SEEING DOUBLE - NO, WE'RE TWINS

By Trish Hayes

Expecting a baby fills future parents, current parents, and their families with joy, excitement, and at times apprehension. Having 9 months to prepare helps everyone as the nursery is made ready, the necessities are purchased, the birthing classes are attended, and the love for the child grows as quickly as the child within. Imagine the excitement when the expectant parent is told, not one but two, yes twins.

Twin births are not common but do happen and thankfully with medical technology and strong prenatal care the prognosis for these precious bundles is strong. Eagleville Community is blessed to have many sets of twins in its midst. Twins grow with a unique experience which in some ways is similar to siblings but most twins will tell you there is a something different. The connection they feel is strong and complimentary as twins describe knowing their twin as well as they know themselves. The connection can possibly be explained by chemistry, biology or other science, but twins will tell you it is special and a mystery.

The oldest twins from the Eagleville Community are Sara and Mary Elrod. Born in the Porterfield Community, Rutherford County on April 26, 1910, they are approaching their 94th birthday. After graduating from Kittrell High School, they both attended Knox Business College and began working at Murfreesboro Bank and Trust Co. in Murfreesboro. Sara Elrod married the late Rush Taylor, Jr. of Eagleville and has one son, Johnny. She worked at the bank for 16 years before leaving to become a homemaker. Mary Elrod married the late Melvin Knight of the Milton community. She retired from the bank a Vice President with 45 years of service.

CHITTLIN TIME IN EAGLEVILLE

On Saturday, March 13 the Eagleville Community Center parking lot and area surrounding the building will be full. A line of people, with Chittlins and all the fixins. For the price of $10.00 a plate, people enjoy all they can eat of fried or boiled Chittlins, slaw, french fries, white soup beans, cornbread and tea. For those not quite ready for Chittlins, bar-b-que plates are available for $8.00 a person. The host of volunteers who dedicate themselves to this event begin serving at 4:00 p.m.

Chittlin Supper support the Eagleville Community Center and Library building. The Eagleville Community Center Association organized in 1976 and the 1st Chittlin supper was held at the Fox Camp on Highway 99 in 1977. It continued at that location through 1985. In February of 1986, the Community Center building opened its doors to the Chittlin supper and it has been held there without interruption since. Some 8 years ago, the Association added a second supper in the fall of each year.

The Eagleville Community Center is a well used building and regular users include Senior Citizens, Scouts, and Tractor Club. In addition, families use it often for reunions and large family celebrations, showers, teas, birthday parties, and ball club parties. It has served as a Wedding Chapel, reception hall and a regular place of worship for Churches who have lost their building. The Library is a strong resource for children and adults in the community. An annual summer reading program guarantees it is used 12 months a year.

This Chittlin supper is a special event. Mary Alice and Gordon Lamb say it is there last. They are retiring after 27 years of organizing and working over 35 Chittlin suppers. This promises to be the biggest supper yet as volunteers are cleaning and preparing 2,000 lbs of Chittlins in the weeks before the supper. A large group will meet early Saturday morning to complete preparations and last minute details in anticipation of the crowd. They hope to see all of you in line, hungry for this southern tradition. ■

Ms. Sara and Ms. Mary now live together at Morningside of Franklin an assisted living facility.

Ironically, the youngest set of twins featured are directly related to Ms. Sara Taylor. Hannah and Jacob Less are twenty months old, active, healthy and practically perfect. Their mother, Kim Taylor Less who is married to Matt Less, is the oldest daughter of Johnny and Peggy Taylor. Johnny Taylor is the son of Ms. Sara Taylor which makes the twins Ms. Sara's great-grandchildren. While Hannah and Jacob do not reside full time in the Eagleville community, they frequently visit grandparents Johnny and Peggy and Aunt Lynne and Uncle Jim.

We salute all of our featured twins. ■

Around the Town Projects—Who Does It?

On Friday, Feb 13th, Jeff Mooneyham (at left) took a day away from his regular job to replace our City street banners. Jeff had to wait for the weather to give him the “OK”. Just two days later, seven to eight inches of snow appeared, but we had our banners.

On Wednesday, Feb. 19th, Janice & Ralph Marshall and Jeff Mooneyham (at right) are back to work on another project. Taking down the old entrance signs at the north and south ends of the city limits on Highway 41-A. They were making preparations for the installation of the new signs. The new signs were put into place on Tuesday, February 23rd. The next step will be a plan to landscape the area around the new signs.

On to another project!!!!

Margaret Elizabeth and Marjorie Ann Redmon

EAGLEVILLE TIMES

By Bobbie Sue Shelton

Margaret Elizabeth and Marjorie Ann Redmon, born April 29, 1928, are the daughters of Leon Hughes "Lynn" and Mary Tucker Redmon. They were the youngest of eight children and were born in Eagleville in the second house on the right on Allisona Road. This house was later owned and occupied by Mr. & Mrs. Scott Williams. At the time of their birth, twins were not expected and were a very big surprise to the family. Their sibling were Sammie, Leon Hughes "Jake", Russell, Roy, Leon Jr. "Junior" and Katherine. The day Margaret and Marjorie was born Katherine, who was about seven years old, ran across the road to their neighbors, Rob and Mae Shelton. Katherine told them to come and see the new baby girls, not just one baby but two baby girls. She was really excited. As they grew older, Katherine helped care for the twins, and the excitement of having twin sisters soon faded as they became a nuisance to her. Margaret and Marjorie were pretty spoiled by their older brothers. Their brother Junior would often say he wished there had been 3 of them instead of only 2. When Margaret and Marjorie were four or five years old they hid in a cabinet in their kitchen. Their mother wasn't able to find them and soon everyone in Eagleville was looking for the girls. This was a scary time for the family but had a happy ending, when they decided to re-appear. Another incident they remember well; their mother sent them to Arnold's Store, presently the location of the Eagleville Drug Center to get a jar of pickles. On the way back home they dropped the jar of pickles on the road near the service station on the corner of Allisona Road and Main Street. Their mother made them go back and pick up all the glass and pickles from the road. They weren't punished but they felt the embarrassment of picking up pickles and glass from the road was punishment enough. Their older brother Roy and his family lived across the road in front of their house. One day they decided to cross the road for a visit. The road had recently been sprayed with tar and they were barefooted. When they returned home with tar all over their feet, they were in trouble again.

Their father, Lynn Redmon, milked cows while they lived at this location on Allisona Road. Twice a day after the milking, he would drive the cows from behind his house, thru Eagleville to the creek on the south end of Eagleville to be watered and then back home. Margaret and Marjorie often walked with him helping to keep the cows all together.

Margaret and Marjorie attended Eagleville School, walking to school when the weather permitted. Their first grade teacher was Miss Grace Fann. They also took singing from Miss Ethel Elmore. Growing up in Eagleville they spent a lot of time with friends and having fun at the gathering place, home of Jane Stephenson Simpson. Some of the friends remembered were; Katherine Little, Mary Jean Hay, Dorothy Gillespie, Lucille Pope, Junior Bellenfant, Urban Little, James Fagan and Jane Stephenson. During this time they were always playing tricks on Halloween. Almost every year their front gate to the house would go missing before dark. They remember one year, Mr. Green Hay's outdoor toilet was moved to the roof of Bud Walker's barbershop, which was located near the present fire hall.

When the twins were at the age of 13, the Redmon family moved from Eagleville to John Windrow Road on a farm that is still home to Marjorie and her family. Marjorie married Earlen Freemond Patterson, son of Robert Lee and Alice Vaughn Patterson. They have four children: Fred Lee, Don Lynn, Ron Lytle and Pamela Bridget. Her sons, Don Lynn and Ron Lytle are twins with different birthdays. Don was born February 16, 1956, and Ron was born February 17, 1956. Fred is married to Patricia Ann Hester Crowell. He has two daughters: Tami Brooke and Brittany Ann Patterson and stepson, Coby Russell Crowell. Don married Kim Morgan and has a daughter, Kalyn Lee. Ron married Nancy Jane Morton and they have two children: Carrie Ann and Evan Grant. Bridgett married (div.) Don Miller and has two children: Brandon Chance and Shelby Lee.

Margaret married Walfred Alvin Pate, son of Henry Herman and Winnie Blanche Patterson Pate. They have four children: Walfred Alvin Jr., Mary Ann, Sandra Lynn and Melissa. Walfred "Buddy", principal of Eagleville High School is married to Bernice Scott. He has a son, Drew Ashley Pate and a granddaughter, Lily. Mary Ann married Robert Langley and has two children: John Pate Langley and Lindsey Clair Langley. Sandra married Charles Edward Reed and has a son, Andrew Pate Reed. He married Stephanie Halsey and has three daughters: Nicole Halsey, Lauren Ashley and Hannah Grace Reed. Melissa married Timothy Bradley Huston and has a son, Tyler Bradley. Margaret and Alvin lives in the Patterson Community (Possum Trot), moving there in 1951. They are avid sport fans and supporters of Eagleville School.

In My Heart

*I thought of you with love today,
But that is nothing new.
I thought about you yesterday,
And days before that too.
I think of you in silence,
And often speak your name.
Now all I have is memories,
And your picture in a frame.
Your memory is my keepsake,
With which I'll never part.
God has you safe in his keeping,
I'll have you in my heart.*

Rocky Glade is Building Again

On the coldest Saturday of this year, ten members of the Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church met together and loaded up their shovels, hammers, nails and wheelbarrows and headed out to make a short journey to Garry Lane in Lavergne. These combined talents were used to construct a wheelchair ramp for Ms. Evelyn Reece. Ms. Reece has not been able to get out of her house for over nine months since she broke her leg. With her medical problems her leg would not heal. She had to rely on a wheelchair and this made it impossible for her to get out of her home. She could not walk down even a few steps. This is where the members of the Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church came out to share a helping hand. They reconstructed the existing small porch and made it stronger. Next, there was a lot of digging to be able to build a wheelchair ramp. At the end of the ramp there was concrete that had to be mixed and poured. Seven hours later, Ms. Reece was no longer a prisoner in her own home. She could now get out and go to the doctor and back to church without the fear of falling. Thanks to the Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church and to Don and Jeff Davis, Bob Hines, Bill Lamb, John E. Turner, Larry Hazel, Harold Vincion, Michael McClaran, Katie and Elaine Shapcott for all their manual labor and also, to everyone else for their prayers and support. Keep up the work of God by doing for others.

Eagleville PTO News

Dawne Davis

The next PTO meeting will be Monday, March 8 at 6:30 p.m.

The Third Grade Music Class will perform (previously scheduled for February). Our Kids on Stage state of the art sound and light system is under progress and hopefully will be installed and ready to use this Spring! Many, many, many thanks to everyone who has worked so hard to raise the money for and supported this special program. Each and every child at Eagleville school from the preschool to 12th grade will gain benefit from this performing and visual arts program!

Nominations will be accepted for PTO officers in April. Please contact Dawne Davis for a form if you have a candidate or would like to be nominated (274-2741).

Finally, anyone interested in organizing (or helping to organize) a Spring PTO Yard Sale, please contact Dawne Davis. We raised over $1,000 at the Fall sale but need some "new blood" to tackle a spring sale. All proceeds would benefit the PTO's "general fund" which provides funds to assist with various improvements or purchases on behalf of the school. Time commitment would be approximately 6 days the week prior to and weekend of the sale.

DON'T MISS.....Maid To Order

March 25, 2004 Show 7:30 P.M.

March 26, 2004 Dinner 6:00 P.M. & Show 7:30 P.M.

Performed by: Eagleville High School's Drama Class

Maid to Order was written for one purpose only: to make an audience laugh. Faith Martin is happily married to the football coach of Yarmouth College. On the eve of their biggest game, a rally is scheduled. It is also the evening that Julian Narramore, an old friend of Faith's, is to appear in a program of Shakespearean readings. The two events conflict so there is a war between the Athletic and Speech Departments. Faith finds herself right in the middle, especially when Miss Speare, of Speech, accuses her of "carrying-on" with Julian. To top Faith's problem, her rich Aunt Abby, who has never met her husband, is due to arrive. If she approves, all will be well. At the height of preparations for a big dinner, Faith's maid quits. To escape the wrath of her husband, Julian masquerades as the new maid – then a new maid arrives, then another, and another. Before the play is over five people are pretending to be the Martins' maid to everyone's amazement. Make your plans now to be in the audience when the curtain rises on Maid To Order.

The cast of characters includes: Lafayette White as Carl Martin; Megan Bennett as Valerie; Kinsey Doss as Miss Speare; Chelsea Smith as Faith Martin; David Wileczek as Julian Narramore; Kelly Partin as Aunt Abby Dingle; Brittany Beatty as Veevy McCoy; Katie Sexton as Dagmar Wurst; Ashley Goins as Lotta Bowling; Matthew Waldon as Magoon; Holly Rucker as Stage Manager; Alicia Davenport and Mary Sapelak as crew members. The play is directed and produced by Diane Stikeleather, drama teacher at Eagleville High School. Tickets may be purchased at the door the night of the performances. The price of admission is $5.00 for the performance Thursday night, and $15.00 for the dinner and performance on Friday night.

*When I am an old woman I shall wear purple
With a red hat which doesn't go and doesn't suit me.
And I shall spend my pension on brandy and summer gloves
And satin sandals, and say we've no money for butter.
I shall sit down on the pavement when I'm tired
And gobble up samples in shops and press alarm bells
And run my stick along the public railings
And make up for the sobriety of my youth.
I shall go out in my slippers in the rain
And pick the flowers in other people's gardens . . .*

*But maybe I ought to practice a little now?
So people who know me are not too shocked and surprised
When suddenly I am old, and start to wear purple.*

This national phenomena was inspired by the poem "Warning". Ladies of like mind popped up and organized groups that embraced the idea of the whimsy that the poem inspires.

Celebration of St. Patrick's Day

St. Patrick's Day is celebrated on March 17, his religious feast day and the anniversary of his death in the fifth century. The Irish have observed this day as a religious holiday for thousands of years. On St. Patrick's Day, which falls during the Christian season of Lent, Irish families would traditionally attend church in the morning and celebrate in the afternoon. Lenten prohibitions against the consumption of meat were waived and people would dance, drink, and feast—on the traditional meal of Irish bacon and cabbage.

The first St. Patrick's Day parade took place not in Ireland, but in the United States. Irish soldiers serving in the English military marched through New York City on March 17, 1762. Along with their music, the parade helped the soldiers to reconnect with their Irish roots, as well as fellow Irishmen serving in the English army. Over the next thirty-five years, Irish patriotism among American immigrants flourished, prompting the rise of so-called "Irish Aid" societies, like the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick and the Hibernian Society. Each group would hold annual parades featuring bagpipes (which actually first became popular in the Scottish and British armies) and drums.

Up until the mid-nineteenth century, most Irish immigrants in America were members of the Protestant middle class. When the Great Potato Famine hit Ireland in 1845, close to a million poor, uneducated, Catholic Irish began to pour into America to escape starvation.

Despised for their religious beliefs and funny accents by the American Protestant majority, the immigrants had trouble finding even menial jobs. When Irish Americans in the country's cities took to the streets on St. Patrick's Day to celebrate their heritage, newspapers portrayed them in cartoons as drunk, violent monkeys.

However, the Irish soon began to realize that their great numbers endowed them with a political power that had yet to be exploited. They started to organize, and their voting block, known as the "green machine," became an important swing vote for political hopefuls. Suddenly, annual St. Patrick's Day parades became a show of strength for Irish Americans, as well as a must-attend event for a slew of political candidates. In 1948, President Truman attended New York City's St. Patrick's Day parade, a proud moment for the many Irish whose ancestors had to fight stereotypes and racial prejudice to find acceptance in America.

Today, St. Patrick's Day is celebrated by people of all backgrounds in the United States, Canada, and Australia. Although North America is home to the largest productions, St. Patrick's Day has been celebrated in other locations far from Ireland, including Japan, Singapore, and Russia.

In modern-day Ireland, St. Patrick's Day has traditionally been a religious occasion. In fact, up until the 1970s, Irish laws mandated that pubs be closed on March 17. Beginning in 1995, however, the Irish government began a national campaign to use St. Patrick's Day as an opportunity to drive tourism and showcase Ireland to the rest of the world. Last year, close to one million people took part in Ireland's St. Patrick's Festival in Dublin, a multi-day celebration featuring parades, concerts, outdoor theater productions, and fireworks shows.

A Step Back in Time

Submitted By Courtney Simon

It has been almost 215 years since the first inhabitants moved into Eagleville. Eagleville was first named Manchester, but four years later, when the city obtained a post office, the name had to be changed since there was already a Manchester, Tennessee. While in the process of brainstorming for an idea for a name, an unusually large eagle was killed in the hills behind the city so the name Eagleville was came about. The name was officially adopted on August 16, 1836.

Until March 24, 1877, Eagleville was part of Williamson County. Williamson County refused to pay for a road to be built from the city of Franklin to Eagleville so Rutherford County offered to pay for it if Eagleville would become part of their county. That road was Hwy. 99 and ever since, Eagleville has been part of Rutherford County.

Families of Eagleville - The original inhabitants of Eagleville prior to 1850 were: Marshall, McClaran, McCord, Bennett, Manier, Clark, Williams, Russell, Hughes, Ogilvie, King, Nunn, Morgan, Williamson, Owen, Floyd, Phillips, Gentry, Crick, Kelly, Johnson, Bellefant, Bowman, Hemphill, Downing, McDowell, Puckett, Ralston, Mason, Chambers, Logan, and Henderson. Many of these families' descendants still reside here today.

Important People - Chesley Williams was born on July 22, 1809. He established a General Store in Eagleville in about 1832. He and his descendants sold goods there until 1972. He owned a majority of the land in Eagleville, was the principal stockholder of the Eagleville-Unionville Turnpike Company, and was the second postmaster. He provided a great deal for the city of Eagleville.

George M. Savage was born on February 5, 1849. He married Fannie Williams, daughter of Chesley Williams. They moved to Eagleville in 1884 and George founded the Savage School in the Female and Male Academy where the Eagleville Baptist Church is now located. The class ranged from first grade, to seniors in college. Dr. Savage resigned in 1890 but the school remained until 1904.

The Gravedigger of Eagleville - Around 1894 or 1895, a physician by the name of Dr. C.B. Heimark came to Eagleville. He had a good practice for awhile until some people noticed that he was making midnight trips to Nashville in a wagon with a mysterious bundle, and returning before daylight the next morning. This was his usual trip almost every night for three or four years. The people of Eagleville didn't think much of it at first until his patients who weren't seriously ill began to die immediately after he had diagnosed them. Shortly after, there was the discovery of two empty graves. Mr. Charles P. Gillespie says that he remembers his grandchildren saying that it looked like there was a sinkhole in their grandfather's grave. When they went to investigate, they found that the ground had been tampered with and when the grave was dug up, the coffin was empty. The only thing the grave robber had left was the clothes. The cases of only two more bodies were discovered but seeing that the mysterious midnight journeys to Nashville occurred over the course of three or four years, it was thought that there might be quite a few empty graves in Eagleville. Dr. Heimark was arrested and indicted by the grand jury in February 1898. He was fined only $150 and sentenced to six months in prison. All of the bodies were brought back to Eagleville by train and returned to their proper gravesites.

Business in Eagleville - In the late 1800's and the early 1900's, a lot of schools and tobacco plants sprang up in Eagleville and the closely surrounding areas. There was one near Mt. Vernon, one where the present Community Center is located, and one near Henry and Al's Grocery. These were owned and operated by the Owen family. There was a saw mill, a flour mill, a tile mill, a few blacksmith shops, and seven grocery stores.

The first car dealership for Jackson brothers Chevrolet in Murfreesboro was started in Eagleville. James Jackson owned the tile mill in Eagleville and his sons owned the Jackson Chevrolet Dealership.

In October of 1933, Joe and Frank Crosslin opened a small store in Eagleville and named it Eagleville Produce Company. In 1940, the store was moved a few blocks up the street to the present location of Crosslin Supply Company. Frank made a building to house his feed, seed, grocery, and produce business. A restaurant was also operated from this location. Rolling stores called "peddling wagons" wheeled around the country roads selling coffee, fruit, and other grocery items in exchange for cash, chickens, and other locally produced items.

There was a tobacco manufacturing company on Cheatham Springs Rd. owned by A.P. Elmore. He moved to Eagleville and ran Rowena Flour Mill from 1892 until 1929 when it burned down.

In about 1943, Howard Marshall moved to Eagleville from Nashville and opened a grocery store next to the present location of the Eagleville Post Office. He ran the store until he died in 1984. On May 3, 1971, the store burnt down.

Fires in Eagleville - On July 11, 1952, about $100,000 worth of property was burnt. Herbert Williams poolroom and café, (where the fire started) burnt. The fire spread from there to W.T. Lowe's hardware store and Puckett's Grocery store. These buildings were located where the dairy bar and city hall are now located. At the time there was no fire engine in Eagleville which is why there was so much damage done. None of the businesses rebuilt.

There were also a handful of other fires. The Eagleville Baptist Church burnt somewhere between 1864-1865. The hotel across the street from the Savage school where some of the students lived burnt on March 28, 1890. Redmon's Restaurant burnt on August 24, 1960. Marshall's Grocery burnt on May 3, 1971.

The National

Historical Facts About Eagleville

Register of Historic Places

A number of houses in the city of Eagleville are members of the National Register of Historic Places.

- The William B. Jordan House (also known as The Jordan-Floyd-Presswood Farm)
- The William Harrison McCord House
- The Absalom Scales House
- The Thomas Williamson House (also known as The Burns Farmhouse)

Time Travel: Eagleville School - The very first Eagleville School was built in 1903. There were many other schools in the area and they were soon closed down with their students being moved to Eagleville School. In 1923, the school burned for the first time. Classes were moved to a local church until the school was rebuilt in 1924. Another fire destroyed the school in the 1980's and it was again rebuilt. It burned a third time in the summer of 1994 and was rebuilt into the Eagleville School that we know today.

The Fire of 1994 - News stations from all over the county rushed to get the coverage as the school burned on a Monday in the summer of '94. An investigation concluded that the fire started at around 5 am. There were many speculations as to how the fire had started; however, the police concluded that the fire was undetermined. They investigated everything from a possible lightning strike to arson. The case is still undetermined to this day.

In the 1994-1995 school year, when the new school was being built, there were rumors that Eagleville would lose the new high school. The people of the community fought with the commissioners and on March 13, 1995 it was voted, 19-2 the Eagleville would have a new high school built.

On June 6, 1995, at 10 am, a handful of people met for the Annual Groundbreaking Ceremony at the site of the new Eagleville High School.

Today Eagleville School is flourishing with roughly 1000 students, faculty, and staff.

The City Council continues to study and work on improving our City. Since being elected as your Mayor, my emphasis has been to improve the quality of life for Eagleville citizens. The City Council has embraced this concept as well and is trying to do what is best for Eagleville. The adoption of the new ordinances is certainly a step in the right direction. My resolve is to maintain our historical heritage, yet, realize what the future may dictate to us and plan accordingly. The amount of time devoted to bring about a better life for Eagleville is much appreciated. So, when you see these Council members – Ronnie Hill, Bobby Turner, Terry Zumbro, Debbie Ryan, Harold Vincion and David Rigsby – and their family members, please tell them “thank you” for the time and effort given.

Once again, the Beautification Committee recommended and the Council approved the purchase of two entrance signs into Eagleville on the North and South ends of Highway 41-A. At a later date there will be signs for the other three entrances into Eagleville. In addition to the Council Members and their families, also tell the members of this committee of and their families a big “thank you”: Gloria Hill, Janie Zumbro, Carolyn Barham, Debbie Ryan, Michelle Bennett, Melissa Buchanan, and Kim Baehr.

Our two new city employees are Executive Secretary, Michelle Bennett and Librarian, Debbie Turner. Come by and say “hello” to these outstanding young ladies. They are going to be an asset to our City.

With the assistance of Bryan Collins, City Planner, the following is the second installment of zoning and it’s importance:

The City of Eagleville, in coordination with the Eagleville Municipal Planning Commission, will be submitting subsequent articles that are designed to involve the citizens of Eagleville in community development and inspire citizens to contribute to planning and future development of their community. The City believes that success in planning and community development lies with how informed the citizen is, and recruiting the citizen’s interest.

Local planning and land use regulation rest on powers granted to cities and counties by the state constitution and by the Tennessee Code. One of those powers is the authority to prepare and adopt a zoning ordinance. The Tennessee Code empowers the chief legislative body to adopt a zoning ordinance and also specifies the broad areas which may be regulated by zoning. However, before the legislative body may exercise these powers, the Planning Commission must make and certify to the legislative body a zoning ordinance and a zoning map.

Zoning is defied as a police power measure in which the community is divided into districts or zones by the legislative regulations which specify allowable uses for real property, size restrictions for buildings and lots, placement, and other development standards within these areas. Zoning operates as a program that implements the policies of the General Plan for the community. The zoning code (or zoning ordinance) is an ordinance enacted by the legislative body pursuant to state law that sets forth regulations and standards relating to the nature and extent of uses of land and structures, which includes a zoning map, and complies with the provisions of state law.

Next month: Third installment of zoning ordinance information.

What's Being Offered this month at College Grove Senior Enrichment Center?

Homer Dever Band to Play College Grove Center Benefit

Being community-orientated and featured performers at many local benefits, the Homer Dever Band has agreed to headline a fundraising event at the College Grove Artsitorium on Saturday, March 27. The College Grove Senior Enrichment Center will be hosting a benefit Spaghetti Dinner, Silent Auction and concert by the Homer Dever Band and the Charles Hood Bluegrass Band at the College Grove Artsitorium from 5:00 p.m. till.

"This is going to be a night of good food, good fun and good music and what more can you ask for on a Saturday night," said Cherry Ralston, Program Planner for the College Grove Senior Center. "This is our third concert, but only our second dinner/auction and concert event. Each year, we hope that it will be better than last for turnout & auction items. This center, like all non-profit organizations, always has needs that we struggle to meet and these fundraising events are vital to the continuation of our programs."

The Homer Dever band features accomplished side and session musicians Don Helms, who played steel guitar with everyone from Patsy Cline to Hank Williams, and Richie Albright, who held the backbeat for Waylon Jennings for so many years. The bass is kept thumping by Dave Roe who has played with the late Johnny Cash to Bruce Springsteen. Ron Rigsby on banjo and Hank Singer on fiddle and Aubrey Preston leading on the mic rounds out the band. The Homer Dever Band onstage embodies the honky tonk legacy of the past masters like Hank Williams and Lefty Frizzle. The Charles Hood Bluegrass group is a local favorite at the College Grove Bluegrass Night series.

The dinner will begin at 5:00 p.m. with tickets for adults at $15 and $5 for children 8 and under. Auction items will be available for view and bidding from 5:00 p.m. till 8p.m. The music starts at 7:00 p.m. with the opening act, the Charles Hood Bluegrass Band and the Homer Dever Band will be headlining at 8:00 p.m. During the musical intermission, the results of the Silent Auction will be announced. All proceeds for the event will go to benefit the programs of the center.

If seeking more information about this event or for tickets, please call the Center at 615-368-7093. The center is open from 8am-3pm Monday thru Friday.

College Grove Center Hosts Area Business Breakfast

College Grove is inviting area businesses to attend the annual Business Breakfast for the greater College Grove area at 7:30 am, Wednesday, March 3, 2004 at the College Grove Senior Enrichment Center.

These breakfasts were begun to bring together business persons from the area who wish to network, discover what other services & products are available in the area, and keep informed on upcoming events which may impact the area and the local business community. New area businesses that may not have received an invitation to this breakfast are urged to attend.

"This is a great way for local businesses to meet the area business community which is quite diverse including Eagleville, Chapel Hill, Nolensville, Triune, and; of course, College Grove," said Cherry Ralston, Center Program Director. "Rural businesses do not often get opportunities to network or socialize, and that is the concept behind this Breakfast."

Call the Center at 368-7093 by March 1 to RSVP..

College Grove Senior Center Offers Free Tax Assistance

College Grove Senior Enrichment Center will be scheduling free tax assistance from counseling to preparation in March on the 9th and 16th from 10 a.m. till 3:00 pm with Jim Howell, an AARP Tax-Aide. "You do not have to be a member of AARP or a retiree to use this service," says Cherry Ralston, Program Planner for College Grove Senior Enrichment Center. "This is at least our third year to participate in this program." Last year, over 30,000 AARP Tax-Aide volunteers helped over 1.8 million people in the US with over 22, 000 Tennesseans receiving tax help. This program is offered in over 110 sites throughout the state including senior centers, libraries and other convenient locations. Service is also available for homebound individuals, whenever possible. Interested people can call 1-888-AARP NOW (1-888-227-7669) or visit the website at www.aarp.org/taxaide. If seeking more information about this or any other program at the Center, please call the Center at 615-368-7093. The center is open from 8am-3pm Monday thru Friday.

Eagleville School Band selected to participate in Tennessee Tech University Festival of Winds and Percussion

By Courtney Simon

Mrs. Medford, band director for Eagleville school was asked to select a few students from the band to participate in the Tennessee Tech University Festival of Winds and Percussion. Megan Pewitt, Kristen Musser, James Anderson, Jessica Barrett, Angela Boyce, and Courtney Simon were selected to represent Eagleville School. The group left on Thursday afternoon and went directly to auditions. Each person was given a name-card and sent to a room to get warmed up for the audition. The first audition, each student was asked to play several major scales by memory and then one chromatic scale. Next, each student went to another line to audition for sight-reading. “With a sheet of music placed in front of us and we were asked to play through it as much as we could. The next day the results were posted and each of us had made the Third Band.” All of the members of the Third Band were sent to DerryBerry Hall where they rehearsed for several hours a day for two days. On Friday, night a concert was held by the Tennessee Tech University Concert Band. Saturday night all three of the bands got together for a performance. The Third Band played first. The selections they played were music from Carmen, At The Crossroads, Prelude, Rondo, American Collage, and Love, Hope, Peace, and Happiness.

SCOUTS MEET THE CHALLENGE AT CLIMB NASHVILLE

On Saturday February 14, members of Boy Scout Troop 123 celebrated Valentine Day by making a trip to the indoor rock climbing wall in the Cool Springs Mall area. Adults Carl Warf, Rena Cron, Don Davis, Jeff Pinkston, Sandy Hawkins and Mike Hayes and 7 Boy Scouts, 3 Webelos Scouts, and 1 Tiger Cub had a lesson on safety, the correct way to climb and, how to belay someone who is climbing. With confidence, they attacked the many climbing courses spread out along the walls which extend 20 feet high. With toes and fingers searching for holds, the boys inched their way, working towards the top. Harnesses and a belay rope, with a partner on the ground kept them safe from any falls and made the trip down much faster than the climb up. For Scouts Jonathan Maxwell, Daniel Wilson, and Garrett Pinkston and Nathan Cron this was only their first or second attempt at Rock Climbing. For veteran Scouts, Jeff Davis, Jesse Emery, and Jared Davis the workout at the gym helps them practice the techniques they use on natural courses such as Stone Door. Webelos Scouts Shawn Hawkins, Nathan Wilson, Bradley Warf and Tiger Cub Clay Pinkston joined the Troop demonstrating their ability to tackle the height of the wall and learn the skills of climbing. The adults also seemed to enjoy their time on the wall, stretching to reach new heights or at least the next finger hold. It was a great adventure and the Scouts look forward to Climbing again soon.

Boy Scout Troop 123 meets each Tuesday from 7:00 to 8:15 p.m. at the Community Center. For more information about Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts contact Mike Hayes at 931-364-4744 or Don Davis 274-3439.
