The 6th annual "Santa in the Neighborhood" is coming soon with The Santa Express rolling through neighborhoods beginning Monday, Dec. 13th and continuing through December 21st.

Special stops will give families the opportunity to see Santa, meet Santa's Elves and present their wish lists. This year marks the beginning of a new addition when organizers joined partnership with P.A.W.S.1 Rutherford County Animal Shelter and Barkaroo Dog Festival. This partnership means the Santa Express will also begin collecting much needed supplies, toys, food, treats, old sheets, and more for the abandoned dogs and lost animals at the shelter (complete wish list on the website).

Children are welcome to bring Santa a new toy, treat, food or supply for his special dogs and cats. Of course, this is not mandatory to be a part of the Santa Express, just one more positive community event.

You can find more information at www.santaintheneighborhood.com

Eagleville Veterans' Day Ceremony 2010

By Cadet Second Lieutenant Austin Duke

On November 11, 2010, Eagleville School put on its annual Veterans' Day program in the school gym. The program began at about one fifty that afternoon and lasted the remainder of the school day. Retired Lieutenant Colonel Joel Payne, the senior army instructor of Eagleville High School JROTC, gave the opening remarks to the student body as well as several parents and the thirtyfive veterans in attendance. The program had many feature such as a slideshow recognizing veterans researched by the JROTC cadets and performances by the Eagleville School band and choruses.

Each veteran in attendance was given a certificate by the Eagleville School principal, Mrs. Rhonda Holton, in appreciation of their service to our

The Veterans' Day program is a time honored tradition at Eagleville School. The school is unique in being the only high school in the county to have such a program. It has been run and organized primarily by the Eagleville High School JROTC program as a service learning project for several years. Although the JROTC is in charge of the program, no one can deny that it is indeed a school wide and community event.

This year's program was a particularly special occasion for everyone in attendance. The program featured the awarding of the Purple Heart to the Family of Private First Class Vincent Gammone III. Vincent was a graduate of Eagleville High School and was a dedicated member of the band and JROTC. After high school, he joined the United States Marine Corps and attained the rank of Private First Class. Vincent was killed in action in Afghanistan in August of this year. Giving this award was Major Byron Lawson of the Marine Corps. Receiving the award on Vincent's behalf was his mother, Lorraine Gammone.

To The Citizens of Eagleville,

It has been a very humbling HONOR and experience to serve as the Mayor of Eagleville.

Thank You for all the support and encouraging calls I have received. As we all know, there is no way that everyone will ever be happy with decisions made by government officials, but I am thankful for the opportunity to be a small part of the decision making and the trust you have given me.

I have never made any promises, but I will make this promise. I will always be truthful and honest and represent Eagleville with pride and dignity.

As your mayor, I have worked very hard to re-establish services and work to enhance the quality of life for all our citizens.

We have many challenges in front of us. I look forward to meeting these challenges that will in turn bring jobs and more business back to Main Street.

Humans are a creature of habit and most all of us are reluctant and cautious of any type change. I'll be the first to say, I am very cautious of change, however, history tells us nothing remains the same, so change is inevitable. The best way to control change is to take control of our future. Hopefully, this next year, we will see the benefit of consistent work with county officials to see the reality of the addition of our school.

The long overdue and much needed public sewer system, needed by the city in able to survive, hopefully, will begin construction this next year as well.

YES, there are many decision to be decided by your local officials and if we don't take control of our future, at some point and time, the powers above will decide what is best for Eagleville. I am prepared and look forward, on my part of the decision making, to enhance the quality of life for every citizen of Eagleville.

Thank You for allowing me to be your Mayor, and as always, support our school and local merchants.

If I can assist in any way, call my personal cell number 849-6509
Sincerely,
Sam Tune, Mayor

Meet Valerie Blackwell, PA-C, MPAS

Eagleville Medical Clinic

I moved to the Eagleville area 1988 from San Diego, California.

I moved to the Eagleville area 1988 from San Diego, California. Work brought me to Middle Tennessee, however, as reality set in, I made a career change. During that transition, I worked at Vanderbilt University Medical Center as a Research Associate for 6 years before attending Trevecca Nazarene University in 1995. Immediately after graduating from the Physician Assistant program, I began working in local medical practices and emergency departments until deployed in the United States Army in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom March 2003. After deployment, I began working at Alvin C. York Department of Veterans' Affairs from May 2006 to October 2010 in Primary Care. I continue to contract with the Department of Defense during my personal time working with the Troops.

My parents moved to the Middle Tennessee area in the early 1990's to retire and live closer to their grandchildren. My father was a mechanical engineer, my mother was a nurse. I am the oldest of three children. My sister married a Marine and lives with their three boys in Minnesota. My brother married a nurse and lives with their two children in North Carolina. I was raised in a farming community and enjoyed a small school atmospheric community and enjoyed a small school atmosphere. My high school graduating class totaled 100 students. Activities that I participated in school included Field Hockey, Basketball, Track, Concert Band, Marching Band, Chorus, and Aerospace.

I have fond memories playing at my Uncles' farms (dairy farmers), adopting stray cats, feeding the cows, smelling the sweet feed in the cattle troughs, catching frogs in murky ponds, growing and harvesting garden fresh vegetables and flowers, 'snow days', climbing trees, playing in creeks, saving the snakes in the summer, running forever barefoot all day long, watching 'the big guys' working on cars in the barn. I still love to smell sweet feed, play in creeks, the sound of an old John Deere Tractor, grow vegetables in the garden, save the poly wogs from a drying puddle, watch the 'big guys' work on cars (now in Rauschs' "barn"), ride my horse down an old country road........

Slowing down, getting off the 'merry-go-round', appreciating what I took for granted as a child, holding onto the small town that still remains small and familiar. I am finally home, have always wanted to work at the Eagleville Clinic. I patiently waited my turn. I look forward to meeting my patients' and their families, listening to their medical concerns, searching for solutions, and working towards wellness in their lives. It is a walk that I try to embrace for myself and with the assistance available at the Eagleville Clinic, you can too.

A Step Back in Time By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas Harpeth Lick Cumberland Presbyterian Church

"In 1824, the Elk Presbytery held their spring meeting at the Harpeth Lick Meeting House." This is the earliest recorded date of a Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Williamson County, that has been discovered thus far".

In 1841, Zacheus Wilson, a Revolutionary War soldier, gave 2 ½ acres for a Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which was given the name, Harpeth Lick. On May 15 of that year, he signed his name to a deed stating 'for and in consideration of the natural love and affection which he said that Zacheus Wilson hath and beareth unto the people of God – doth given, grant, and confirm unto the said Thomas White, Hatcher, William and John L. Wilson, commissioners and their successors, a certain parcel of land, for the use and benefit of a sect called the Cumberland Presbyterians for a church. Zacheus Wilson was between 70 and 80 year old at this time.

Harpeth Lick Cumberland Presbyterian Church

This property, given for a church, was acreage from the track of land where Zacheus Wilson lived. The first church was built on Owen Hill Road, in the first curve west of the railroad. Little is known of the early history of the church except that the log church building was used for a school as well as for a church and that it was burned during an outbreak of smallpox in the community. After the disease abated the church was burned for fear

Samuel Wilson was the first member of the Cumberland Presbyterian at Harpeth Lick. Simon Elliott Wilson, son of Zacheus' Wilson was one of the pastors of the early church. In 1903 Lemuel R. Wilson, grandson of Zacheus was pastor. Some of the old families that attended the church were Watson, Brown, Wilson, Connell, Bizzell, White, Graham, Farrah, Rickman and Andrews. The Church is a viable link between the past and the present.

The present Harpeth Lick Cumberland Presbyterian Church is located approximately 3/4 of a mile due south of the original site. This area is called the Cove Community, which is in the twenty-first Civil District of Williamson County

The building date of the present church is not known. The logs to build the present church came off George Madison White's farm. It was constructed, when square head nails, were in use. One of the outstanding charms of the church is the original pews with wooden partitions. In the old days men sat on the right side, and the women and children on the left. Should a visitor sit on the wrong side, the preacher or an elder did not hesitate to ask them to move.

The present elders of the church are: Bobby Crafton, Barry Cooper, Mary Ann White Newcomb and Patricia Ann Wilson Peach*

*Patricia Peach is a descendant of the early settlers, the Wilsons, of Harpeth Lick.

The Harpeth Lick Cumberland Presbyterian Church will be open for the College Grove Tour of Homes. Franklin D. Wilson will be on site with more history of the Church and the surrounding area.

THE COVE

The Cove Community is located in the southeastern section of Williamson County, two miles west of Allisona. The area covers several miles on both sides of the old Bethesda-Cross-Keys road, now called the Arno-Allisona Road.

This area is one of spectacular beauty, its hills and hollows folding away into the distance. The high ridges in the area, form watersheds for the Duck River on one side, and the Harpeth on the other.

In early pioneer days there was an abundance of deer, bear, turkey, buffalo and a lot of small game that was used for the survival of the settlers. There were also wolves and panthers that roamed this area.

The settlers of the cove were proud and very independent on their small but fertile farms. Early settlers of the cove were the sons of Robert and Eleanor Wilson and their families. Other later families were the Watsons, Ladd, Connell, Bizzell, Simmons, White, Rickman, brown, graham, Andrews, Farrah, Criswell, Crafton and Biggers.

The Cove is supported by three churches; the historic Harpeth Lick Cumberland Presbyterian, The Beech Grove United Methodist and the Allisona Church of Christ. The name "Harpeth Lick" comes from days of long ago, when wild animals came to the salt licks in meadows behind the > Church, to get salt and water from the springs.

> When the Civil War began, many of the settlers would not tolerate slavery. This caused the section to be divided into hostile camps, some siding with the North and some with the South. There were three Biggers Brothers that fought in the Civil War. Will and one of his brothers fought on different sides. Will fought for the South, while his brother fought for the North. Before the war ended, Will was sent home with a heart ailment. After returning home, Will rode his horse to Franklin, to visit his brother who was headquartered, with his northern comrades. After returning home, several southern soldiers came to his home, carried Will on Pulltight Hill, shot and killed him. OWEN HILL MASONIC LODGE #172 F. & A.M. -ST. JOHNS DAY DINNER

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On Saturday, December 18th, at 12 o'clock noon, the Owen Hill Masonic Lodge will carry out an annual tradition, the St. Johns Day Dinner, at the Flat Creek Community Center in Williamson County.

The observance, first held 162 years ago on December 1848, is in honor of two St. Johns; St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist to whom modern day Masons dedicate their lodge. The dinner menu, unchanged since the first dinner, consists of country ham, roast turkey, corn bread dressing, green beans, giblet gravy and oyster stew. All Master Masons are invited.

The Owen Hill Lodge #172 of Free & Accepted Masons (F & AM) was charted by the Grand Lodge of Tennessee, October 1848. It was first located in the Owen Hill Community, which was a thriving community, prior to the War Between the States.

Williamson County in 1817.

In 1850, George C. Kinnard, sold a track of land and use of a spring, to James S. Ogilivie, C. M. Comstock, J. B. Wilson, Rev. William Burns, W. N. Haley, James P. Allison, E. L. Jordan, J. B. Wilson and Johnson Jordan, who were members of Owen Hill Lodge and trustees of the Owen Hill Female Academy. A two-story building was built with the ground floor used as the academy and the upper floor for the "Owen Hill Masonic Lodge F&AM".

All that is left of this building are the four corner stones (sand stone) all still in place. The spring, a few feet from the northwest corner stone, still flows. A huge pile of hand made bricks marks the building site.

This meeting place served the membership until 1885, when they purchased a two-story building, known as the Jordan-Swaim Store, in Allisona. The ground floor was a country store and U. S. Post Office and the upper floor served as the lodge hall. This building was destroyed by fire in 1955 and the site is presently Rigsby's parking lot. After the fire, meetings were held in Chapel Hill for a short time. A new site in College Grove was selected, and purchased from J. P. Covington. A block building was constructed, where it continues as an active lodge today, with a membership of fifty-five. Eight have been members fifty or more years.

Although The Owen Hill Lodge #172 is not listed on the College Grove Tour of Homes, they will be also open for visitors on Sunday afternoon, December 5th

The Simmons Hill School, one of Williamson County one-room schools, was built in 1898. Mr. and Mrs. John Simmons gave the land for the school. Mr. Simmons, for whom the school was named, expressed a concern for the walking students so far to school. His donated land was a central location, and would easily cut off a mile or two for the walkers, the only means of getting to school in those days.

The one-room school consisted of grades one through eight with only one teacher. A wood-burning stove heated the building and water was drawn from a well nearby, to meet

The board of Education closed the tiny school in the school year of 1946-47. The land and building was sold to a neighbor, Paul White. The existing students were transported to a school at College Grove.

There are several cemeteries in the Cove. They are Biggers, Beech Grove (Black), Matthew Wilson, George Madison White, Billy White, Will White, Brown, Pitt and Ladd.

In early days there were the Cherokee Indians to the east, but the Choctaw and Chickasaw were near-by. Many Indian artifacts have been found over the cove. There is said to be an Indian burial ground on the Bizzell farm in the Cove.

EAGLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL - CLASS OF 1966 REUNION

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On November 13, 2010, the graduating class of 1966 held a class reunion at the Carriage Lane Inn Reception Room, in Murfreesboro. Nine former classmates; Vern Anderson, Teddy Binkley, Sandra Braswell, Jean Pate Chrisman, Betty Dalton, Betty Gayle Floyd, Peggy Frost, Larry Redmond, Jerry Taylor and their guest enjoyed an evening of good food, reminiscing old memories of their school days, looking at old school annuals and visiting. Unable to attend the get-to-gather were Peggy Hay, Sandra Pate, Billy T. Lynch, Bailey Pressgrove and Leland Underwood. Two class members: Brenda Lamb and David Dixon are deceased

In 1966 the senior class dedicated "The Lone Eagleville" as an appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Elmore. Mrs. Martha Elmore was their first grade teacher, and Mr. Elmore, their principal and advisor, guided them in their last year of school.

Soon after graduation in 1966 this group of newly graduates made the traditional "Senior Trip" to Washington D. C., touring many governmental and historic places. Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Elmore and teacher, Joe Shelton, accompanied the group as chaperones. The trip to Washington was made by bus, driven by Mr. Benjamin Pewitt, a bus driver of the Franklin Interurban. Mrs. Benjamin "Ila" Warf Pewitt, who recently deceased, also accompanied the group. Thanks to Wendell Warf for sharing the Washington picture, from his late sisters' possessions.

This was the last group of graduates from Eagleville High School to make this customary "senior trip" to Washington.

Library Giving Tree

This holiday season, Linebaugh Public Library System hopes to encourage the community to not only borrow but also to give.

During the month of December, the Linebaugh, Smyrna, Eagleville, and Myrtle Glanton Lord library branches will display Giving Trees. Ornaments on the Giving Trees feature books, audiobooks, and DVDs from the libraries' wishlists, items that the library might otherwise be unable to purchase.

"We know the holidays bring out a giving spirit in many. The Giving Trees are an easy way for people to show their support for their local public library," said LPLS Director Rita Shacklett.

Other ornaments give the option of making a donation to the library's adult or juvenile bookfund. Donations can be made in any amount. Contributions to the Giving Tree program are tax-deductible.

Donations may be given in memory of someone who has passed away, or as a tribute to honor a family member, friend, or colleague, Shacklett said.

"By selecting a book from our Giving Tree, you can make a contribution in honor of that hard-to-shop-for person on your list, or in memory of a loved one, while helping to expand the library's collection," she said.

The library will place a bookplate in selected books identifying both the donor and the honoree. Those who make a contribution in honor or in memory of someone will be given a card which the donor can send to notify the honoree or the honoree's family of the contribution.

This is the third year for the LPLS Giving Tree program. In 2009, Linebaugh and Smyrna Libraries received more than $2400 in donations through the program.

Linebaugh Public Library is located at 105 W. Vine St. in Murfreesboro. Smyrna Public Library is located at 400 Enon Springs Rd. W. in Smyrna. Eagleville Bicentennial Public Library is located at 317 Hwy 99E in Eagleville. MGL Library is located inside the Patterson Park Community Center, at 521 Mercury Blvd. in Murfreesboro. The Library is the cornerstone of our community, enriching lives through free resources for learning, fun, and opportunity. For more information, call 615-893-4131 or visit www.linebaugh.org.

Heart of Tennessee Chapter and Pitney Bowes Invite Public to Send a "Touch of Home" to Service Members, Veterans and Family Members this Holiday Season

"Holiday Mail for Heroes" to Deliver Greetings to U.S. Military Members and Veterans

For a fourth year, the American Red Cross and Pitney Bowes Inc. are teaming up to deliver holiday cards to service members, their families and veterans, many of whom will be far from home this holiday season. The Holiday Mail for Heroes program provides Americans with the opportunity to send holiday greetings and a note of thanks to our men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces. The Heart of Tennessee Chapter is encouraging local families to commemorate Veterans Day this year by sending a card to a soldier to thank them for their service to our country.

Between now and December 10, the public is invited to send a "touch of home" through holiday cards that contain messages of cheer and appreciation. The Red Cross and Pitney Bowes will then screen cards for hazardous materials, sort and package the cards, and deliver them to military bases and hospitals, veteran's hospitals and other locations during the holidays. Pitney Bowes is providing all screening, packaging and shipping at no charge. The Red Cross will utilize hundreds of volunteers to sort and box cards for delivery to service men and women, veterans and family members in November and December.

"Sending a greeting card is a small effort that makes a big impact for our American heroes during the holiday season," said Beth Ferguson, Development Director for the Heart of Tennessee Chapter. "The American Red Cross serves and supports members of the military, veterans, and their families by providing emergency communications, comfort and assistance each day. The Holiday Mail for Heroes program continues the Red Cross tradition of service to the armed forces'

Grand Marshals Ronnie & Gloria Hill

For those of you new to the community, you may not know Ronnie & Gloria Hill, but if you're a long time resident of Eagleville, Ronnie & Gloria needs no introduction. When you think of the Eagleville City Park, it's for certain; there would not be one without the tremendous effort put forth by Ronnie and Gloria. Serving on the city council for 18 years, (12 of those as vicemayor), Ronnie, along with Gloria, have volunteered much of their own time to spearhead the park project, but have often contributed financially as well, and were successful in utilizing 100% of the matching grant at its close. A local business owner, Ronnie, who owns Farm Sales & Service continues to donate equipment utilized to maintain the park amongst other things at various city and community events such as the Antique Tractor Show. Gloria was active in the founding stages of the city of Eagleville's beautification committee in 2003 when her son and others in the community were deployed to fight the war in Iraq. To honor those who served, Gloria decked out the downtown Eagleville area in Red, White, and Blue. Gloria is always willing to lend a hand with beautification projects, pitch in at various community events, and is always willing to help out anyone in need.

Thanks Ronnie and Gloria for your giving spirit and lasting contributions to the community that will be enjoyed by many for years to come.

Smotherman Residence 2156 Little Rock Rd, Eagleville

With candy canes lining the front walk, this home is festively decorated both inside and out. A beautiful handmade Christmas quilt hanging made by the owner's mother decorates the wall by the stairway, while the newly added living room will host a traditional Christmas tree with an accumulation of ornaments both old and new, reflecting the ages and growth of the family. Be sure to check out the newly renovated kitchen and step outside to the converted garage, where guests can relax in one of the many rocking chairs in front of a beautifully decorated wood burning fireplace.

A featured story in the Daily News Journal in 2008, ('Joy in the Journey), the Carey residence is a large antebellum home built in the 1820's. Adding to its nostalgic features, are pieces of the original home that have been strategically recycled throughout; including the family room fireplace that has been reconstructed with rocks original to the farm, and mantle from old ceiling timbers. Keeping with the old-fashioned holiday theme, fresh wreaths, garland, candles, and other natural Christmas décor can be found throughout this beautifully restored home, while modern Christmas accents add a festive flair.

Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church - 8151 Hant Hollow Rd, Rockvale

Recently celebrating its 210th anniversary, the Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, rich in history and steeped in traditions, is one of the oldest churches in Rutherford County belonging to the original Concord Baptist Association. The congregation, led by Rev. Bobby Maxwell, has carried on time-honored holiday traditions like the large Christmas tree in the sanctuary covered with unique ornaments brought from the homes of each church member, and hanging of the greens. Poinsettias and nativities can be found throughout, all beautifully framed by the church's stained-glass windows that serve in honor or in memory of church members, both past and present.

Darnell Residence 4353 Hwy. 41-A North, Eagleville

This custom home has an open floor plan that is perfect for ushering in the holidays and entertaining family and friends. Close attention to detail can be found throughout the home, as custom tile designed by the owners sets the stage for a variety of Christmas trees, each with their own unique theme. A Poinsettia theme carries throughout the dining room with place settings of china and into the living room with a Poinsettia themed Christmas tree. A curio cabinet on the stairway landing hosts a variety of special dishes once belonging to the owner's mother, leading to the upstairs bedrooms that each has their own unique Christmas tree, and the bonus room which carries a lodge theme. *This residence is currently for sale! WINTERIZING YOUR PETS

Just as your car and home may need a little special attention before the cold weather gets here, so do your pets. Cold and wet freezing weather are the kind of conditions that can cause illness and even death in your pets. Here are some tips to consider:

- * Keep drinking water from freezing and feed pets more food in the winter to maintain normal body temperature.
- * Keep pets away from poisons, such as poison for rodents and antifreeze.
- * Check the pets outdoor shelter and make sure it has clean dry bedding and a water-resistant door flap.
- * Keep your pets groomed and flea-tick free, this helps them battle the winter elements.
- * Short haired pets may need extra protection like a coat, older animals need added attention.

Please shop the Co-op for your pets needs. We carry a full line of pet foods and products. We have dog houses, wire enclosures, cedar shavings, heated water bowls and much more. Please feel free to direct questions to our trained staff, they will assist you in keeping your pets happy and healthy.

HISTORY & FAMILIES

FROM THE WORLD WIDE WEB - WWW

For those of you that don't have internet email, you tend to miss out on some pretty good statistics or jokes that get passed around the internet. Enjoy some of this interesting fun. *Intended for fun only. No guarantees to authenticity.

I grew up with practical parents. A mother, God love her, who washed aluminum foil after she cooked in it, then reused it. She was the original recycle queen, before they had a name for it... A father who was happier getting old shoes fixed than buying new ones.

Their marriage was good, their dreams focused. Their best friends lived barely a wave away.

I can see them now, Dad in trousers, tee shirt and a hat and Mom in a house dress, lawn mower in one hand, and dish-towel in the other. It was the time for fixing things.. A curtain rod, the kitchen radio, screen door, the oven door, the hem in a dress. Things we keep

It was a way of life, and sometimes it made me crazy. All that re-fixing, eating, renewing, I wanted just once to be wasteful. Waste meant affluence. Throwing things away meant you knew there'd always be more.

But then my mother died, and on that clear summer's night, in the warmth of the hospital room, I was struck with the pain of learning that sometimes there isn't any more.

Sometimes, what we care about most gets all used up and goes away...never to return.. So... while we have it.... it's best we love it.... and care for it... and fix it when it's broken...... and heal it when it's sick.

This is true. for marriage... and old cars... and children with bad report cards... and dogs with bad hips... and aging parents... and grandparents. We keep them because they are worth it, because we are worth it.

Some things we keep. Like a best friend that moved away or a classmate we grew up with.

There are just some things that make life important, like people we know who are special..... and so, we keep them close!

I received this from someone who thinks I am a 'keeper', so I've sent it to the people I think of in the same way... Good friends are like stars.... You don't always see them, but you know they are always there. Keep them close!

TEN THINGS GOD WON'T ASK ON THAT DAY

- 1.... God won't ask what kind of car you drove. He'll ask how many people you drove who didn't have transportation..
- 2.... God won't ask the square footage of your house. He'll ask how many people you welcomed into your home.
- 3.... God won't ask about the clothes you had in your closet. He'll ask how many you helped to clothe.
- 4.... God won't ask what your highest salary was. He'll ask if you compromised your character to obtain it
- 5.... God won't ask what your job title was. He'll ask if you performed your job to the best of your ability.
- 6.... God won't ask how many friends you had. He'll ask how many people to whom you were a friend.
- 7.... God won't ask in what neighborhood you lived. He'll ask how you treated your neighbors.
- 8.... God won't ask about the color of your skin. He'll ask about the content of your character.
- 9.... God won't ask why it took you so long to seek Salvation. He'll lovingly take you to your mansion in heaven, and not to the gates of Hell.
- 10.... God won't have to ask how many people you share this with. He already knows your decision

December 2010 EAGLEVILLE TIMES

Who is He?

Written by Dawn Jones

There was a boy who lived with his Mother, Step-Father, half brothers and half sisters. He was different than other people in his house and they all knew it. His family were of modest means, manual laborers, no education and such. As the boy grew into a man his differences were more apparent.

He began speaking to anyone who would listen about his real Father. When he spoke, he spoke as someone with an higher education, full of knowledge and wisdom. Not at all like someone from his background. The more he spoke, the more people came to listen to him. He met some friends who would later become his apprentices. They went with him from town to town. As the man became more bold in his teaching, he began to perform real miracles. Because he could do things no one had ever seen before his crowds became larger. His family back home heard about his teaching and miracles. They heard about people making comments about him. So they went to find him and bring him home. They may have been concerned for the man or maybe it was because they were embarrassed or did not want to be subject to ridiculed. But it did not deter

One day the man came upon a scholar, a man of means and of authority. The scholar said to the man, you must be from your Father because no one of your background knows of what you are teaching and can not do the things you do. The man replied, "I am in my Father and Father is in me. No one comes to my Father's house without being born of water and spirit." The scholar look perplexed so the man continue, "You looked surprised. The wind blows wherever it pleases. You hear the sound but can not see where it is coming from or where it is going. It is the same with everyone born of the spirit". As the man continued speaking, other men in the communities felt threaten by this mans words. They started going to his gatherings, questioning him in hopes they would trip the man up but their ploys did not work. This made the other men so furious they devised a plot to kill

As the man continued on his journey, more and more people came to see his miracles and to hear his poetic teaching. Now these people started asking questions to each other. Who is this Man? Didn't he grow up around here? How does he know so much? We know his family? The other men who were trying to kill him sent the officers to arrest him. But the man told the people, "I will only be here a little while longer. And where I am going you can not come." The other men just thought he was going to move away. They hoped he would move to a different town or country. But that was not what the man was referring too. The man said, "For any of you who listens to me and believes what I am saying to you, you will have streams of living water which will flow in you." The man was referring to the spirit which had not yet come.

The man came upon a blind man. He said to the blind man, "Do you believe what the Father's son is saying?" The blind man replied to the man, Who is the Father's son? So I may meet him and believe. The man replied, "You are seeing him now. He is the one whom you are speaking too". The blind man said I believe. And the man that was blind could see. The man said to those who were watching and just waiting for him to do something wrong said," I came here to make the blind see and the seeing blind". In other words some people even though they see a miracle, does not believe. They are spiritually blind to the truth.

The Man was caught, arrested and put to death. All of those except a very few left the man when things got tough. Even some of his closest friends and family. They were afraid they too would be arrested and put to death. But they really didn't understand at all what the man had been saying all along. They did not understand until the man arose after being dead for three days and was seen by 500 people. Even out of those people who saw him they still did not follow him. Only 120 people followed the man. As he continue to explain to them about what was going to happen. That his Father would be sending a spirit. A counselor to help the believers understand. And that once those who would believe the man, their lives would be changed forever. The spirit would live in these believers. And the more these believers wanted to find out about the man, the more the spirit would reveal to them. Then the man ascended into heaven to be with his Father. With a promise he would come back one day.

Yes, the man is Jesus. The Father is God and The spirit is the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit guides you, the believer to the truth. It's that nagging feeling when you know you done something wrong or should have said something to stop a wrongful act of unkindness. It is the believer who everyday knows that when they screw things up, they will ask to be forgiven and through the Spirit, forgiven, the believer will forge on to be better people.

To those who remain skeptical or still fight that nagging call to action. You are missing out on peace which you may only know through believing and accepting his grace. The Man said; "For God so loved the world that he gave his only son that who ever believes in him will not perish but will have everlasting life". He is the man who said, "No one comes to the Father except by me". I choose to believe Jesus. What do you choose?

This short story is paraphrased. It is not written verbatim from scriptures but as an illustration of his words and I am by no means a biblical scholar. But it is written from my humble heart and it is my belief and hope that someone may read it and share this story with others. My truth is based on the words of Jesus and I believe

As we come up on the holiday season, just take time out to remember and be thankful to our Almighty Father which loves us so much that he offered his only son so we (the human race) may have direct access to him.

DANIEL ROTHWELL THE OLD TYME BANJO PICKER

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

This year, 2010, has been a very good year for Daniel Rothwell, The Old Tyme Banjo Picker. Daniel, son of Danny and Deana Rothwell is only 17 years old and is the 2010 National Old Time Banjo Champion.

Daniel started in the spring, this year, by releasing his very first CD – Daniel Rothwell Live at the Pick Inn with special guest and close friend Bluegrass Legend Jesse McReynolds of Jim and Jesse and the Virginia Boys Fame.

From there, he was off with his banjo to perform at Merlefest, which is a huge festival held in Wilkesboro, North Carolina. This event is held in honor of Eddy Merle Watson who was killed in a tractor accident. His father, Arthel Lane "DOC" Watson is a quitar player songwriter and singer of father, Arthel Lane "DOC" Watson is a guitar player, songwriter and singer of bluegrass, folk, country, blues and gospel music. It was reported that approximately 76,000 people attended this four-day

During the summer Daniel was very busy performing in Illinois, West Virginia, Alabama, North Carolina and Kentucky. In addition to the out-of-state performances, Daniel participated in many festivals and music activities across Tennessee, which included performing at IBMA (International Bluegrass Music Association) with The Kids on Bluegrass. The IBMA showcases young talent during the weeklong event, held in Nashville, each year. He performed at the Townsend Fall Festival and joined Jesse McReynolds at the Pick Inn Party-Reunion Show in Gallatin to name a few.

Daniel also was entering in some banjo competitions along the way. He said he was fortunate enough to have entered five big competitions and was awarded first place in each one. The first place awards Daniel received for his banjo picking were: Smithville Fiddlers Jamboree, Kentucky State Championship, Blue Grass on the Harpeth, Williamson County Fair and Uncle Dave Macon Days in Murfreesboro, which gave Daniel the title of the 2010 National Old Time Banjo Champion. In addition to banjo picking Daniel also placed first in Old Time Singing at the Williamson County Fair.

Winning Uncle Dave Macon Days was a very special moment in Daniel's life. Daniel said that he could not find words to express his excitement when his name was called as a finalist in the competition. He never thought he would make it that far. He didn't care how they ranked him later; he had reached a goal that he had been working towards since he started playing in competitions. He was a finalist for the National Championship! played two tunes in the finals and when they announced his name as the winner it was like a dream had come true for him - he actually had gone all the way and won it! He credits his friends that have encouraged him and helped him along the way and have showed him a few banjo licks.

Recently Daniel stopped by the Eagleville Community Center to pick a few tunes and see his friends at the Country Music and Dance that is held the 1st Saturday of each month. It's always a very special treat to have Daniel, and his Dad Danny, to pick and sing a few songs. Daniel's grandfather Thomas Maupin, a national buck dancer winner, often join in, to hit a few licks to their music.

At this event, Helen and Charles Crumley presented Daniel with a very special surprise. The Crumley's had sent Country Superstar George Jones information about Daniel. George returned a special autographed picture, by Helen and Charles, to Daniel along with an invitation for him and his family to come to his next area concert. Daniel is a huge George Jones fan and was absolutely speechless and overwhelmed with his kindness.

What has Daniel Rothwell set for himself as his next major accomplishment? His ultimate goal is to perform at the Grand Ole Opry and to keep alive the music of the past greats of Country Music. Keep picking Daniel, you're on your way!

A Christmas Story

I started reading Christmas stories to groups when I was only 5 years old. I guess I've always had a knack for storytelling because as I stood before my brother's 3rd grade class and read 'Twas the Night Before Christmas, I didn't realize that the book was upside down. Although my telling of Clement Clarke Moore's story was not verbatim, nonetheless, its spirit and meaning were very much alive. Because, you see, the spirit of Christmas resides in the hearts and minds of children; written words will never express the true meaning of Christmas that lives within us.

As a child I can remember our family going to the hospital cafeteria so that we could eat Christmas dinner with my mom when she was at work. Therefore, I am confident that I have had more holiday meals in a hospital than I have at home. That experience gives me an eccentric feeling of belonging to something that is in constant motion—never pausing or wavering from caring, giving, or helping another who is a little less fortunate

As an adult I have felt the pain of seeing a mother dying of cancer on Christmas day as her 5-year-old-son struggles to understand what dying means. Then that same little boy returns on Valentine's Day bearing bags of candy hearts along with crayon messages of what nurses mean to him. During those times, I understand what nursing is and the impact we have on another life during moments of weakness when one's chin quivers under the weight of his world. I will never forget that somber day as I watched a little boy walk hand in hand with his father after their lives were changed forevermore. My drive home that day was filled with dark images flashing through my mind as I had become silent and numb in search of the Joy of Christmas.

I realize that happiness and joy does not come elaborately wrapped and placed under a tree, but instead, comes from the heart and in a moment when we connect with what is really important in life. The gift of health is so fragile and precious, and yet most people take it for granted. The loss of health doesn't affect just the afflicted; it stirs many emotions and impacts many lives for generations to come. For me, the meaning of Christmas is about a smile, a chuckle in one's heart, the warmth of family, and being healthy. Take the time this holiday season to be kind to one another, to smile, to laugh, and to exchange good tidings.

Little Stories About You & Me By Nancy Allen

Courage

Courage is the strength to stand up When it's easier to fall down and lose hold. It is the conviction to explore new horizons

When it's easier to believe what we've been told.

Courage is the desire to maintain our integrity When it's easier to look the other way. It is feeling happy and alive, and moving forward When it's easier to feel sorry for ourselves and stay.

Courage is the will to shape our world When it's easier to let someone else do it for us. It is the recognition that none of us are perfect When it's easier to criticize others and fuss.

Courage is the power to step forward and lead When it's easier to follow the crowd; their pleas resound.

It is the spirit that places you on top of the mountain

When it's easier to never leave the ground. The foundation of courage is solid, The rock that doesn't roll.

Courage is the freedom
Of our mind, body and soul!

Rosa Parks didn't set out that day to be courageous although when we look at her life courage is seen in her everyday routines. Her mother was a teacher and she learned to read at an early age and grew up reading all kinds of books. At first she didn't understand why black people were being treated unfairly, but as she matured she understood more and disliked what she was experiencing.

When she boarded the bus she noticed the driver was the same driver who had evicted her on another occasion because she refused to enter the bus from the back door. She sat mid-way the bus, but when the bus was full and a white man was left standing Rosa Parks and others were told to give up their seats. The other people complied, but Rosa refused. The driver went to find the police and they arrested her. She said she had no idea how her community would react, but react they did. They boycotted the Montgomery city buses for 381 days almost putting the system out of business until in November 1956 when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in their favor.

It would have been easier for Rosa Parks to have given up her seat as others did that day instead of standing on her convictions. She went to jail, but she kept her integrity. Instead of feeling sorry for herself she took action not knowing where it would take her, but knowing someone had to step forward to lead. That one act inspired a whole generation to fight for civil rights. Rosa Parks died on October 25th 2005 at age 92.

Many of us are faced with decisions to stand up for right when it's easier to keep quiet. Rosa Parks has set the example. We never know what one small act of courage will accomplish.

THOMAS MAUPIN TO DANCE IN NEW YORK

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On Thursday evening, December 2, Thomas Maupin will be appearing at the Jalopy Theatre in Brooklyn New York for a viewing of the documentary film "Let Your Feet Do The Talking" and to dance his famous style of buck dancing. Along with Thomas, will be his friend, Jay Bland, who is following in Thomas' footsteps in old time dancing. The show is part of the Dust to Digital Showcase in conjunction with the film, Let Your Feet Do The Talking" which was recently released. This DVD tells the story of Thomas, who is one of the greatest old-time dancers in America. One of many reviews of "Let Your Feet Do The Talking" states: The film presents a portrait of a man in the twilight of his life reflecting back on his legacy as a father, teacher, and artist. Numerous awards, trophies and plaques lay stacked in a dresser in rural Tennessee where Thomas spends his weeks tending his garden, feeding the animals and fixing the occasional lawnmower. However, on the weekends, Thomas travels all over the South performing anywhere there's a band and some flat ground; be it giant stages, historic theatres, or crowded street corners, almost always accompanied by his grandson, Daniel. At the age of 17 years old, Daniel has become a prominent old-time banjo player who, with his quick wit, hot licks and uncanny showmanship, rarely finishes a song without a standing ovation. "Music is a way for us to communicate," says Thomas, "he speaks with his banjo and I let my feet do the talking'." Even though Thomas and Daniel excel without each other, it's apparent there is something more when they perform together; a magic and beauty that cannot be described with words, but comes across vividly on film.

Thomas stated he's really looking forward to this trip and still can't believe all that has happened and is still happening to him, and to his grandson, Daniel. (See article on Daniel Rothwell). "All this just because I'm doing what I loves to do and have done almost all my life", he said. In addition to the film, Thomas has been profiled in a book, Tennessee Lives and Legacies, which highlights the state's folk heritage of twenty-five subjects across Tennessee, who preserves arts and culture distinctive to their families, communities, or places. In addition to the profile of Thomas, included in the book is a wonderful picture of he and his grandson, Daniel, at the Ryman across the state of Tennessee for the next three years. The exhibition will be on view at the Hunter Museum of America Art at Chattanooga until December 5th 2010. This exhibition evolved from the book, which is the collaboration between Dr. Robert Cogswell, Director of the Tennessee Arts Commission Folk Life Program and Nashville photographer Dean Dixon.

Hopefully the exhibit will have viewings in our area.

Beating the Holiday Blues Tips for Making The Season Brighter

For many people, the holiday season is a time for visiting friends, exchanging gifts and simply participating in the hustle and bustle of shopping malls and seasonal lights and festivities. But for others, the season is not so enjoyable especially during tough economic times. It is not uncommon for people to feel down, low, and without energy, suffering from a condition labeled the "holiday blues."

Unlike other forms of depression, the "holiday blues" focus on a brief period of time, usually surfacing around Thanksgiving and continuing through New Year's Day. Three main factors contribute to the onset of holiday depression:

Relationships. People often feel alone or isolated during the holidays for different reasons including separation from loved ones or a loss of family members or friends. Family issues can often intensify during the holiday season, often times bringing on unwanted conflict. These relationship triggers can also be accompanied by unresolved grief or anger. Also, as people age, they may start feeling more alone as they look back and remember past holidays shared with family and friends.

Finances. Purchasing gifts, traveling, and attending holiday parties may put a larger dent in the pocket book during the holidays than at other times of the year. During the holiday season, these increased financial expectations may cause individuals to feel additional stress. Economic conditions, including the state of the real estate market and high unemployment rates, are added concerns in 2010.

Physical Demands. Physical stress may be increased by events such as shopping at crowded malls, preparing large dinners, and attending multiple holiday events. People often ignore their healthy lifestyle habits this time of year by indulging in high-calorie holiday foods, neglecting their normal exercise routine, and not attending to personal needs for rest and sleep.

Here are some useful tips to more healthfully cope with the holiday as the season begins to unfold:

- Eat a healthy diet and, if drinking alcohol, do so only in moderation.
- Exercise and get plenty of rest.
- Implement a budget that is reasonable and preplanned.
- Ask for the support of friends and family or seek community and volunteer opportunities.
- Relax and let others share some of the responsibilities for holiday

"One key thing to remember is that, if feelings of the blues, sadness, or anxiety persist past the holiday season, please consider contacting a mental health expert or agency as soon as possible as you may be dealing with a more serious condition that should be addressed," stated Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Commissioner Virginia Trotter Betts. "This year is especially tough for so many people due to the downturn of the economy. It is so important not to overspend and chose only gifts within your means. The gift of yourself and spending time with others, family or community, is really what is meaningful for all."
