sunday to Easter, is the most sacred of all. I mention all this to lift up something that happens around Eagleville in a special way at this time of year – a cooperative spirit that permeates the entire community. I see that same spirit in many events at our school, in the general community, as well as in our churches. I have served in this community for five years now, & I can truthfully say that I have enjoyed every week of this time, due in a large part to this cooperative spirit. Whether it be our Thanksgiving Service, Easter Sunrise Service, the Easter Breakfast, World Day of Prayer, Baccalaureate for graduating seniors, or even our Vacation Bible School or Labor Day Camp Out, many turn out to support. There is a genuine outreach of caring that reaches out to one another when we get together that brings an uplift of spirit and a sense of peace.

Jesus talked so much about caring for others and gave his own life to give us the perfect example. He taught that we have responsibilities for each other that reach much higher than any set of laws, although every society needs those to guide it and keep the peace. We may differ, and often do about most anything, but can still live with respect for the other's dignity & rights. In this election year we see one party waylaying the other as responsible for most of our ills and going all out to come out on top. But in a democracy, we are all inevitably responsible for the outcome of events in our society. As Abraham Lincoln put it, "Of the people, by the people, for the people." We in the Eagleville Community can all take pride in the spirit we enjoy here. I commend all of you for your support and individual part in making this a place of peace.

THE RESURRECTION

We hold so close to our hearts
The cross where Jesus died
But so much more than the blood-stained cross

Is that Jesus came back to life

The stone's been rolled away
The tomb lay open and bare
They looked for Him, and then the angel said

That He is no longer here

Oh what joy they must have felt
To see Him just once more
To eat with Him, to drink with Him
To receive Him back as Lord

So much did He accomplish
Through His death upon the cross
And in His rising from the dead
He reconciled us back to God

Nothing else could bridge the gap
That sin had wrenched apart
Now we can freely go to God
And receive Christ in our hearts

By M.S.Lowndes

Think spring! Those two words resonate with connotations of contentment and cheer for the majority of us. What's not to love about the possibilities that come from turning the page of winter over to a season filled with longer days, warmer temperatures and new life?

I've never been one to argue with new life, unless we're talking dandelions. It won't be long before these little yellow beauties blanket my backyard like freezie wrappers and Popsicle sticks strewn hither and yon on a hot summer day.

My kids call them "dandeflowers," because they are dandy and they are flowers. There's no arguing the logic of that logic. Dandelions may grow (unwanted) in my backyard each spring, but they find their way inside and claim a coveted place on the windowsill over the sink (in a special dandelion vase, made by little hands as a Mother's Day gift years ago).

The yellow of our dandeflowers is overshadowed only by the brown of the muck, mud and wet sand covering the driveway, garage and sidewalks. Like the little yellow flowers that are not weeds, my mud is mobile – sticking to the bottoms of shoes, boots and the occasional cat or dog paw. The coffee-colored goo travels surreptitiously toward the backdoor, into the house and all the way across the room. When the poet, E.E. Cummings, coined the phrase, "mud-luscious and puddle-wonderful," I think he was talking about my kitchen floor.

Ah spring! The days are like onions, as my kids peel off layer after layer. They leave for school in the chill morning bundled in hat, jacket and boots and arrive home to temperatures that have risen 20 degrees wearing only a t-shirt, shorts and soggy tennis shoes. Where, how and when they acquired the shorts is a mystery to me. I shrug it off with the confidence of a mother who knows with certainty we will locate more than one spring jacket in the lost and found box on the final day of school – just like last year.

Ah spring! Ah choo! My nose runs faster than a kid without his jacket. My eyes water like an errant garden hose aimed at an older sister. It's all in the name of allergies. The dandeflowers make me sneeze. Can someone pass the antihistamine, please?

Spring is full of new beginnings – and endings, as all living things emerge to conclude a winter of hibernation. Daffodils, rhubarb and hostas optimistically poke their stalks upward through the dark soil. My neighbors and I reacquaint ourselves around a large puddle at the bottom of the driveway. Fruit flies hatch (from where I know not) to hover in their familiar spot near the bananas.

We awaken early to the sound of birds chirping. Their joy with springtime is not only noisy, but palpable. They are – in a word – twitterpated. In love, and busy building their summer homes high in the trees.

I give my boys haircuts, ridding them of their overgrown winter locks. We complete this ritual in the backyard, letting the curled tufts waft to the ground and then leave them there – in hopes the robins and sparrows fluttering above will find them soft and worthy of nest padding.

We take out the bikes, golf clubs, baseball mitts and flip-flops. Hockey sticks sit in the corner of the garage forgotten – for at least a week or two. I make potato salad for supper. We dust off the porch furniture and sit, taking it all in. The birds continue chirping.

Spring has arrived. Again. Like each year. It is new. And we are glad.

Rockvale Church of God Celebrates 100 Years

A magazine called The Gospel Trumpet was the seed used by God to stir hearts and move them to plant the Rockvale Church of God in October 1909. A series of revival meetings and brush arbors led a small but growing group of believers to start the process of formally building a church. Edgar Williams purchased the present day site of the church on Jackson Ridge Road from Mell Morgan for $75. The first construction began in October of 1911 with the first formal services being held in April 1912.

In marking its centennial, the church has grown in a number of ways. Sunday School rooms, a family life center, and office spaces have been added to the original building. The sanctuary has been extended and a covered entrance way added for rainy days. Thirty seven pastors have served the church over the years.

Sunday, April 15, the Rockvale family of faith will formally celebrate the church's birthday with a special service, singing, and a catered dinner. The program begins at 10 am. Rev. Don Kelly, a former pastor now in Zoe, Kentucky, will be returning to give the main address. Special music will be provided by The Praise Chapel Quartet from Franklin, Devi Black, Mike Williams (another former pastor), Myrlene Jacobs and her daughter Brenda Williams among others.

There will be the unveiling of a centennial quilt where members of the church have contributed squares. Rev. Morgan Davis, Rev. Ron Maurer, Rev. Mel Jacobs and Rev Dwayne Pierce will share reflections from their times of pastoral service at the church. A computer slide show will look back on the history of the church as well.

The public is invited to share in all the day's activities but an RSVP is requested for food and planning purposes. You can call the church at 615-274-6357.

A CIRCLE BROKEN – EAGLEVILLE HS “CLASS OF 1960”

Edwina Anderson Watson

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On February 26, 2012, a circle of special friends, graduates of 1960, was broken with the death of Edwina Anderson Watson. For almost 52 years, this class stayed intact after graduating from Eagleville High School. Although the class was small, we feel that this is certainly a record.

On May 27th, 1960, 21 Eagleville High School Seniors, 14 girls and 7 boys walked across the stage and received their diplomas from Principal, Mr. U. R. Elmore. Eleven members of the class started to school together in the first grade with Mrs. Dowdy as their teacher and graduated together with other classmates that joined them during the 12 years.

The “1960 Graduates”: Edwina Anderson (Watson), Jannie Batts (West), Jeannie Batts (Hendrix), Juanita Johnson ( Cloud), Catherine Jones (Leverette), Thelma Leverette (Price), Virginia McMahon (White), Polly Perrell (Riggan), Mary Ellen Pressgrove (McCutchen), Annette Ralston (Chick), Bobbie Sue Redmon (Lonas), Patricia Rivers (Harris), Lynda Scurlock (Sledge), Nona Taylor (Stacy), Paul Dyer, Clarence Johnson, Tom Lamb, Harold Manier, Herbert Redmond, Sam Scales and Jim Watson. These students were exceptionally close during their school years and remained so these 50+ years. Only three of the classmates are living out of state with the remaining, living in the Middle Tennessee area.

Our friend, Edwina Anderson Watson, was a very special person, not only to her former classmates, but to everyone who knew her. Her friendliness, wit and especially her smile will certainly be missed by her many friends. For the “Class of 1960” I want to express our sympathy to Edwina’s family and to her husband, Jim Watson, also a member of this class.

Murfreesboro Medical Clinic, PA Welcomes Ronald Angles, D.O.

Dr. Angles will be joining our Gastroenterology department in April 2012.

Dr. Angles received his undergraduate degree in Zoology from Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, IL and graduated Magna Cum Laude. He earned his doctor of osteopathy degree in 1991 from Southeastern University of the Health Sciences in North Miami Beach, FL. He completed his internship and residency in Internal Medicine at the Flint Osteopathic Campus at Michigan State University in Flint, MI. He finished his Gastroenterology fellowship at Genesys Regional Medical Center in Flint, MI. Dr. Angles is proficient in all aspects of invasive gastroenterology including ERCP and is board certified in Gastroenterology.

Robert Ingle, M.D., MMC's senior Gastroenterologist, stated, "We are privileged and excited to have Dr. Ron Angles join Murfreesboro Medical Clinic. His training, skill and personality will allow him to be a great addition to our Gastroenterology Department. We look forward to the knowledge he will bring to our group."

Before coming to the Clinic, Dr. Angles worked at Digestive Healthcare of Central Tennessee, PLLC in Shelbyville. He will maintain office hours for patients both in Shelbyville at 112 Airport Business Park Drive and Murfreesboro at 1272 Garrison Drive.

Joseph A. Peay, Chief Executive Officer, added, "Attracting quality physicians, such as Dr. Angles, remains our goal so that we can continue to meet the medical needs of Murfreesboro, Rutherford County and surrounding areas. He will be a great addition to our Clinic."

Dr. Angles' hobbies include construction, sports, history and volunteer missions. Dr. Angles plans to reside in Normandy, Tennessee with his wife, Charlotte. They have two daughters, Bethany and Hannah.

For more information on Dr. Angles, please contact (931) 735-6036 or (615) 867-8070.

Rockvale Students Participate In Service-Learning Projects

On Wednesday, March 7, sixteen Technology Education students from Rockvale Middle School went on a field trip. This was no ordinary field trip, however. The students have been participating in service-learning projects at school where they prepared sandwiches for the homeless, put together personal hygiene kits for the residents at the shelter, and made flyers for upcoming events. The students traveled to the Salvation Army Center of Hope homeless shelter in Murfreesboro to continue the service-learning projects.

Recently the center had to build a new walk-in cooler and freezer to support the 34 homeless clients that stay there on any given night. The old freezer was located outside the building and was destroyed due to weather related conditions. The new larger cooler and freezer have direct access from the kitchen and replaced several smaller coolers and freezers.

The students assembled seven large shelving units, and then sorted and organized donated food into large plastic bins and placed them on the shelving inside the cooler and freezer units. Additionally, the students cleaned one of the family rooms, folded sheets, and wrapped pastries and bread.

Prior to beginning to work, the students got a grand tour of the facility by Lt. Lorraina Crawford who runs the center with her husband, Lt. Joseph Crawford. They are both ordained ministers in the Salvation Army Church and hold services every Sunday and Bible study during the week. The Center of Hope is located at 1137 W. Main St, on the corner of W. Main and Hwy 99.

Rockvale Middle School is located on Hwy 99 in Rockvale just 11 miles from the Salvation Army. The students are part of the 8th grade Technology Education class. Tech Ed focuses on improving technology skills and learning basic engineering concepts. Additionally, the class incorporates hands-on, cooperative, and problem-based learning.

The students were very enthusiastic about the project and worked very hard. Following the project, each team of students completed a reflection about what they did, and each student completed a self and peer evaluation.

Responses included:

"It was very cold in [the freezer] but it was still fun because we were all working together. And we were helping the Salvation Army a lot. They have a lot of work that they have to do there! I'm glad that we were able to help them."

"Community service can be fun."

"It was a great experience."

A special thank you goes out to Johnson Transportation Service of Eagleville for donating the bus transportation and Papa John's Pizza on Old Fort Pkwy for providing lunch.

Indoor Tanning and Your Skin

If you are like me spring is dancing in your head, with sounds of birds singing to the wonderful sights and smells of grass greening and flowers blooming. Ahhhhh—spring is in the air and all around us, what a welcome time of year. Spring usually affords us a much needed break from winter and school, sets the stage for bathing suits, sun and tanning beds. It seems everyone wants to be the first to tan as we race for beaches, mountains, and fields to enjoy and feel the sun tanning our skin.

The other day as I traveled through town I could not help but notice tanning store lobbies full of customers waiting to tan. Even despite warnings from dermatologist and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention on the risk of indoor tanning we still insist on browning our bodies. Indoor tanning has been linked with cancers of the skin including the most deadly melanoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and cancers of the eye (ocular melanoma). Indoor tanning exposes users to both UV-A and UV-B rays, and both can damage the skin and ultimately—can lead to cancer. A study conducted by the International Agency for Research on Cancer Working Group on Artificial Ultraviolet Light and Skin Cancer (2007), concluded that people who begin tanning younger than age 35 have a 75% higher risk of melanoma. The studies further conclude the use of tanning beds also increases the risk of wrinkles and eye damage, and changes to skin texture.

Myths about indoor tanning include: “Indoor tanning is safer than sun tanning,” both indoor and sun tanning are dangerous. Indoor tanning is controlled by timers, however; ultraviolet rays can vary based on the age and type of bulbs used. Your skin can burn and become damaged by using tanning beds and booths. “I can use indoor tanning to get a base tan to protect me from getting sunburn,” our skin tans as a response to injury, the skins normal response is to produce more pigment.

According to a 2009 Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance System study, 16% of all high school students and 37% of white high school girls use indoor tanning. Studies also indicated people over the age of 30 tan less frequently. These studies are the driving force behind some states restricting or banning the use of indoor tanning to minors. Twenty-six states have enacted laws restricting minors’ access to tanning facilities. Of these states, California, Maine, New Jersey, and New York, prohibit minors under age 14 from using tanning facilities. North Carolina law prohibits persons under age of 13 from using tanning equipment without a written prescription from a physician that specifies the nature of the condition requiring treatment. Tennessee requires either an in-person signature by the parent or guardian or a notarized consent statement (National Cancer Institute).

Appearance seems to trump health when it comes to getting a bronzed glow and tan. We associate sex appeal and glamour with being tan. Exposure to UV rays even reinforces a physiological boost in endorphins that make us feel better. So, how do we get a tan, protect our skin, and feel good about ourselves? Take the lead of a few female celebrities like Britney Spears and Paris Hilton who are giving much impetus to spray booth-and-bottle tanning.

How do we protect ourselves when we are out in the sun? Slip on a shirt, slop on the sunscreen, slap on a hat, and wrap on sunglasses to protect the eyes and sensitive skin around them from ultraviolet light (American Cancer Society). When out in the sun it is important to realize that a typical light T-shirt has less protection from the sun’s harmful rays than sunscreen with a sun protections factor (SPF) of 15 or higher. Slop on the sunscreen; remember sunscreens do not give you total protection. If applied correctly, a sunscreen with a SPF of 15 you still get the equivalent of 1 minute of UVB rays for each 15 minutes spent in the sun. Make sure to check the expiration dates on your sunscreen, follow the label directions, and apply generously to dry skin at least 20 minutes before going outside to maximize absorption and protection. Generously, apply about 1 ounce of sunscreen (about a palm full) to cover legs, arms, neck and face for the average adult. Sunscreen should be reapplied at least every 2 hours and even more often if swimming or sweating. Slap on the hat (brim 2 to 3 inches) to protect your neck, ears, eyes, forehead, nose and scalp. Wrap on UV-blocking sunglasses to help protect your eyes.

Please, protect your skin when out and about in the sun and if you have to have that so-called “healthy glow” consider spraying or rubbing it on. Your skin will look younger more beautiful longer all while protecting the skin you’re in!

NASHVILLE STUDENT ADVANCES TO WIN DISTRICT PHOTOGRAPHY AWARD

Nashville, Tenn. – April Bowen of Eagleville, Tenn. won a Gold District Student ADDY Award for photography from the American Advertising Federation Nashville. Bowen is a student in the associate degree program for commercial digital photography at Nossi College of Art. She competed with students from multiple colleges and universities across Louisiana, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama. This is Bowen's first district ADDY win, and she will be attending the award show hosted at Cadillac Ranch in downtown Nashville on April 13.

April 13 is also already a special day for Bowen because she turns 35 and after the awards show, she will make the trip to Massachusetts to visit with family. Add winning a district student ADDY award completes a very full day of activities for Bowen.

Bowen's winning photograph, "Little Miss Mud Pie," aptly describes the her daughter's messy endeavor with mud. "Little Miss Mud Pie" will advance to the AAF's National Student ADDY competition to be judged in the Photography category.

"(For a classroom assignment) we had to capture our view of a season, so I chose spring/summer. I could envision her playing and making mud pies," said Bowen about the project.

Bowen will be competing with 15 districts across the United States for a chance to win a National Student ADDY award. For six consecutive years, Nossi students have gone on to win National Student ADDYs.

"The college is very proud of our students' and their accomplishments. It's an honor to have such dedicated faculty members mentoring the student's through this important competition," said Cyrus Vandoost, Executive Vice President at Nossi College of Art.

The American Advertising Federation hosts the annual student ADDY awards. Students compete at a local level, trying to advance to the national competition. Winners are recognized and rewarded for their creativity in art advertising. To be eligible to win, students must attend a nationally and regionally accredited institution.

Established in 1973, Nossi College of Art recently constructed a new facility just north of Downtown Nashville due to growing interest in its visual communications programs. Offering bachelors and associates degrees in photography, graphic design, illustration and video, Nossi College is nationally accredited and authorized by the Tennessee Higher Education Commission.

Ben Franklin and My Boy

I was recently reading a biography of Benjamin Franklin. Why, you ask? I could not help but wonder why he was the only guy engraved on our money who was not a past president. Why was he so special?

It turns out that Ben Franklin was a lot like my ten-year old when he was young. At a young age, Ben was given some spare coins by some adult relatives and used all of them to buy an obnoxious tin whistle from an entrepreneurial neighbor boy. The tin whistle was so irritating that young Ben's family loudly complained. When they found out how much he'd spent on it, they acted the same way we did when my boy sold his almost-new bike to the neighbors for $10.

Somewhere between the tin whistle episode and adulthood, Ben Franklin developed his "A penny saved is a penny earned" persona. So... I think there's still hope for my boy.

Ben Franklin was an aspiring writer when he apprenticed at his brother's newspaper shop. His brother wouldn't let him write for the paper, however. So he wrote under an assumed name, Silence Dogood, and slipped his work under the door at night. His brother gleefully printed the letters until he realized the identity of Silence Dogood.

My boy decided to write an entire newspaper for our family and distribute it to the neighbors. His first and only newspaper contained the headline story of our cat giving birth to three kittens... six years ago. The only other item gracing his one-page newspaper was a copy of a Calvin and Hobbes comic strip. His newspaper career only lasted about an hour and a half because he quickly realized that he detests writing.

Ben Franklin was an inventor and a scientific achiever of his age, yet he only had two years of formal schooling. I don't dare tell my boy that little tidbit.

I think he would have admired Ben Franklin because he, too, is a tinkerer, but so far, he has just enough knowledge to be downright dangerous.

Ben's inventions were as diverse as they were practical. He invented bifocals, an early electric generator, the Franklin stove, the lightning rod and the armonica - a musical instrument - among many other things.

My boy is only ten and yet he has invented an ATM machine out of Legos. He just can't figure out how to get it to make money.

Last Christmas, he made a Santa Claus detector out of a PC and a mini camera. It stopped working just when Santa was coming down the chimney. Darn!

He also developed an automatic toilet flusher out of scotch tape, rubber bands, and his Erector set.

And one of his favorite "inventions" was Jello popsicles made out of, well... Jello.

I can hardly wait to see what he can do with an education and the correct tools.

The key here is education. Ben Franklin might have flown a kite in a thunderstorm trying to attract lightning, but he had thought about the consequences and built in safeguards to protect himself from certain death.

Flying a kite in a thunderstorm is definitely something I could see my ten-year old doing. The difference is that he would make the kite string out of copper wire and hold on to the key at the bottom, thereby ensuring a crispy end to his promising life.

If we can keep him out of trouble long enough to get that education, you may one day see my boy's face gracing a piece of currency.

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Do You Celebrate Easter? How? Why?

Many years ago my 80 year old father asked "What is Easter about anyway? Many people who call themselves

Christian rarely go to church or study the Bible. If we look around us we see bright pastel colors, eggs and baskets, bunny rabbits and baby chickens, new clothes and Easter bonnets, new birth and the rites of spring. If we only look at the way the world views Easter we would never know the true meaning. The commercialism of the holiday has overtaken any religious or spiritual aspects that may be looming in the background.

While Easter is primarily a Christian holiday, people of other persuasions (or no persuasion at all) may find themselves participating in an egg hunt or eating a chocolate bunny or two. Some Christians also embrace these rituals scarcely giving a thought to the real meaning of their faith. Think about it—have you allowed the all mighty dollar and advertising to change your focus? Yes, you say—the children need the fantasy. Perhaps you are right. We can connect new birth, whether the rebirth of warm weather or the birth of baby chickens or rabbits to the rebirth we experience as Christians.

God Himself came to earth in the form of Jesus to die on the cross and was resurrected to show us when we believe in Him we too will live again. Jesus was raised from the dead in order to bring us new life. He paid on the cross for my sins and your sins and all we have to do to receive eternal life is accept his gift of new life.

So when you celebrate Easter this year remember for a Christian Easter is everyday—our new life has already begun and will last throughout all eternity. Happy Easter!

The following poem has been preached by many, but I was unable to find its origin and author.

*I simply argue that the cross be raised again
At the center of the market place
As well as on the steeple of the church,
I am recovering the claim that
Jesus was not crucified in a cathedral
Between two candles:
But on a cross between two thieves;
On a town garbage heap;
At a crossroad of politics so cosmopolitan
That they had to write His title
In Hebrew and in Latin and in Greek. . .
At the kind of place where cynics talk smut,
And thieves curse and soldiers gamble.
Because that is where He died,
And that is what He died about.
And that is where Christ's men (and women)
ought to be,
And what church people ought to be about.*

Enrollment Reminder for Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payments and Other FSA Programs

(Franklin, TN), USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) County Executive Director Betty Hampton reminded producers that the 2012 deadline to enroll in the Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment (DCP) program is June 1.

“I encourage all producers interested in DCP to visit the service center where their farm is administered and sign up before the busy planting season gets underway,” said Hampton. “Enrollments cannot be accepted after the deadline, so enrolling early may help producers avoid missing the deadline during one of the most demanding times of the year.”

DCP provides payments to eligible producers on farms enrolled for any of the 2008 through 2012 crop years. There are two types of DCP payments: direct payments and counter-cyclical payments. Both are calculated using the base acres and payment yields established for the farm. DCP is authorized by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (2008 Farm Bill).

In addition to DCP, other FSA programs also have enrollment deadlines approaching:

- Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program: Check with the FSA service center for dates;
- GRAZE-OUT – March 31 for calendar year 2011 crops;
- Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) General Sign-up 43 – April 6;
- Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) – June 1;
- Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payment Program (SURE) – June 1, 2012 for crop year 2010;
- 2011 ACRE Production Evidence – July 15;
- Certification of Planted Acres – Various deadlines, but no later than July 15;
- Farm Reconstitutions (changes) – August 1, 2012 for the 2012 crop year;
- MILC –Sept. 30, 2012;
- Crop Insurance – Contact a crop insurance agent or the regional RMA office.

For more information on these and other FSA programs, contact a local FSA service center or visit the FSA website at www.fsa.usda.gov.

CALENDER OF EVENTS

1st Saturday Night Each Month - Country Music & Dance at the Community Center in Eagleville.

Apr 7 - Easter Egg Hunt Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church would like to invite you to our Annual Easter Egg Hunt. This event will be held at the Rocky Glade Church on Rocky Glade Road, from 2:00 - 4:00, April 7th. The Egg Hunt will start at 2:00, immediately following the counting of the eggs and giving out prizes, we will be serving drinks and snacks. As always, we thank our heavenly father for this blessed Easter, Jesus gave his life for all of us, therefore think of those sacrifices as you go through your Easter activities with your families, as a remembrance of him.

Apr 8 - Easter Sunrise Service - The Eagleville-Rockvale Ministerial Association will hold its annual Easter sunrise service at 6:00 am on the football field at Eagleville High School. Pastors and musicians from the 12 area church have planned the program. Pastor Bruce Hamilton from the Rockvale Church of God is delivering the sunrise message.

Apr 14 - Annual Pancake & Sausage Breakfast at Concord United Methodist Church, Rockvale, 7:00-10:00 am.
