A Message From Your Mayor Hello Eagleville

The pride and enthusiasm in Eagleville compares to no where else !

What about the EHS senior class of 2013? Eighty-seven seniors graduated 100%.

Every senior that enter their freshman year graduated, completing all four years. In today's world this is unheard of. Many cities in middle Tennessee graduate 45% to 50%. The senior class earned $1,765,000 in college scholarships. Mr. Pogar received $200,000 from the Air Force to continue his education.

CONGRATULATIONS, first to the parents who gave the guidance, the faculty and staff who provided the knowledge, and to the students who had the bravery and willpower to finish a challenge to prepare them for the journey of real life.

Our fire and police departments continue to expand their knowledge and dedication to serve and protect all citizens. Fire Chief Rick Parks is now being trained as a fire inspector. This along with his many other certifications will assure our fire department to continue to always improve our fire ratings.

At this time, it appears that all permits and policies are in place to bid our sewer project in June. Hopefully, construction can start in July. This project will only enhance the quality of life in Eagleville and provide a healthier environment for all of us.

Please support your local business and our school that provides leaders for our future.

If I can assist please call my cell number at 849-6509.

Sam Tune Mayor, Eagleville, Tennessee

MTEMC reminds members: Never attach signs, objects to utility poles

Although seemingly innocent enough, putting signs or other items on utility poles creates serious safety hazards.

"Staples, nails and tacks used to hang signs pose dangers to Middle Tennessee Electric lineworkers," MTEMC Senior Safety and Training Coordinator Donny Parker said. "Whether restoring power after a storm or performing maintenance, this can make climbing hazardous."

Posters or other objects (birdhouses, flags, lights, basketball hoops and even satellite dishes) can create dangerous obstacles. Also, the nails, tacks and bolts left behind from signs and other objects can snag clothing, making lineworkers vulnerable to slipping or even electrocution.

In addition to being hazardous, tampering with utility poles can be costly. Attaching objects to utility poles is also against the law.

Do not place signs or any other attachments on utility poles. It's illegal and could injure a lineworker whose job depends on easy access to the pole and electrical equipment

"Middle Tennessee Electric encourages members to contact local zoning officers to inquire about where signage can be posted legally," Parker said.

Middle Tennessee Electric personnel will assist members with the removal of objects if needed to ensure public and employee safety.

Eagleville Fire & Rescue Department

Many of you have children who are getting out of school for the Summer. They have learned basic fire prevention safety steps while they were in school. You might discuss some of them. One of the safety measures is to know at least two escape routes from each room in their house, and to have one location for all of the family members to meet after they have gotten out of the house, if it is on fire. This would be a good thing to practice during the summer vacation. Please emphasize that once they are out of the house that is on fire to never go back into the house for anything.

The State of Tennessee has delivered some smoke detectors to the Eagleville Fire Department. If you need any new smoke detectors please call Fire Chief Rick Parks at 615-804-7859. We will schedule a time for them to be installed in your home.

I hope you all have a fun and safe summer!

Your Eagleville Fire Chief, Rick Parks.

A Step Back in Time

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

June Dairy Month, originating in 1937, is an annual tradition developed to celebrate the dairy industry and its many contributions to our society. During the first two years, 1937 and 1938, it was referred to as the National Milk Month and ran from June 10 to July 10. The first theme of this celebrated month in 1937 was, "Keep Youthful – Drink Milk." Two years later in 1939, the name was changed and "June Dairy Month" became the official title of the promotion which focused on greater use of dairy products.

During the war years, less emphasis was placed on promotion, more on surviving the war. The retailers helped customers receive an adequate supply of dairy products and provided information to help use them properly. After the war, efforts focused on resuming dairy product usage and regaining 'lost' butter sales. In 1947 the slogan was "30 Days for ADA (American Dairy Association) in June." The goal was "Sales, not Surplus." By 1950, retailers, producers and processors all worked together to promote June Dairy Month.

"Dairy Foods for Taste, Health and Economy, was 1952's theme. The purpose was to stimulate the sale of more dairy foods and promote a better understanding of the dairy industry and its products. The cash income from the sale of milk in 1953 was more than $72,000,000 and the value of milk products consumed in the household on farms where they were produced, more than $31,000,000, resulting in a gross farm income for dairy products in excess of $100,000,000.

On June 7, 1954 an article relating to "June Dairy Month," appeared in a Nashville publication, and featured an Eagleville resident, Bobby Shelton. The title – "Every Day's A Busy One For Midstate's Milk Haulers" written by R. E. Moody Jr., Davidson County Chairman of June Dairy Month.

Milk Hauler Starts Early

While many are still sleeping, the milk-hauler like the milk producer completes much of his task of getting the product from the farm to the plant.

He "hits the road" between 4 and 5 a.m. At this time of the year (June), the sun is awakening from a short night's sleep but at other times, this is long before daylight. The early work is necessary in turning the wheels of a program that transforms grass and grain into quality, health-giving milk delivered to the customer's door steps within two or three days.

Anyone who is physically able to lift one filled 10-gallon can after another until the truck is loaded with 125 to 150 such containers; anyone who is willing to work seven days each week for 52 weeks out of each year; anyone who is dependable and the farmer can trust with his family's income; anyone who is willing to take the weather as it comes and deliver the "goods" daily; anyone who is willing to make the necessary investment to establish his own business because the milk hauler is in business on his own and is paid by the dairymen for the milk hauled; and anyone who is willing to go "a bit beyond" the call of duty in assisting and accommodating his customers and others in the area.

There are many just such individuals. They are not all alike but qualify on their own individual merits in serving Nashville.

Typical of the group is Bobby Shelton of Eagleville who hauls milk for 25 producers in that area and delivers it to the Nashville Pure Milk Co. Shelton is an "old-hand" at the job. While he has had the route on his own for the past four years, he assisted his father in operating the same route for a number of years.

"I have never worked at a job I enjoy more" Shelton said at 4:30 a.m. last Wednesday. His helper, James Maupin, agrees. Maupin recently returned from three years in the Army, one of which was spent in Korea. "He had worked on the milk truck before going to the Army and while visiting home during the three years he assisted Shelton each morning.

The job includes driving into the barnyard of each farm. From the milk cooler Shelton and Maupin lift the filled cans; the farmer had placed there the night and morning before. The filled cans are loaded into the truck and the farmer's empty cans from the day before are left in the milk room.

The task is about the same at each stop. Some coolers are filled with 12 to 15 cans of milk, while others have only two or three. One must know how to lift, roll and swing the cans to load them with the least effort. But at the best, the job is rough on the hands, back and pants. There are gates to open, drives to back out of and errands to run for some customers, now and then.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH 1937 - 2013

Don Shelton, James Maupin and Bobby Shelton

Usually the hauler won't see the farmer. He knows where the milk is found, which gates to shut and others, that might be left open, where supplies go and the farmer's desires about this or that.

After Shelton's truck has made 25 stops, the loading process is completed. The milk is ready for the one-stop trip to the plant where it is processed and bottled to be sent out to the consumer the following day.

Shelton's job is hardly completed when he unloads the filled cans. He must then reload the emptied and washed cans, to carry back home. Then there are times when a can of milk is rejected for off flavor, usually caused by wild onions. As a special service to his customers, Shelton will take the off-flavor milk to a processing plant where it is made into a dairy food.

Then he must pick up supplies and fill customers' requests for other items. Sometimes that is for garden seed or some other things that cause a bit of traveling about Nashville. But with all this, Shelton, Maupin and Shelton's brother Don, who is assisting this summer, are back at home around noon.

That is just a half day's work, but remember the day started at a little after 4 o'clock, so that makes almost an 8-hour day. This period, seven days per week, figures a fairly heavy schedule. "The main objection I find to the work is that there are no days off," Shelton said.

From Eagleville to Nashville, the hauler receives 30 cents per 100 pounds of milk hauled. This might sound big when multiplied by 125 to 150 Hundred-Pound lots daily but there are other things to be considered. For instance Shelton recently purchased a new truck for the job. It meets all standards for transporting the food product but it cost in excess of $6,000. This coupled with the expense of driving, costly on any day and more so in bad weather, plus the expense of helpers, leaves little more than a living for Shelton and others engaged in the profession. "But it seems that a living is about all we are going to make anyway, so if you enjoy the job as we do, it is hard to beat," Shelton said.

He hauls milk for the following farmers in the Eagleville area; Jack Lamb, A. D. Taliaferro, H. E. Johns, C. G. Clary, Jackson Brothers, Frank Crosslin, J. R. Turner, F. I. Taylor, Rush Taylor, Rush Taylor Jr., R. O. Gillespie, D. W. Ralston, Fred Abernathy, W. J. Redmond, Gene Lamb, Marshall Brothers, Leon Batts, Arch Bell, Harry Sullivan, Howard Landis, James Covington and J. D. Ogilvie.

These men must depend upon Shelton, to do a good job, just as thousands of consumers must depend upon him and others doing similar work, to successfully complete their part of the long but rapid process of delivering milk to the home.

* * * *

Robert Houston (Bobby) Shelton Jr., a native of Eagleville was introduced to "milk hauling" during the 1940's. His father, Rob Shelton, in addition to farming, worked part-time on a milk route owned by Eph Hoover of Hoover Motor Express. He and Buck Bell, another Eagleville resident, operated a milk truck, traveling to area farms and collecting cans of milk and delivering them to Nashville. After Mr. Bell quit his job with Hoover, Rob Shelton, with the help of his sons, took over the milk truck route.

After his return from the Army in 1945, Robert Jr. (Bobby) son of Rob Shelton went to work with Hoover Motor Express, working with his father on the milk route and also delivering freight for the company. In about 1950, the elder Shelton, Rob, accepted the job of driving a truck delivering freight for Hoover, and Bobby Shelton, started hauling milk, full time, with the help of James Maupin, his brother Don, John R. Holton and others. As the milk hauling progressed, from being hauled in 10-gallon cans, to a tanker truck, there were customers that were operating both ways. When Bobby purchased his tanker truck, he sold his route of hauling the canned milk and continued in the tanker milk hauling business until the late sixties or early seventies, when he sold his route to Leon Reed of College Grove.

Today, 2013, dairy farms are quickly dwindling away. In 1984 Rutherford County reported 52 dairies compared to 6 at the present; the largest being MTSU which provides milk, white and chocolate, for the entire campus. Others in Rutherford County; 1 in Eagleville, operated by Johnny Taylor; one in Bell Buckle, two in

Bobby Shelton & Son, David "Bubba" Shelton

Bobby Shelton (in truck) & James Maupin

Lascassas and one in Blackman.

Williamson County reported 6 dairies in operation; Bedford County, 5, and Marshall County, 20 which is the largest number of dairies in one county, in the Mid-state area.

2013 June Dairy Month Theme - Dairy Packs Power. As every year, there are lots of activities planned by the 4 H Clubs and dairy organizations for the month of June. Please support their efforts.

MOCK HOMELESS CAMP COMES TO EAGLEVILLE

Eagleville United Methodist Church will be sponsoring a mock homeless camp in Eagleville on June 1st 2013. The event is to create awareness for homeless and needy people in our surrounding area. Youth in school in grades 4th - 12th grade are invited to attend. Younger children are welcome as long as a parent stays with them. All youth and adults must preregister by turning in the following form by May 26th to Chandra Inglis at Eagleville United Methodist Church. There will be an additional health form that will need to be filled out when you submit your registration form. The forms can be turned in on Sunday's between the hours of 5:00p.m. and 6:30 p.m. or call 615-630-2044 to set up a time to meet at the church to register.

What is a mock homeless camp?

We will spend 27 hours homeless. We will start at Eagleville United Methodist Church at 7:00a.m. June 1st. We will walk to Eagleville and set up signs that let everyone know what we are doing. The youth will be able to bring three things with them. Examples are a blanket and box to sleep in and a bottle of water. We will spend the day at the City Hall and will have to walk to our designated public restroom in supervised groups throughout the day. Our public restroom will be at Eagleville United Methodist Church and we will be in and out just like the homeless have to be at the downtown Nashville Library. We will depend on our community to feed us and keep us hydrated. At 8:30 the same time that most homeless people are able to take their last restroom break for the night we will walk as a group to Eagleville United Methodist Church where we will spend the night divided into both male and female groups as well as being divided by ages. There will be a few opportunities for the youth to win porch and pavilion rights. So a few youth will actually get to sleep with some type of roof over their heads and the others will have to use boxes or other things they find on the outside church property.

What can we do as a community to support this cause?

First, encourage youth to join us. Second, we will have donation boxes for the following items that we will use to make HIN Bags (Homeless Immediate Need bags). These items are places in gallon ziploc bags and given to people to put in their cars to help fill an immediate need to someone they see on the streets.

HIN items needed: Bottled Water, Protein Snack (ex. Peanut Butter Crackers) Band Aids, Small Baby wipe packages, pocket size Kleenex packages.

We will also be taking up canned food donations for the Eagleville Food Bank so here is your chance to help out in your own community. For More information please call Chandra Inglis Youth Minister, at Eagleville United Methodist Church @ 615-630-2044.

JESUS SAYS: "If anyone is thirsty, let him come to me and drink. ³⁸ Whoever believes in me, as the Scripture has said, streams of living water will flow from within him."

PASTOR'S PONDERINGS

By Pastor Ken Sharp, Jackson Ridge Community Church

The month of June is upon us, and it is always an exciting time. School is out for summer, young couples are getting married, families start planning vacations and outings, and we celebrate Father's Day, just to name a few things that take place in June. There is a verse of Scripture that comes to mind regarding us as fathers, and for that matter, all of us. John 1:6 says, "There was a man sent from God, whose name was John." "A man sent from God."

No higher thing can be said of anyone. But have you ever stopped to think that John the Baptist is not the only one of whom it might be said? It might even apply to you and me. For God has a work for every Christian to do; for each of us He has our appointed task to which He sends us and us alone. The glory of John the Baptist lay in his complete submission to God's commission. Many are sent but few really go! John was not only sent from God, he also went for God. Had John failed in his going, the fact of his being sent might never have been recorded. Let us all respond to our being sent by going; not just being sent, but, like John, going for God. Enjoy the month of June as you go!

Palm Desert California

Elizabeth Edmonson vacationed in sunny Palm Desert California with her son, Ricky, and daughter, Patricia. There were plenty of shopping trips including the Desert Hills in Cabazon where Ricky treated everyone to huge savings from his company card at various stores. The streets of El Paseo were visited frequently for shopping and dining at many of the outdoor restaurants, including one of Elizabeth's favorites Tommy Bahama.

Patricia and Elizabeth visited Joshua Tree National Park for a day outing. The park has 800,000 acres and brings together the Joshua tree forests and granite rock formations of the Mojave Desert in its western half and the hotter Colorado Desert's creosote bushes and cholla cactus to the east. A 1/3 mile hike was taken to Barker Dam and Hidden Valley. Everyone slept well that night.

Elizabeth really enjoyed the visit to the Shields Date Gardens which have been around since 1924. Her favorite part of the visit was the Walk of Shields through the date palm trees which wind beautifully through fourteen episodes in the life of Jesus of Nazareth. It was a great trip for everyone, allowing time to catch up and relax.

Mid-Month Dinner/Dances

by Denise Richardson

We are having a wonderful time at the middle-of-the-month dinner/dances! So many people of all ages are making this a great success. It is wonderful to see our youngest generation dancing with grandparents and parents to different types of music provided by our terrific bands! And everyone is enjoying the wonderful homecooked dinner, which we all look forward to!

Our usual spaghetti dinner, along with BBQ sandwiches, hot dogs (some with chili), soup, beans, and so many different desserts, were enjoyed throughout the evening. Thanks to everyone that cooked their amazing dishes and also to everyone that enjoyed the great dinner!

David Yates Brothers Band provided music for our listening and dancing pleasure from 6:30 til 10pm. And the dance floor was full all night! We tried our version of the whistle dance that we call "YeeHaa Dance" and what fun we had... laughing and dancing and changing partners! That was a success and we will continue this new tradition. Line dancers and two-steppers shared the floor doing their favorite dances to a variety of songs. The band also played songs requested by our dancers, adding to everyone's enjoyment! Thanks to our wonderful band for providing a great opportunity to so many people!

We will continue our middle-of-the-month dances, so watch for our fliers and articles posting the dates, dinners, bands, and other information. And you can always call Denise Richardson at 615-948-8445 for information! We look forward to each middle-of-the-month dance. We are all having a GREAT time, so please join us for some wonderful food and great family fun!

Our next dance will be on Saturday, June 15, 2013. Music will be provided by Rode West Band. Dinner will be served from 5-6:15 pm, but will be available throughout the evening in the kitchen. Music will begin at 6:30, so come out and join us---we will be looking forward to seeing and meeting you!

Country Music and Dance

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

Saturday, April 6, 2013, marked the eighth year, the Country Music and Dance has been held at the Eagleville Community Center. The "first Saturday of each month" event continues to have large crowds, enjoying listening to the music and dancing. At the event in April, recognition was given to band member, Bo Bohannon and his wife, Nancy who have perfect attendance, all eight years and to Wendell and Mary Ann Warf, who has attended every dance but one, since its beginning, even attending, on the same day they were married. Several of the band members along with patrons, have almost perfect attendance, only missing a few times.

Members of the original band, who helped start this event are: Bill Bohannon, John Carrington, Wayne Griggs, Sonny Lonas, Freeland Maupin, Willie McKee and Raymond McCord. Five of which, are still providing great music for the monthly event. John Milteer and Frank Parish have joined the group along with Ted Horne, who is the regular substitute drummer. This entire band is commended for their music ability and loyalty they have shown the duration of this monthly event. Traveling from Springfield, Goodlettsville, Nashville, Spring Hill, Peytonsville, Lewisburg and one local, their love for music is exhibited each and every month. We are fortunate to have musicians who have played with some of the elite of the music industry; Ernest Tubb, George Jones, Merle Haggard, Patsy Cline, Melba Montgomery, Jennie C. Riley, Vern Gosling, Dottie West, Lee Roy Van Dyke, and Jimmy Dean, to name a few, and are providing great country music for the Country Music and Dance held on the first Saturday, each month at 6:30 p.m. There is no charge for admission but donations are accepted, for the Eagleville Community Center expenses. Food is also available for purchase, starting at 5:30 p.m., with the Community Center receiving the proceeds.

Lieutenant General Nathan Bedford Forrest

Forrest Homecoming & Southern Heritage Festival

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

On Saturday, June 15th, 2013, the eleventh annual Forrest Homecoming and Southern Heritage Festival will be held at the former home of Nathan Bedford Forrest at 4435 Pyles Road, Chapel Hill, Tn. Sponsored by the Sons of Confederate Veterans, these funds received at this event, will be used to help restore and maintain the former home-place of General Forrest.

Re-enactments, Demonstrations, Historical Lectures, Children's Games, Musical Entertainment, Food and Drinks and a Silent Auction will be held throughout the day 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Many supporters of this event will be dressed in period clothing. Admission charge is $5.00.

Nathan Bedford Forest was born July 13, 1821 near down-town Chapel Hill, Tn. In 1830, at the age of nine years old, his family purchased a 49 acre farm on Pyles Road, living there until 1833, before moving to Mississippi.

At the onset of the Civil War, Forrest enlisted as a private in a Tennessee regiment. He was active in the Confederate Army from 1861 – 1865. Lieutenant General Forrest was one of the few officers in either army, to enlist as a private and be promoted to general officer and division commander by the end of the war. It is reported that he visited his home place on Pyles Road, Chapel Hill, two times during the war. Forrest died at the home of his brother in Memphis, the result of diabetes at the age of 57.

For anyone interested in history and want to step back in time, the home of Lieutenant General Nathan Bedford Forest is the place to be – June 15th.

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Decorations

The flowers had dissipated becoming one with the soil like the body of the Civil War veteran lying beneath them.

His decorations of honor, medals long forgotten, lay unseen in a chest in the attic of his once impressive plantation home where James and Alma now live.

Walking through the woods back of their new home, Alma stumbles upon what she thinks is a headstone. Obscure markings chiseled on the rock are illegible except for the date of 1864. "I wonder who is buried in this grave?" Alma said; as she knelt down to examine the stone.

"Just some forgotten soul who doesn't matter anymore," said James.

"How can you say that? He served in a very important war. He may have turned the course of history. If it hadn't been for him we probably would have a totally different life."

"Who's to say? Our lives might have been better."

"We should clean up this area and put some flowers on his grave," said Alma.

"There's no glory in war and decorations can't cover the pain. You can put flowers on his grave and medals on his lapel, but nothing covers the heart of a soldier who has gone to war against his fellowman." James walked over to a big oak and leaned his hand on it as he bowed his head. Alma came and put her arms around him.

"Nothing heals the soul of children whose father or mother is returned to them cold and lifeless in a casket covered in our nation's flag. That flag on the mantel only digs deeper into their hearts. No heart-warming ceremony heals the wounds of a spouse who will forever feel the emptiness of being alone."

James knew the pain of war and the useless symbols of decorations. His father had died in the Korean War and he had served in Vietnam. He too had medals tucked away in a drawer in the back room. "Nothing to look at, nothing to talk about," he said.

Like Mary Logan, wife of Major General, John A. Logan, who served in the Union Army during the Civil War, we try to make things better by covering our pain with symbols. In 1868 General Logan issued a proclamation declaring the first Decoration Day. In Mississippi a woman's association decorated the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers.

Yes, it doesn't matter which side you fight for—the hurt is the same—it can't be covered with flowers, medals or flags. Decorations and parades of honor can't make things better. They only cover the pain, perhaps buying a little time for those who are left behind where new pain will overshadow the old and where a new generation can put the old sorrows behind them. Then we can look at the flowers that cover a forgotten grave and ask, "Who is that person buried here? How has his/her life impacted my life?"

As we ponder the answer, we feel their loss and our kinship with the past uncovers their pain in us. And we mourn.

Healthy Summer Swimming

Memorial Day typically marks the start of summer vacations as many of us flock to the water's edge.

Swimming has many health benefits which makes it one of the most popular sports in the United States. This time of year always takes me back to when I was a child and would go swimming with my grandfather. The sounds of laughter and conversations around the pool and lake always take me back to a time that was seemingly without danger or concern. As a child it seemed to me mom was more concerned with the unknown—unseen dangers such as snakes, sharks, diving, and drowning. I am sure my mom had many concerns I never knew about or have blocked from my memory. WOW, how the years change us!

It seems all too often the sounds of playful splashes and laughter are shadowed by the news of a child drowning. Child safety takes on a whole new meaning when they are near or playing in water.

To help keep your children safe in and near the water here are a few simple safety tips:

- Teach your child to swim. It is important to stress swimming lessons will not drown-proof your child. Even good swimmers can drown.
- Never leave children unsupervised near water.
- Be a "Designated Watcher" during social gatherings it is a good idea for adults to take turns being the "designated watcher" who is free from distractions such as telephones, televisions, books or conversations that could distract you even for a second.
- Remove toys from the water. Children can fall into the water trying to retrieve them.
- Beware of drains. Do not allow children to play near or sit on pool drains. Body parts and hair may become entrapped by strong suction.
- Install alarms. If your home serves as part of your pool's enclosure, protect doors leading into the pool area with an alarm.

These simple safety tips are not fail proof and even under the most diligent adult supervision accidents can and do happen.

While drowning is the most serious of water injuries, there are other dangers that can cause significant illnesses. A new CDC study found that swimmers frequently bring poop into the water. Poop may contain germs which can be swallowed by others in the water and make them sick. Many people believe that chlorine and other disinfectants kill germs instantly, this is simply not true. Once germs are in the pool, it can take minutes to days for chlorine to kill them. These germs can cause gastrointestinal, skin, ear, respiratory, eye, neurologic, and wound infections. The most commonly reported water related illness is diarrhea caused by the germs Cryptosporidium, Giardia, Shigella, norovirus and E. coli. Swallowing just a little water containing these germs can make you sick (CDC).

So, how do we keep ourselves and others safe from germs while swimming? Remember we all share the water we swim in, and equally share in the responsibility of keeping poop, germs, and pee out of the water.

- Shower or bathe with soap paying special attention to your bottom before you go swimming and take a rinse shower before you get back into the water
- Do not swim if you have diarrhea
- Take bathroom breaks at least every hour
- Practice good hand washing after using the bathroom or changing diapers
- Check the chlorine level (1 – 3 ppm) & pH level (7.2 – 7.8) before getting into the water

Most pool supply stores sell pool testing strips, or you can get FREE pool strips at <http://www.healthypools.org/freeteststrips/> and get more information on healthy swimming at <http://www.healthypools.org/>.

HealthyPools.org recommends using your senses and a little common sense to help keep you safe and healthy this summer. Sight: Look for water that is clean, clear, and blue. Touch: Check for tiles that feel smooth and clean. Smell: Make sure there are no strong odors. Sound: Listen for pool cleaning equipment (HealthyPools.org). I wish you and your family wonderful memories and a healthy summer. Now, let's go swimming!
