Messages to Bobbie Sue

I first became acquainted with Bobbie Sue after the first issue of the Eagleville Times hit newsstands nine years ago.

Starting a newspaper in a small town I had hoped to have a column that would reflect on Eagleville's history. I'm not sure how it all came about but Bobbie Sue became involved and "A Step Back In Time" was created.

Bobbie Sue's column is a favorite and one reason why so many buy the paper.

I can't put into words how much I appreciate Bobbie Sue for the work and the love that she puts into each issue. Everything she has done for the paper is her contribution, never requiring any pay. Her generosity is rewarding for our entire town.

Thank you so much Bobbie Sue for your friendship and for your love of history.

You're always working to make sure you find just the right pictures for the paper. This month is your time to be the top feature.

> Happy Birthday Bobbie Sue, Debbie Ryan, Eagleville Times

I would like to wish my first cousin Bobbie Sue a Happy Birthday.

Just for all the work she does on the articles and to help anyone who is interested in tracing their roots. She is a wonderful person and a kind friend to all. We love you.

A Tribute To Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

By Kristy Bolin

To Me, My Mom Is...

As we get older, we realize that we would be lost in this world without our Moms. From the beginning, they nurture us, feed us, clothe us, and then they send us out into the world to live. I cannot imagine my life without my Mom and the older I get, I appreciate her more each day. I appreciate all the things she gave me and did for me as a child, but mostly I appreciate the example she gave me of how to be the best

To me, my Mom is ...grounded. Bobbie Sue Redmon was born August 15, 1942 in Eagleville to the proud parents of Junior and Nina Redmon. She has an older sister, Hazel Rigsby of Eagleville, and a younger sister, Elaine Pitts of Unionville. She has told us stories of her many adventures growing up in Eagleville, but there are two stories that stand out in my mind most of all. The first story starts out when her family lived on Main Street in the house near the creek (it is the blue house beside Las Fiestas). When Mom was 12 years old, she asked for and received a white and turquoise bike with a light and battery horn, and she loved this bike more than anything. She always parked it under the window on the front porch and one day, she came outside and the bike was gone. She thought someone was playing a trick on her by hiding it but after several days, she knew the bike had been stolen. After some time, the Rutherford County Sheriff called Blanton's Service Station and asked if a bicycle had been stolen from Eagleville. They found out that the police in Arab, Alabama had picked up a 14 year old boy riding the bicycle, and he confessed that he had stolen it in Eagleville. He had walked to Eagleville from Nashville, running away from home, and he stole my Mom's bicycle and rode it to Arab, Alabama. Someone from the Sheriff's office went to Alabama and brought the boy and bike back to Tennessee. At the jail, the boy even loaded my Mom's bicycle into my Grandmother's car for them and my Grandmother felt so sorry for the boy, she gave him $5.

The other story involves one of my Mom's oldest friends, Linda Sledge. Mammy, my Grandmother, had sent them somewhere to get fresh eggs in her car and being two crazy, teenage girls, they were drag racing and the bowl of eggs broke on the way home. They knew Mammy would be mad so they came into the house and dropped the bowl of broken eggs, on purpose, and started crying so that Mammy would believe the eggs had been broken by accident as they were coming in the house.

To me, my Mom is ...loving. My mom married my Dad, Don Shelton, on April 21, 1961 at Eagleville Baptist Church > when she was 19 years old. A couple years later, my brother, Todd was born, three years after that, I came into the world, and two years after that, Carol Ann completed the family. I believe we moved from Shelbyville to Rover to the house that my parents built right after Carol Ann was born in 1968. Growing up, our mom worked at Jostens in Shelbyville but every evening, she would come home and lovingly help us with any school or 4-H project that was due. There were nights that I remember telling my Mom that we had a school program in a couple of days, and she would work through the night to make Continue on page 3..TRIBUTE

A Message From Your Mayor

Eagleville Moving On Up!

THANK YOU to all who supported the project:

THE RUTHERFORD COMMISSION AND THE RUTHERFORD COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD, especially.

As we all know, change is inevitable. Our world changes everyday so as individuals and a city we can change with the times or choose to get further behind.

The City of Eagleville was awarded a 100% grant for electric auto charging stations. This was no cost to out citizens what so ever. In the future this will prove to be useful in many ways. Also, every electric vehicle manufactured will have EAGLEVILLE, TENNESSEE as a place to receive charging.

THANK YOU to Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, owners of Stonegate Landscape for the donation of the beautiful landscaping in front of city hall. This donation of labor and materials was to the city at no cost. Thank you for this generous contribution that enhances the beauty of city hall.

Along with the landscape THE SONS OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS' donated a monument to the city in honor of the ones who fought and the families who suffered during the war.

Eagleville has been faced for many years with the issue of needing a public waste water system (sewer). It appears we have a better chance today than ever before of solving public health issues. The city acquired 26 acres of prime property to build a sewage treatment facility, also this was done at no additional cost to the taxpayers of Eagleville. Soils and design work should begin very soon for a system that would be adequate for many years of planning and solving environmental problems.

I would like to thank our Fire Chief Terry Greene and our Police Chief Eli Stroud for keeping our citizens safe and the leadership role they demonstrate for our city. THANK YOU.

The City of Eagleville, Fire and Police Departments will offer in assisting to dispose of obsolete electronic equipment that is no longer needed. The county land fill will not accept electronic equipment, therefore many citizens have no way of disposing of televisions, computers, etc. If you need assistance to legally and properly disposing of electronic equipment, please call city hall at 274-2922. Someone from the fire or police department will come to your home, pick up the equipment and dispose of it properly for you.

As always shop locally, support our school and local merchants.

If I can be assistance, please call my personal cell number.

A very young Bobbie Sue - 9 lbs, 0 ozs

Carol Ann or myself, and sometimes both, a new dress. And of course, the dresses had to match each other. She also lovingly spent many, many hours making my wedding dress at a time when she didn't have a lot of free time because Mammy was sick and passed away three months before my wedding. She actually hemmed the dress the morning of my wedding. My Mom quit her job at Jostens to take care of our Dad when he was sick, and she loved Daddy until he died in 1999. She found love a second time with Curtis Rowland, who was a high school sweetheart, and Mom lovingly cared for him while he battled cancer and later died in March 2003. She found love a third time with Sonny Lonas, a musician from Virginia that resided in Franklin. He met Mom at one of the College Grove Senior Citizens Friday night dances and they dated and married May 12, 2007. They still live in Rover and enjoy going to music festivals where Sonny plays the drums in a Polka band, and they enjoy traveling with friends. They recently left for a 9-day group bus trip to Colorado, but they had to return home after four days because of the wildfires there. When someone is as special as my Mom, there's no wonder love could find her three times when most people are fortunate to find it once.

To me, my mom is ...giving. My mom has always been very giving of her time to help others. When we were little, we had brother/sister neighbors that our parents helped care for. They lived in a dilapidated house without running water or electricity, and we would be forced to go visit or help do something for them. I can remember sitting in the neighbors' house and watching rats play but my Mom never complained when she would help them or take them places, even though they may not have smelled so great since they didn't have water to bathe. There would also be times when Daddy would call Mom from school and ask her to take a sick child, not one of the three of us, home or to the doctor so she would leave her job to do so. And let's not forget the many, many times she taxied us

Bobbie Sue, Len Redmon & Junior Redmon

ballgames, and MYF church functions without a complaining word. From visiting Carol Ann and me at 4-H camp in Columbia on Parents' Day and letting Carol Ann come home because she was homesick to the care package she sent me on Valentine's Day to MTSU my first year in the dorm even though I came home every weekend, my Mom has always been giving and has been a good example for me as to how to serve others. Of course, I can't leave out the fact that she was very giving when it came to punishment also. Mom was usually the bad guy when it came to discipline so we would usually be asked, "Do you need a whipping?", but before we got the chance to answer, a fly swatter, yard stick, or paddle ball to various 4-H functions, paddle would find our legs. We thought we were dying at the time, but now I'm thankful that she loved us enough to discipline us.

To me, my Mom is ...intelligent. My mother is very intelligent and loves to research genealogy. It takes a very patient person to research years and years of data and to compile the information in a form for future generations to benefit from. When we were younger, our Mom would announce on a nice, lazy afternoon that we needed to go find a grave at a cemetery. My sister and I would give each other the "Oh no, do we have to go?" look, but we knew better than to argue so we would go with her. We would also roll our eyes when she would come home from an auction sale with family photo albums of people she didn't even know. When we would ask her who they were, she would just say, "I'm not sure, but it was so sad that no one wanted their family pictures so I bought them." Mom has always enjoyed collecting family heirlooms and antiques. I remember saying when I had my own house, I would never have other people's used furniture in it, especially furniture from dead family members, but she instilled in us a sense of family, and now we all appreciate any family keepsake we receive. One of our most treasured possessions is a notebook that my Mom and her sister, Hazel, completed for each Redmon family member in 2002. They spent many, many hours and numerous printer ink cartridges to prepare The Redmon Family History which is full of information and pictures dating back to our oldest ancestors in 1816. This notebook is one heirloom that will be passed from generation to generation.

To me, my Mom is ...hardworking and fun. I believe my Mom is one of the hardest working women I have ever met. Growing up, we grew tobacco, and if anyone knows anything about growing tobacco, you know it is one of the hardest and dirtiest jobs you can do. She never stood back and watched anyone work. She helped Daddy plant the tobacco by driving the tractor, she topped the plants, and she cut and speared the tobacco, all in the heat of the summer and usually faster than most of the men. I love the story of the day she was driving the tractor while Daddy and Uncle Robert were setting the tobacco. Daddy got a little angry at her because he thought the rows were not straight so she quietly got off the tractor without a word and went into the house. I'm not sure how long they sat there before they realized they needed to find another driver for the day or they needed to do some apologizing. Usually when the first cold snap of winter came along, it was time for the tobacco to be stripped so she would gather all of us to help, and of course, we rolled our eyes as we went outside in the cold. I have to say we were usually motivated to help with this job by the fact that we would receive the tip money when the tobacco sold at market. The tobacco jobs were in addition to taking care of the home and our family, working at Jostens, teaching Sunday School class and VBS crafts at church, working the garden, and the many day to day tasks mentioned earlier. Of course, she could also find time for fun. Snow days were always so much fun...especially on the weekends when everyone was home. We could not wait to get out in the yard and make a snowman and usually Mom was there helping us build the best one or helping us ride the sled down the very small hill beside the house. We didn't take many week-long family vacations because of the tobacco, but I do remember our vacations to Florida and Gatlinburg and we swam a lot at the pool at Henry Horton Park during the summers. I can remember several Saturdays, we were awakened and told to get ready, not knowing where we would be going, and we would go to fun, interesting festivals for the day. These days, we enjoy our girls' weekends to Gatlinburg and our games of "Show and Tell" after a day of shopping. Blake, Maria, Taylor and Brent also enjoy any fun days they get to spend with Nanny, especially when she cooks their favorite breakfast of biscuits and

As you can see, my Mom is a very special still is such a wonderful example of what a Mom is. We hope she knows how much she is loved by all of her family and we wish her a very Happy Birthday!

PASTOR'S PONDERINGS

Acts 10:38 tells us, "Jesus of Nazareth ... Who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil." As Fall comes and school begins across our county once again, we will be looking to teach our young people and children that it is important to follow the right example, the right pattern. Christ is our pattern, but as we can see from this verse, there are some things in which we cannot follow Him. We can all go about doing good, but we cannot do all the miracles He did. How much more the obligation, then, to follow Him to the very limit of our capacity! The gift of healing seems to have been given to only a select few of the disciples, but the ability to do good is given to all. Beware of looking at Christ's unique miracles and saying, "I can't follow Him; I can't give sight to the blind, multiply the loaves and fishes, raise the dead and heal the possessed." God never called you to follow Christ a step beyond your own capacity that He has given you. Do not forget that Christ "went about doing good." When you and I do likewise, directed by the Holy Spirit, we are following Him as truly as if we were performing a spectacular miracle. Let us all go about doing good, both at home, school and at work.

Evelyne Jones Tucker, 78, passed away Sunday, July 1, 2012, after a heroic battle with cancer. Evelyne was preceded in death by her parents, Richard and Viola Jones, and her husband Robert "Tuck" Tucker. Born Jan. 28, 1934, she lived her life in a salvage yard, growing up in her father's business and then purchasing it with her husband in 1963 and restarting it as Tucker Auto Parts on the Fayetteville Highway in Lewisburg. Together - Tuck in sales, Evelyne in administration and bookkeeping - they worked tirelessly in growing their business and were well-known throughout the Middle Tennessee business community. However, her role as mother and grandmother was her greatest. She proudly boasted about having a child in Marshall County schools for over 35 consecutive years, and in that time she was an active leader and fundraiser for her children's activities - from band to basketball, from baseball to Boy Scouts, from tennis to scholastic team. Though living in Lewisburg for over 50 years, Chapel Hill remained where her roots were. A member of the 1952 Class of Forrest High School, she was an lifetime member of their alumni association and counted her classmates and childhood neighbors among her best friends. Evelyne was known for her red hair, her talent at quilting, her love of being left-handed, her passion for travel, her ability to tell jokes and especially her skills in the kitchen. Famous for her biscuits, fried peach pies, homemade candy and other southern specialities, she enjoyed the process of cooking as well as the fellowship that came with sharing her dishes. Most importantly, Evelyne loved people. She never met a stranger and even through her journey with cancer, she strove to connect with and lift up the people around her. She is survived by one sister, Helen Brandon of Athens, Ala., and four children, Thomas (Donella) Tucker of Abilene, Texas, Terry Tucker of Belfast, Torrie (David) Parsons of Columbia and Tiffany (Seth) Kendall of Lawrenceville, Ga. Grandchildren include John (Heather) Tucker and David Tucker of Lewisburg, Preston Tucker of Belfast, Kate and Kyle Parsons of Columbia and Isaac Kendall of Lawrenceville, Ga. She also had three step-grandchildren Tambrein and Eric Bates and Crystal Callahan of Texas. Lawrence Funeral Home

Happy Birthday to the most wonderful mother any son could ever have. You have given us so much in our lives from band-aids on skinned knees, to advise on life's difficult challenges. Kristy, Carol Ann, and I, along with all the rest of our family are blessed to call you our mother because of the love you have given us all our lives & to anyone you thought that needed your help. I am so proud of all your accomplishments, but most of all I am really proud to call you my Mama.

> Your loving son, Todd Shelton

"An amazing lady" that fits you to a T you are that and much more to me.

The mother to my hubby the Nanny to my girl God blessed us all by putting you in His world.

A great example worlds best cook A fun sexy grandma who's still got "the look"

May this be your best year yet with laughter-filled days We all want to say I love you in our own silly ways.

> Happy Birthday! Rhonda Shelton

Nanny,

Where do I start you mean so many different things to me! Friend, hero, grandma, and the list goes on and on. I LOVE all of the crazy but soooo much fun things we have had done over the years. We have danced in the movies, made insane pictures and we always have to go shopping!! I can still remember when I was little you used have a candy down in your kitchen and when I wanted a piece but mom said no you always went and got some form me and there was always suckers in it(those were my favorite and i think you knew these because that is what you always gave me). I am very blessed by God to have you in my life and I get to call you Nanny. Thank you for all of the GREAT memories over the years!! I love you and always will.

Love, Maria Shelton

Happy Birthday to an amazing lady. Bobbie Sue is the aunt everyone dreams of having. She has been there for me during good times and bad. She has held me while I cried on her shoulder and comforted me when I needed it most. She has celebrated the joyful events of my life with me and encouraged me. She is the aunt you know you can count on to drop everything just because you need her. I would like to think I am special and she only does these things for me, but the truth is, she does this for everyone. I am proud to say she is my aunt but also proud to say she is my friend.

Wishing you love and happiness on your birthday and every day of the year.

Deb, Garry and Family

Bobbie Sue,

We want to wish you a Happy Birthday. Your column, "A Step Back In Time" is very much appreciated and enjoyed.

Johnny and Peggy

Happy Birthday Bobbie Sue! Thanks for sharing your knowledge & tales of the past!! What a wonderful contribution to the Eagleville Times!!! We love it!!!!

Happy Birthday Bobbie Sue. We have swung through a lot together. Here's wishing many more years.

Jane Shelton

Happy Birthday Bobbie Sue Hope you have many more.

John & Thalia Perrell

As we all know, she is an amazing woman who knows no boundaries when it comes to helping others. There are so many wonderful qualities I could mention, but her compassion and strength are two qualities that I admire most about her. The love she has for family and friends, and the strength to continue on, through good times and bad, are immeasurable. She is the glue that holds our family together.

It is by her example that I strive to live my life...

DROUGHT AND FALL PLANS

Drought brings on all kind of feeding challenges for livestock owners. Good options to consider are the availability, needs and storage of your forage. The best program must meet the animals requirements as close to the normal pasture costs as possible. Here are a few tips to keep in mind:

- 1. The most important of all is, make sure quality water is available to animals.
- 2. Be careful with hay [especially sorghum types] cut under drought conditions. They may contain high levels of nitrate and prussic acids.

With our recent July rain, preparing, planning and planting fall forage can start a little sooner. Nitrogen will jumpstart your pasture and hay fields now. Don't forget about your wildlife plots.

Co-op has a good selection of your favorite seeds for you to mix and match for your fall wildlife plot. Stop by and let our specialists help you with your needs.

Kathleen Pugh Celebrates 100th Birthday

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On Saturday July 14th 2012, a large number of family and friends gathered to honor and celebrate the 100th birthday of Kathleen Pugh. Born July 10, 1912, she was the daughter of Mordica and Evie Lou Beasley Davis. The event was held at the NHC Healthcare Center in Lewisburg, Tennessee, where she is a resident. Kathleen, who has lived in Chapel Hill most of her life, married William Roy Pugh on December 23, 1929. The marriage was performed by Justice of the Peace, Ed S. Ezell, in the Ezell home dining room. Three children were born to this union.

Kathleen was a cafeteria worker at the Chapel Hill High School for 25 years, retiring in 1969. Her husband Roy, also was employed at the Chapel Hill High School for several years, as a custodian and later, employee of Henry Horton Park. The Pugh's were also avid gardeners; canning and preserving their harvest each year. Kathleen and Roy were married almost 73 years when Roy died in 2002, at the age of 90 years old.

James and Evelyn Plunkett are Patriotically dressed for the Fourth of July Sunday festivities at Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church. We love these two members of our church, they are dedicated and devoted to everyone they meet. Our church is honored to call these two people family. God Bless them both.

A Brunch was held at Ronnie and Cathy Parhams home July 27th for some of the Teachers/Friends. We had a warm and relaxing time sitting on the back porch listening to the waterfalls with laughing conversation of times past. As you see by the smiling faces, a good time was had by everyone. God Bless Them!

All Lacquered Up

I often reminisce of the many rich lessons my grandmother taught me growing up and reflecting them in my writings. Even on her deathbed those in her midst could not help but join in the laughter and lighthearted conversations she was known for. The conversations I remember most during this time were the jovial laughs and references to her wellmanicured hands and feet. See, the day before she died she had had her weekly manicure and pedicure but, this time she had added a rhinestone to the already bright and shiny ruby red fingernail polish. Her toes sparkled almost as bright as her personality with laughter and wit at every turn. With gel polish all the rage, I have to wonder what humor my grandmother would find today about nail polish lasting two to three weeks.

The two-week manicure seems all the rage among women I know—and why not, celebrities like Penelope Cruz and Jessica Alba are lining up for their appointments.

Whether you like neon yellow, hot pink, metallic silver, or classic red, everyone seems to love the lasting power of the gel manicure. The benefits of this chip resistant polish are it is quick drying, long lasting and obviously a time saver. However, these benefits may come with a higher price to pay besides the increased dollars to upgrade the polish. The lights used to cure the polish are just as damaging as the UV light we are trying to avoid. These lights are like tiny tanning beds that can cause discoloration, spots, wrinkles, thin skin, and skin cancer. Studies are already showing a correlation between an increase in skin cancer and the increase in popularity of these types of manicures.

These UV lights may accelerate the drying time of your nails, but they also speed up the signs of aging on your hands.

I am not advocating avoiding gel polishes or not indulging yourself in a good manicure. I am advocating going prepared to your next salon appointment with the tools and knowledge to protect your health and keeping your hands as youthful looking as possible. I recommend slathering on a broad spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of 15 or higher before your hands go under the UV lights. Using a sunscreen that incorporates anti-aging benefits will not only protect your skin, but will also improve their appearance. Your nails need a breather from polish to stay healthy and strong so give them a break now and again.

So before you get your nails all lacquered up, remember there is more to beautiful hands than just the nails. Do yourself a favor and treat your hands to a truly luxurious spa treatment by applying sunscreen with anti-aging properties. Not only will your hands be healthier and younger looking longer—you will also be reducing your risk of skin cancer. Indulge yourself with beautiful nails—so doll them up bright and enjoy your life!

Rutherford County Schools Named One Of Only 21 'Exemplary' Districts

Designation part of Tennessee's new accountability system

The Tennessee Department of Education has named Rutherford County Schools as one of only 21 "Exemplary" school districts in the state and the largest district to earn the designation.

Only one other district in the Nashville area — Franklin Special School District — earned the same distinction.

"Everyone in our district plays a part in our achievements, regardless of whether you are a custodian, secretary, central office employee, teacher, principal, parent or student," Director of Schools Don Odom said. "We emphasize a team-based approach to education, and it is crucial to our success we continue that strategy as we move forward."

For the past several years, Rutherford County Schools has stressed the importance of Professional Learning Communities in every school, which allows teachers and staff members to work toward collaborative solutions for students. Odom credits the work of those groups as a major factor in the district's accomplishments.

Education Commissioner Kevin Huffman announced the 21 exemplary districts today at an event in Sevierville.

These districts raised proficiency levels on the Tennessee Comprehensive Assessment Program tests; made substantial progress in closing gaps between groups of students; and ensured improvement for racial minorities, as well as students with disabilities, limited English proficiency and those from economically disadvantaged backgrounds.

"Growing results while closing achievement gaps is incredibly hard work," Huffman said. "We're excited with the overall results across the state, and we particularly want to highlight those districts that have excelled in both areas."

Tennessee's new accountability system replaces No Child Left Behind's Adequate Yearly Progress measures. Rather than expecting all districts to meet the same benchmarks year after year, the new system acknowledges that districts are starting from different places and rewards those that show the most growth.

The system, adopted after Tennessee secured a waiver from part of NCLB earlier this year, looks to districts to increase achievement levels for all students and reduce achievement gaps that exist between certain groups.

In 2011-2012, nearly every district in the state grew student achievement overall, but many did not successfully narrow achievement gaps or saw declines among particular student subgroups.

Districts that did not reach a majority of their achievement goals and did not significantly narrow a majority of achievement gaps are labeled as In Need of Improvement. These districts will meet in-person with department officials to set an aggressive, effective plan to meet the goals they missed last year.

Some districts met most of their goals in achievement, gap closure or even both, but saw declines among particular groups of students. These districts are In Need of Subgroup Improvement. Because the state strives to raise standards for all students, the districts labeled as In Need of Subgroup Improvement will focus efforts on addressing the declines among particular groups, such as students with disabilities.

Directors and data specialists at the Tennessee's eight Centers Of Regional Excellence, or COREs, will support all districts in their plans to continue and expand improvement in the coming year, including fostering relationships between districts so they may learn from each other's strengths.

A complete list of districts designated as: Exemplary, In Need of Improvement and In Need of Subgroup Improvement can be found on the Tennessee Department of Education website.

Our Welcome Policy

We extend a special welcome to those who are married, single, divorced, gay, filthy rich, dirt poor, yo no habla Ingles. The welcome is extended to crying new-borns, those who are as skinny as a rail and to those who need to shed a few pounds.

We welcome you if you can sing like Elvis Presley or like our pastor who can't carry a tune in a bucket. You are welcome here if you are just "browsing," just woke up or just got out of jail. We don't care if you are more Methodist than John Wesley or haven't been to church since little Joey's baptism.

We certainly welcome those over 60 but has not grown up yet and teenagers who are growing up too fast. We welcome soccer moms, NASCAR dads, starving artist, treehuggers, latte-sippers, vegetarians and junk food eaters. We welcome you if you are down in the dumps, a Republican, Democrat or Independent.

We welcome those who think the world is flat, work too hard, don't work at all, can't spell or because grandma is in town and wanted to go to church. You are welcome here if you blew all of your money on silly stuff or got some real good deals at yard sales lately.

We welcome those who are inked, pierced or both. We especially welcome those who could use a prayer right now, had religion shoved down your throat as a kid or simply got lost and ended up her by mistake.

We welcome tourist, seekers and doubters, bleeding hearts..and yes, even you!

Little Stories About You & Me By Nancy Allen

Domino Dan

He sat alone on the park bench near the homeless shelter. The strain of the past year shown on his hardened face as he rubbed his cold rough hands together to keep them warm.

How had he come to this? The day the first domino fell he hardly noticed. He was happy as he sped down the road. He even smiled as the cop wrote the speeding ticket that he pitched in the glove compartment with the others.

Two months later in the early morning hours when Dan was headed home from a party he once again saw the blue lights in his rear view mirror.

"Sir, have you been drinking?" asked the

"Yes, sir, just the tinniest littler bit," said Dan in his best slurred brogue.

"Step out of the car, please," said the

"Are you sure you want me to do that?" said Dan as he stumbled from the car.

The officer took Dan's arm and led him over to the patrol car. "Sit here in the car until I make a report."

The officer began to check Dan's name through the system. "There is a warrant out for your arrest for five unpaid speeding tickets. I'll have to take you in," said the "Awe, don't do that. I meant to pay those tickets," said Dan. "Here take this hundred dollar bill, I'm sure that will cover your trouble."

"Are you trying to bribe an officer of the "Well, we don't have to call it that, do we? I know you guys don't get paid much. Let's just call it a little gift, what ya say?

"You have the right to remain silent. . . "

Oh how Dan wished he had remained silent as the officer took him downtown and booked him. As the results of being in jail for a month Dan lost his job. With no job there went his apartment and even his car was eventually repossessed. He was too ashamed to call on family and friends to help. He had not talked to his ailing mother in almost a year now. His unemployment money went mostly for food and liquor and an occasional motel room when the weather was just too cold.

Dan sat on the park bench where he had slept most nights over the past year. He was at the bottom and he knew it. As he thought about his life he began to think: when you're at the bottom it's time to move up, so he pulled himself off the bench and headed for the shelter. A shower and a hot meal would give him the courage to move forward. He would begin by uprighting one domino at a time. After showering and dressing in fresh donated clothes, Dan stood in line with people he had often spent time with. They talked about the weather and who won the game. As Dan sat down at a table with other homeless men, he reached over and shook hands with the shelter manager. "I'm ready to make a change," he said. "I wonder if I could use your phone. I want to call my mother."

What To Do When It's Hot

be one of the hottest on record for much the country.

Americans have handled the heat in different ways.

Some are living in their basements, others start their cars 10 minutes before they have to leave their basement. Some people get a few good books and hunker down in an air conditioned room, and some go out jogging because... well... I don't know why anyone would be so dumb. It is unlikely that heat stroke is on their bucket list, but any other answer eludes me.

When the temperature cooled into the high 90's, I took my kids to a water park. I could be content to soak in the shallows of a wave pool or float around on a tube, slowing crisping myself, but it was too hot for lying in the sun. I would have to immerse my body in water to stay cool. Besides, at this particular water park, there were no wave pools or tube rivers. Simply a lot of lukewarm water with a lot of slides, towers, ropes and pulleys meant to test your affinity for extreme sports.

My kids loved this park. Even my daughter, who shares my unfortunate fear of heights, climbed a 25-foot wooden ladder and slid down a 5 foot slide into thin air. I am ashamed to say that my only thought was one of relief that I wouldn't have to climb that tower to get her back

My 10-year old, on the other hand, doesn't know what fear is until it is too late. I think a little fear is healthy. It's

This summer may what keeps most of us alive. The only thing that has kept my boy alive so far is threat of video game deprivation.

> "There will be no video games this weekend if you kill yourself."

> He has no fear and he has no shame. I bought him a new swimming suit the day before, but they were a little loose. I was the only one bothered by the fact that his little white behind kept peeking out of them. I pretended I didn't know him.

> My main haunts were the "banana slide" which was a long, slow, wedgie-proof slide - and a lawn chair in the shade. This worked out well because these were the places my 10-year old would not be. At least I knew if he was riding a short, fast, chute-slide, his pants would stay up.

> My 15-year old son had the nerve to tell my daughter, "Mom, wouldn't be caught dead on the Tarzan ropes..." Which is why I was forced to swing on a 30-foot rope, drop into an 8-foot watery abyss, and receive the full benefit of an exhilarating ride, which, as far as I could tell, was a sinus cavity full of water. If there were any other benefits, I was having trouble recognizing them.

> Having water up my nose somewhat deflated the impact of the "Take that!" that I was trying to give my son. The fact that he wasn't even watching and nobody had taken a picture meant it didn't really happen anyway. The water in my nose was proof enough for me.

> At this point, a book and an air-conditioned room were looking really good.

Seniors and Dehydration

By Mary Ann Steelman-RN

As the temperature continues to rise, it is important for everyone to take measures to stay safe from the sun and heat. It is especially important for seniors to take precautions. Seniors should remember that, as they age, they become more susceptible to certain ailments and overall declines in health. One of the more serious, yet preventable, conditions to look out for is dehydration.

Certain conditions and characteristics of aging cause seniors to be more susceptible to dehydration. For example, some medications seniors take may cause them to sweat more resulting in water loss. Other medications cause dehydration because they are diuretic. Another reason for dehydration is that as people age, their senses of thirst and their appetites decrease. Sicknesses, especially ones accompanied by vomiting, may cause dehydration. Diminished kidney function also comes with aging. As a result, seniors' bodies aren't as well able to conserve fluid.

Some people underestimate the power of water. When a senior is dehydrated, the effects can be disastrous. For instance, dehydration can cause a urinary tract infection (UTI). Common symptoms of UTIs include cloudy urine, a frequent urge to urinate and night sweats. However, in the elderly, UTIs can cause erratic behaviors. Common symptoms in the elderly are falling, hallucinations and confusion. This is why the symptoms of a UTI can sometimes be confused with the symptoms of certain neurologic disorders such as dementia or a stroke.

Seniors who have dementia are also less likely to consume enough water throughout the day, even in the warmer weather. They may forget to drink water or just not be thirsty. Keeping an eye on their fluid intake and reminding them to drink water are ways to help prevent them from becoming dehydrated. Often, keeping a package of bottled water in their refrigerator and counting the bottles missing each time you visit is an easy method to use if you suspect your elderly loved one isn't drinking enough water.

If your senior is experiencing confusion, muscle weakness, dizziness or irritability, they may be dehydrated. Other signs to look out for include fever, disorientation, UTIs, dry skin and poor elasticity in the skin.

There are many simple ways to help make sure a senior stays hydrated. Limit your senior's outdoor activities in the heat of the day and instead, help them find indoor activities to stay occupied. When the weather gets severely warm, you could check on your loved ones to make sure they are doing okay and staying hydrated. Keep hydrating beverages readily accessible for your senior. Water is the best beverage to help with hydration, but fruit and vegetable juices, milk and tea are also hydrating. It is also good to keep high fluid fruits and other high fluid foods at your loved one's place. Some high fluid foods are soups, applesauce, yogurt, grapes and carrots.

If you suspect dehydration in a senior, it is critical that you consult their physician and begin rehydrating them with water and other hydrating drinks as soon as possible.

For those of you that don't have internet email, you tend to miss out on some pretty good statistics or jokes that get passed around the internet. Enjoy some of this interesting fun. *Intended for fun only. No guarantees to authenticity.

John is the kind of guy you love to hate. He is always in a good mood and always has something positive to say. When someone would ask him how he was doing, he would reply, 'If I were any better, I would be twins!'

He was a natural motivator.

If an employee was having a bad day, John was there telling the employee how to look on the positive side of the situation.

Seeing this style really made me curious, so one day I went up and asked him, 'I don't get it!'

'You can't be a positive person all of the time. How do you do it?'

He replied, 'Each morning I wake up and say to myself, you have two choices today. You can choose to be in a good mood or...you can choose to be in a bad mood, I choose to be in a good mood.'

Each time something bad happens, I can choose to be a victim or...I can choose to learn from it. I choose to learn from it.

Every time someone comes to me complaining, I can choose to accept their complaining or...I can point out the positive side of life. I choose the positive side of life.

'Yeah, right, it's not that easy,' I protested.

'Yes, it is,' he said. 'Life is all about choices. When you cut away all the junk, every situation is a choice. You choose how you react to situations. You choose how people affect your mood.'

You choose to be in a good mood or bad mood The bottom line: 'It's your choice how you live your life.'

I reflected on what he said. oon hereafter, I left the Tower Industry to start my own business. e lost touch, but I often thought about him when I made a choice about life instead of reacting to it.

Several years later, I heard that he was involved in a serious accident, falling some 60 feet from a communications tower.

After 18 hours of surgery and weeks of intensive care, he was released from the hospital with rods placed in his back.

I saw him about six months after the

When I asked him how he was, he replied, 'If I were any better, I'd be twins...Wanna see my scars?'

I declined to see his wounds, but I did ask him what had gone through his mind as the accident took place.

'The first thing that went through my mind was the well-being of my soon-to-be born daughter,' he replied. 'Then, as I lay on the ground, I remembered that I had two choices: I could choose to live or...I could choose to die. I chose to live.'

'Weren't you scared? Did you lose consciousness?' I asked.

He continued, '...the paramedics were great.'

They kept telling me I was going to be fine. But when they wheeled me into the ER and I saw the expressions on the faces of the doctors and nurses, I got really scared. In their eyes, I read 'he's a dead man'. I knew I needed to take action.'

'What did you do?' I asked.

'Well, there was a big burly nurse shouting questions at me,' said John. 'She asked if I was allergic to anything 'Yes, I replied.' The doctors and nurses stopped working as they waited for my reply. I took a deep breath and yelled, 'Gravity'.

Over their laughter, I told them, 'I am choosing to live. Operate on me as if I am alive, not dead.'

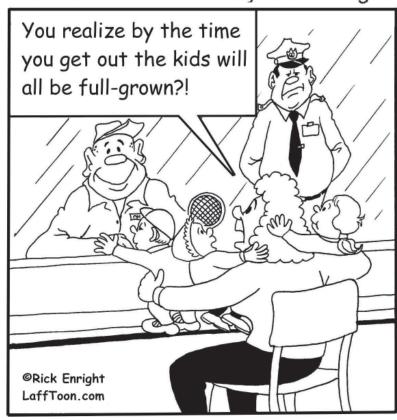

He lived, thanks to the skill of his doctors, but also because of his amazing attitude.....I learned from him that every day we have the choice to live fully.

Attitude, after all, is everything. 'Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own.' Matthew 6:34.

After all today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday.

An Easy Chillin' Treat For Your Dog

With this powerfully hot summer, here is a very easy treat that your dog will enjoy.

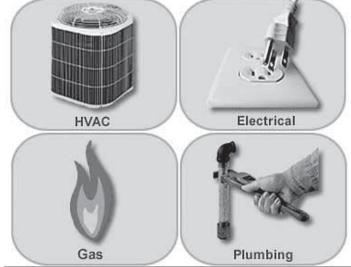

Pour water into a bowl (a pie plate works great). Add a handful of dry dog food and a few dog treats into the water. Place in the freezer. Once frozen, pop out of the container onto a nice shady area outside and watch your dog enjoy.

Note: Bigger is not always better. My first attempt at this was using a large tupperware bowl. The treat gets too boring for the dog after a while

Electronic Recycling Program

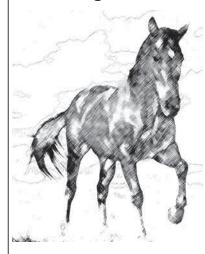

Great news! Starting August 1, 2012, The City of Eagleville will begin a new service for its residents. Employees of the Eagleville Police and Fire Departments will pick up old/broken televisions and computer equipment to transport to a recycling center in Murfreesboro. There will be no cost to City of Eagleville residents for this service.

Mayor Tune and the City Council recognized the need for this type of assistance, especially for senior citizens; as disposing of heavy televisions, computers and electronic equipment is not allowed at the local Rutherford County trash collection site in Eagleville.

Citizens can call Eagleville City Hall at 615-274-2922 to schedule a pickup.

E agleville Country Horse Show

Our Eagleville Country Horse Show is just 'round the corner, scheduled for Saturday, August 11th (rain date Aug 18), at the TVPPA grounds on Chapel Hill Pike (Hwy 99 near Floyd Road).

Opening ceremonies will commence at 5:00 pm, performed by renown horseman Rafael Valle and his Palomino Tennessee Walking Horse partner, Ivory Pal. Always a community-pleaser, the ECHS is offering even more entertainment this year: Great local musical talent at the pavilion for toe-tappin' fun. Non-riders can join the Cake Walk sponsored by Main Street Cafè. Concession meals are available and can be enjoyed ringside or under the pavilion. Pamela Parton, equine photographer, will be on site to capture those memorable moments.

Eagleville Country Horse Show is a charitable event benefiting the Eagleville Community Center, promoting family fun and friendly show ring competition. All critters equine and welcome: ponies, mules, horses, gaited and non-gaited. Riders of all ages can participate in equitation and FUN game classes.

Admission: Adults $5, children age 5-12 $2, little ones 4-under free. Class entry fee is $5, except Stick Horse. Prize & classes (except Stick Horse) 1st place-$10, 2nd-$8, 3rd-$5, 4th-5th placess ribbons only. All horses entering show ground must have current negative Coggins papers on hand. Saddle Horses/TWHs shall be barefoot, keg or trail pleasure shod - shoes not to exceed 3/8" x 3/4" wide (no pads or other action devices). Riders 12 years and under are highly encouraged to wear helmets. Contact Cheryl Mathisen at (615) 473-9578 for further information.
