

Eagleville JROTC Hosted Annual Veteran’s Day Ceremony

Submitted by JROTC

On November the 12th, 2012 the Eagleville JROTC hosted the annual Veteran’s Day Ceremony. The ceremony began at 9:00 with the Colors posted, the pledge said, and our anthem played. Cadet James Stansell said “Veteran’s day this year had more veteran’s than last year. It was a fine experience for me though I was tired. When I was called to lead the pledge I quickly adapted from being tired to becoming awake. While I was saying the pledge I noticed that not many knew the pledge (which was kind of sad, we’ve been doing it since preschool). Overall, I think this was a good experience.”

Cadet CPT Colin Progar greeted students, faculty members, and civilians as we waited for the doors of the gym to open, inviting the Veterans in. Every breathing body stood as our Veteran’s approached. The band played American songs, thanking those who served. When the band stopped playing Colin introduced our guest speaker Colonel Davidson. Davidson’s speech was very well spoken and presented. After his speech was through, the crowd cheered and Colin took the attention back to the veterans. He spoke of what it means to be a veteran and he spoke of the gratitude we share for our Veterans.

Patriotic songs were sung by the middle and high school choir. Two slide shows were presented; one with the faces of veterans in our community, and the other a tribute to the veterans of the world by our S-3, 2nd Lt Zach Bergh. After the slide shows freshmen cadets carried service flags were presented and Veterans were asked to stand as their branch anthem played and their flag saluted. The ceremony was concluded with the casing of the colors, and a final thank you for our Veterans.

A Message From Your Mayor
Season's Greetings!

Another year has just about come and gone. With this always brings accomplishments and challenges.

As we struggle with everyday life, if we all stop and think, we have so much to be thankful for. The country in which we live is the greatest country in the world. We have freedom to work and worship as we wish. We have the choice to celebrate the birth of Christ, or not, if we wish. We have a choice to live in Eagleville or anywhere else of our liking.

As we enter into the Christmas season please remember why we celebrate Christmas. Please think of others who might not be as fortunate as you are; lend a hand to someone in need. Donating some time to take someone to the grocery or church, maybe just run an errand for them. Something as simple as taking in their firewood for the evening. If you feel the need, just celebrate life!

Our city has opportunity in front of us to move in a positive direction. Our park is second to none under the direction of Mr. Jeff Mooneyham. Chief Eli Stuard is building our police department as we all can be proud. Our fire department has made great progress over the past couple of years.

The long awaited sewer project should become reality within the next 12 months. Our grant application has been accepted, and we wait for congress to approve funding for us to move forward with construction.

Your city has two new council members - Chris Hendrix and Travis Brown. They have been sworn in and ready to start work.

Yes, we do have so much to be thankful for. I would like to thank our city council and city planners for the work they do in order to keep our city moving in a positive direction. Under their leadership your city has never been in a better financial position and planning for a more positive future.

Your city is very sound financially, with money in savings and also, CD's drawing interest. Under the watchful eye of Mrs. Von Almen, every dollar spent is monitored to assure it is spent wisely.

Especially during the Christmas season try to help others, remember the less fortunate.

The Eagleville CHRISTMAS PARADE is Saturday , December 8, at 11:00 am.

Please shop locally, support your local school, and if I can assist, feel free to call my personal cell number at 849-6509.

Merry Christmas to all,
Sam Tune, Eagleville Mayor

Murfreesboro Social Security Office to Close to the Public a Half Hour Early Each Day and at Noon on Wednesdays

Effective November 19, 2012, the Murfreesboro Social Security office will be open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. – a reduction of 30 minutes each weekday. In addition, beginning January 2, 2013, the office will close to the public at noon every Wednesday.

While agency employees will continue to work their regular hours, this shorter public window will allow them to complete face-to-face interviews and process claims work without incurring the cost of overtime. The significantly reduced funding provided by Congress under the continuing resolution for the first six months of the fiscal year makes it impossible for the agency to provide the overtime needed to handle service to the public as it has done in the past.

Most Social Security services do not require a visit to a local office. Many services, including applying for retirement, disability or Medicare benefits, signing up for direct deposit, replacing a Medicare card, obtaining a proof of income letter or informing us of a change of address or telephone number are conveniently available a www. socialsecurity.gov or by dialing our toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213. People who are deaf or hard of hearing may call our TTY number, 1-800-325-0778. Many of our online services also are available in Spanish at www.segurosocial.gov.

BORN ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Submitted by Cathy Parham

My daddy was born on Christmas Day in the year of 1921. I am sure it was a cold winter night, like it was when our precious Jesus was born. Of course, there could be no comparison to Jesus time, but I would like to share with you a few stories.

When you are born on that day, you tend to combine that wonderful birth with Christmas. The presents, celebration and the wonderful special meals are put back, it becomes just another day. Daddy grew up among what we call "hard times", (the depression years). He was always milking cows for someone, as a way to make money. As in those days, "you did not miss what you did not have", there was always food on the table, overalls with many patches and occasional stick candy. In the evening, they would sit around the fireplace, sharing stories of their day, playing music on his guitar/mandolin and thinking of what the next day will bring. Christmas Day came and went for Daddy, it was just another day to him, cows had to be milked, chickens feed, clean out the barn, by this time, the cows were ready to be milked for the evening, a full day, then it begins all over again the next day, in the early morning hours.

It was not always work, daddy found out. He had an ear for music, he could listen to any song, then play it on the guitar/mandolin. That was his gift to anyone that would listen, this gift was shared each Christmas. As he grew up, he and his brother (Uncle Jack) would play for barn dances, which was another way of making some pocket change. Bluegrass was his choice of music, he had an opportunity to play for the Grand Ole Opry. Of course, Uncle Jack, said "no", you never know what the future would have been, I think he would have enjoyed going that one time, but we will never know!

My greatest Christmas memory was when my brother (Sammy), Daddy and I would go in the woods to cut a cedar Christmas tree. That was a treat for me, dragging it back, then finding out, it was toooooo big for the front door. We chopped it up to fit in the house, it never looked like it did in the woods. We did not care, for it was decorated with strings of popcorn, candy cane, handmade ornaments and lights. The final decoration, was a piece of cardboard star covered with tin foil. All of us, would sit back to enjoy looking at our tree, and remember all the Christmas past.

Our memories of Christmas are the greatest joy that God could give us, especially with our families. Our Daddy has passed some years ago, but we lost our last parent this year, my mama. She passed away in April. She had Dementia, her memories were few, unless we brought them up to her, which we did every visit. We spent our last Christmas with her on Christmas Eve last year and shared many stories of yesteryear. She loved to hear them, that was our gift to her. She will be missed everyday, with a flower that grows, a Christmas recipe, and our many days spent with her. Seeing the smile on her face was a treasure and gift.

Today, we live in a time of wealth, compared to the years past. Our Lord gave us many gifts, giving of oneself, sharing our love with one another, a smile, and the most precious gift of all, "life with him". We could not have these gifts to give, unless Jesus Lord is in our lives. Remembering those that have passed on this year, the memories that were given to us by our loved ones are cherished in our hearts. I pray for hope, without hope, we have nothing to give. "Merry Christmas" from Ronnie and Cathy Parham, may you all be blessed.

An Old Cedar Christmas Tree Memory

I am an old cedar Christmas tree, which are many in the woods

We are full of cedar branches, were an animal can find shelter

Our branches will sometime get heavy with snow in the winter

But we stand tall and strong to hold up and reach the heavens.

There are fewer people that come in the woods for a Cedar Christmas tree

When they do, it is a treat for them to bring us into their homes.

We are showered with many delights, stringed popcorn, candy canes,

Candles, and a bright tin star at our top.

Our cedar trees has seen many Christmas past, children opening presents,

Gingerbread men cookies, and Christmas carols,

The cedar tree gives back in many ways, the smell of fresh cedar, joy of family looking at

Beautiful lights, then sitting in your comfortable chair,

Listening to the "Christmas story",

God is like an old cedar Christmas tree, we share great memories,

The tree gives shelter as God does, God is strong and holds us up in

The darkest times of our lives,

When our faith is so strong in him, we could reach to the heavens

As the old cedar Christmas tree.

We are showered with love from God, as his light shines bright,

While he fills our hearts with gifts of faith and strength from "him".

LHA 6 America Christening

Wayne and Thelma Shockey were invited by the Ingalls Shipbuilding, Pascagoula Operations, to attend the Christening of the America LHA6.

Also invited, was Wayne's Marine detachment, which served on the USS America CVA-66, from January 1965 through December 1966.

America (LHA 6) is the first of the America-class amphibious assault ships for the U.S. Navy. The largest of all amphibious warfare ships, she is capable of supporting the most advanced Marine Corps aircraft. Amphibious warships such as LHA 6 provide the Marine Corps a superb means of ship-to-shore movement.

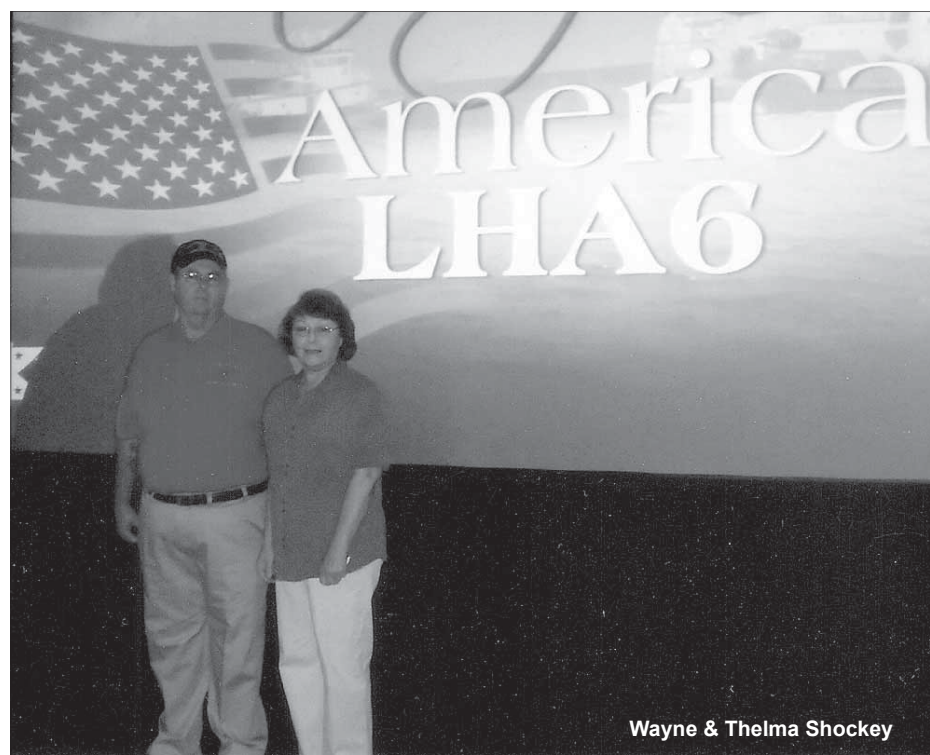

On Friday October 19th, Keesler AFB (Biloxi, MS), provided a bus for the group to tour the AFB. There they enjoyed a Detachment Dinner, the speaker being; Major Randal Davis, CO Marine Detachment, Keesler AFB.

Saturday October 20th, the group attended a breakfast at the Ingalls Shipyard, followed by the Christening. Principal Speaker: Gen. James F. Amous, USMC 35th Commandant of the Marine Corps, Mrs. Lynne Pace, ship sponsor and wife of the 16th Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Peter Pace, USMC (RET) christened the ship.

A great adventure for the "Old Marines" was the honor to board the America LHA 6.

There were four days of renewed friendship and stories, which did not seem to be, almost forty-eight years old.

Article 1, Section 2, of the U.S. Constitution authorized the taking of a national census in the United States every 10 years to enumerate or count the population for apportioning representatives to the lower house of Congress. The first census was conducted in 1790 and included the 13 original states as well as the districts of Kentucky, Maine, Vermont, and the Southwest Territory (Tennessee). Over time the Federal census included more detailed questions that reflected the social, ethnic, financial, and occupational status of ordinary Americans.

By 1920, census enumerators asked twenty-nine questions of every head of household and almost as many questions of everyone else in the residence. Few, if any records reveal as many details about individuals and families as do the U.S.

On April 2, 2012, after 72 years, the National Archives and Records Administration made the individual records from the 1940 Census available to the public for the first time. The 1940 Census was conducted during a momentous time in our nation’s history, as the Great Depression was winding down and not long before our entry into World War II (although the war was already raging in Europe). It marked the only census conducted during the lengthy presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Many of the questions on the 1940 census are the standard ones: name, age, gender, and race, education, and place of birth. But the 1940 census also asks many new questions. The instructions ask the enumerator to enter an [a circled x] after the name of the person furnishing the information about the family; whether the person worked for the CCC, WPA, or NYA the week of March 24-30, 1940; and income for the 12 months ending December 31, 1939. The 1940 also has supplemental questions for two names on each page. These questions included the place of birth of the person’s father and mother; the person’s usual occupation, not just what they were doing the week of March 24-30, 1940; and for all women who are or have been married, has this woman been married more than once and age at first marriage.

Questions new to the 1940 census included residence five years earlier, income, highest level of school completed and new, detailed questions on unemployment history. Many of these questions were added to measure the effects of the Great Depression.

The digital images of the 1940 census are accessible free of charge at NARA facilities (National Archives and Records Administration) nationwide through public access computers as well as on personal computers via the internet.

Included in this article, is an abbreviated copy of households # 1 – 158, of the 1940 US Census of the Eagleville area, the 8th District of Rutherford County; House number, Head of Household/names of other persons living in household, age, relationship to the head of household and type of work of employed members of household.

The remaining households of this area will be completed in the January Eagleville Times.

Happy 95th Birthday Mary Vincent

Article submitted by Faye (Ralston) Hitchcock

Mrs. Mary Vincent recently celebrated her 95th birthday on October 30, 2012. She probably spent most of her birthday reflecting on the joyful events of her life, because that is the kind of woman I know her to be. She reminds me of a verse in Nehemiah 8:10, "the joy of the Lord is your strength". Mrs. Mary is a woman of joy and strength.

Her maiden name is Mary Bowlin. She grew up in Bell Buckle, Tennessee, and was raised with two half sisters and two half brothers. Mary married Farris Vincent in 1954 after he returned from a year of service in the army in World War II. He served three more years in the army while Mary waited for his return. They moved to Eagleville to make their home together in 1948. Having been a citizen of Eagleville for 64 years, she could record her own history of the town that she says has been so good to her.

Mary has a son, Jimmy, who grew up in Eagleville, but now lives in Mountain City, Tennessee. Mrs. Mary has two grandchildren. She loves her family and is very proud of them. She also loves her friends and neighbors even though debilitating arthritis prevents her from getting out these days. Mary is always gracious in spite of any pain and she praises the Lord for her good life.

The one word I would use to describe Mrs. Mary is "nurturing". She has taken care of family members, been a nurse to others in her career, and cared for ailing neighbors, such as my mother, Mrs. Ann Ralston, who passed away in 2007. Mary doesn't talk too much about herself, preferring to inquire about others. Mary is an intelligent woman who can converse on many subjects; she keeps up with current events, and reads daily.

Mary has been a member of Eagleville Baptist Church for 64 years, and she misses the fellowship she had there, but she continues to love her neighbor as herself as God has instructed. Mary is a citizen that Eagleville can be proud of because she is a joyful Christian woman who, at 95, is still celebrating life!

PASTOR'S PONDERINGS

By Pastor Ken Sharp, Jackson Ridge Community Church

Isaiah records, "The Lord Himself shall give you a sign; behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son, and shall call His Name Immanuel." Isaiah 7:14 gives us a very unique verse that is filled with wonder and truth. This is the traditional season for remembering the birth of Jesus Christ, the One Who came into the world long ago to save us from our sins. And there is probably no single statement that more clearly demonstrates the uniqueness of that birth than Isaiah 7:14. The world celebrates and honors the anniversaries of the greatest men and women of the past. But there is no other whose birth can be recalled with a statement written over seven hundred years in advance of the event!. It is true that this verse of often quoted, but it is none the less a miracle. Every time it appears on a Christmas card it witnesses to the supernatural birth of the Babe of Bethlehem, Jesus Christ. Notice the name used in this verse: "Immanuel"! His devinely pre-written Name gives His devinely appointed message, "Immanuel - God with us." How sad that from the very beginning men had no room for Immanuel. How tragic that today there is still no room for Him. There is room for war, room for sin, room for pleasure and lust, room for hatred and prejudice - but no room for Immanuel. Let our Christmas prayer be for men and women everywhere to open their hearts to Immanuel, God with us!

A Christmas Story

I started reading Christmas stories to groups when I was only 5 years old. I guess I've always had a knack for storytelling because as I stood before my brother's 3rd grade class and read 'Twas the Night Before Christmas, I didn't realize that the book was upside down. Although my telling of Clement Clarke Moore's story was not verbatim, nonetheless, its spirit and meaning were very much alive. Because, you see, the spirit of Christmas resides in the hearts and minds of children; written words will never express the true meaning of Christmas that lives within us.

As a child I can remember our family going to the hospital cafeteria so that we could eat Christmas dinner with my mom when she was at work. Therefore, I am confident that I have had more holiday meals in a hospital than I have at home. That experience gives me an eccentric feeling of belonging to something that is in constant motion—never pausing or wavering from caring, giving, or helping another who is a little less fortunate.

As an adult I have felt the pain of seeing a mother dying of cancer on Christmas day as her 5-year-old-son struggles to understand what dying means. Then that same little boy returns on Valentine's Day bearing bags of candy hearts along with crayon messages of what nurses mean to him. During those times, I understand what nursing is and the impact we have on another life during moments of weakness when one's chin quivers under the weight of his world. I will never forget that somber day as I watched a little boy walk hand in hand with his father after their lives were changed forevermore. My drive home that day was filled with dark images flashing through my mind as I had become silent and numb in search of the Joy of Christmas.

I realize that happiness and joy does not come elaborately wrapped and placed under a tree, but instead, comes from the heart and in a moment when we connect with what is really important in life. The gift of health is so fragile and precious, and yet most people take it for granted. The loss of health doesn't affect just the afflicted; it stirs many emotions and impacts many lives for generations to come. For me, the meaning of Christmas is about a smile, a chuckle in one's heart, the warmth of family, and being healthy. Take the time this holiday season to be kind to one another, to smile, to laugh, and to exchange good tidings.

What To Look For When Visiting An Aging Relative For The Holidays

By Mary Ann Steelman-RN

The holiday season is a time of year when many families and friends get together. If visiting an aging relative, be sure to notice signs that it may be time to start preparing for their future. Often, by simply observing your elderly relatives while spending time with them, you can notice if they need more help or soon will.

The first and noticeable thing to look for is their appearance. Look to see if they are still capable of dressing, bathing and grooming themselves. Look to see if they wear weather-appropriate clothing and cleanse themselves regularly. By evaluating their appearance, you can tell a lot about whether or not there are underlying conditions going on with your loved one.

Next, look around your senior's medicine cabinet. If you find expired prescriptions that are still full, your loved one may be forgetting or refusing to take their medications. They may also have prescriptions you never knew they were taking. Asking questions about your loved one's health and prescriptions can give you insight into how well their memory is and how capable they are of managing their medications. Based on this, you can assess how much help your loved one needs with managing their medications.

Another way to tell if your senior needs more assistance is by looking around their home. Check to see how clean and clutter free their home is. If there is a lot of clutter, perhaps cleaning is too much for them to handle either physically or mentally. If your loved one was once tidy but now has a cluttered home, this may be a sign they need more assistance. Even though housekeeping is typically an easy chore, it can become a burden and safety hazard for seniors.

It's also important to check into your senior's finances. Managing money for seniors can be a daunting task. They may let bills stack up because they don't know how to manage them or simply forget they are there. Furthermore, some seniors are susceptible to being scammed and coerced into spending money they typically would not spend. If your senior has trouble managing their finances, you may want to help them with their money to save them from financial problems.

Lastly, you should take a look into your loved one's social life. The elderly are especially at risk of feeling depressed and isolated. See if they have any upcoming plans with friends or family and ask what activities they do for fun. Isolation can have devastating effects on health so ensuring that seniors have the quality of life they deserve is critical.

Although discussing health, finances and the future with a loved one is difficult, it is imperative that your family has a plan. By being aware of your loved one's situation and having a plan for their care needs, you can better deal with future transitions. Knowing the health condition of a senior and safeguarding them with early prevention can often reduce medical costs and even save their lives.

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Dooms-day

Ben chiseled further into the clay wall bordering the place where his ten room ranch home had been. Mary missed her sunroom where she used to sit and read in the morning light. Their daughter would never know the frivolity of T.V. Life had changed for the Cohen family. They were thankful to be alive.

Over the past two years the radio and T.V. had been alive with rumors. Iran would drop the bomb—when was the question. Ben began immediately to prepare what he called their "storm shelter." He knew when it happened it would be the end of the world as he knew it. So far he had managed to carve out a 10X 10 room where he built shelves for supplies. Mary carried iron pots and blankets to the secluded sanctuary. It was on this day when the Cohen family was busy preparing their new home that the unthinkable happened. Ben felt the jolt and Mary fell to the ground as Miriam ran to her mother crying.

Ben hurried to seal off the entrance to their new home.

"We'll be alright," said Ben. "The thick clay walls will protect us from the radiation and the entrance to our place will not be easily found. If we're careful our supplies should last about six months."

Another hard jolt knocked cans off the shelves. "That one was close," said Ben. "If the war last very long and several bombs are dropped we may have to stay here longer."

"What will we do if we run out of supplies?" asked Mary as she reached for Ben's hand.

"We will survive," said Ben.

So for now Ben would expand their space. Digging further into the clay, he hit rock and then an open space. As he lifted out the dirt he realized the opening was into a cave.

"I hear water," he said. "We have a source of water and we will keep our torches burning. I will start work on a fire-room tomorrow. Warm food will be good."

"I'm glad you brought our lawn chairs," said Mary as she pulled her chair closer to the torch so she could see to read one of the books Ben had stored on the shelf.

The opening into the cave gave Ben new hope and a sense of adventure. The fish in the stream looked healthy enough so he figured the water was still safe to drink. Today he would explore. He tucked a flashlight, a hunting knife and a pistol in his jacket pocket, lit a torch and set out.

Ben crawled through an opening expecting to find a small room. Instead he found a long pathway. He walked about a hundred feet when the path took a sharp turn. There he came face to face with three deer. They started to run, but he was able to wrestle the smaller one to the ground. He slit its' throat with his hunting knife, threw it over his shoulder and headed back home. They would have meat tonight, but they would be careful not to eat the liver or the meat next to the bone. Seeing the animals reminded Ben of the sensory awareness of animals. There were likely other animals in the cave. He would build the fire pit near the entrance to the cave and his 'storm room.' The fire would keep the animals at bay.

Application Deadline for NRCS Conservation Programs Fast Approaching

Eligible producers are encouraged to apply for assistance by December 21, 2012

November 16, 2012— For agricultural land and non-industrial private forestland producers interested in applying for farm bill conservation program financial assistance in Fiscal Year 2013, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Tennessee has set Friday, December 21, 2012, as the sign-up cutoff date for first evaluation funding consideration. Pending the availability of funds, additional evaluation periods may occur and cutoff dates will be posted on the Tennessee website at <http://www.tn.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/>.

Conservation program financial assistance is contingent on passage of a new Farm Bill and ensuing Fiscal Year 2013 fund allocations to states. The application deadline applies to the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and EQIP National Initiatives and the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) and WHIP National Initiatives.

Eligible producers with a conservation plan for their operation receive priority for financial assistance. NRCS staff is available to help producers create conservation plans. Only projects that are "ready to implement" will be ranked for funding. Applications can be submitted throughout the year.

NRCS's conservation programs address resource concerns such as soil erosion, soil health, irrigation efficiency, impaired water quality and fragmented wildlife habitat. EQIP, one of NRCS's largest conservation programs, helps eligible producers plan and implement conservation practices that provide opportunities to improve soil, water, plant, animal, energy, air and related resources on agricultural land and non-industrial private forestland.

For additional information, eligible producers are encouraged to contact their local NRCS Service Center. Service center locations and more information on the programs can be found at www.tn.nrcs.usda.gov.

NRCS has provided leadership in a partnership effort to help America's private land owners and managers conserve their soil, water and other natural resources since 1935.

For program information, contact John Rissler at (615) 277-2576 or AnnSue Wattenbarger at (615) 277-2570.

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) helps America's farmers and ranchers conserve the Nation's soil, water, air and other natural resources. All programs are voluntary and offer science-based solutions that benefit both the landowner and the environment.

Electronic Recycling Program

Great news! Starting August 1, 2012, The City of Eagleville will begin a new service for its residents. Employees of the Eagleville Police and Fire Departments will pick up old/broken televisions and computer equipment to transport to a recycling center in Murfreesboro. There will be no cost to City of Eagleville residents for this service.

Mayor Tune and the City Council recognized the need for this type of assistance, especially for senior citizens; as disposing of heavy televisions, computers and electronic equipment is not allowed at the local Rutherford County trash collection site in Eagleville.

Citizens can call Eagleville City Hall at 615-274-2922 to schedule a pickup.
