Eagleville Volunteer Fire Department

By Terry Greene, Fire Chief

Hello from the Eagleville Volunteer Fire Department.... For those of you who are not familiar with our department and our volunteer fire fighters, I would like to take this opportunity to let you know a little about what's going on in order to keep our community informed and as safe as possible.

The members of the Fire Department have been staying busy with various classes and training. Captain Joe Progar is currently completing a class that will allow him to be a CPR and Basic First Aid Instructor. The Department has been working on pre-planning procedures in case of a fire with the local businesses, churches of the community and with the Eagleville School. March is Fire Safety Month and the EVFD will be at the school for fire training and safety on March 9th from 8:00-11:00. The children always enjoy this when we visit and include them.

Anyone that is in need of smoke detectors installed in their home, please let us know and we will do this for you. We would like to make sure every home in our district has a smoke alarm. Remember to check your alarms every time you pay your electric bill as a good way to make sure they are working properly.

During spring clean-up many will be burning outside. Please make sure to get a burn permit before you do this. This is for your best interest so that we will have the information and your address on file in case the fire gets out of hand and we need to respond.

In the spring, hopefully April or May, the members of the EVFD will be conducting a donation drive. You will be seeing them out in the community. The department is looking to purchase a one Ton Crew Cab 4x4 truck or bigger to be used for a brush truck. Anyone wanting to donate or know of such an individual, please let us know.

We are currently working on a grant to buy new Air Packs, a Cascade System and a Thermal Imaging Camera. The cost of this equipment will run approximately $85,000 with a cost to the department of 5% of the grant.

In the future we would like to have an Auxillary Fire Team to help as support when the department is on a very long call. This would provide drinks,snacks and much needed support. Most other departments in the area already have this in place and it helps in many different ways. On long or difficult calls, exhaustion and dehydration can set in very quickly. For anyone with questions concerning this, please feel free to contact me at City Hall.

Safety is always our number one concern in all that we set out to do on the the Eagleville Volunteer Fire Department. We hope everyone has a great and safe spring. God Bless.

Senior Homeowners, Surviving on a Fixed Income. Is a Reverse Mortgage right for me?

Living on a fixed income in today's times of increasing costs is almost impossible. As groceries and gas continue to go up, so might the daily stresses of wondering how you're going to get by on your own. While these are supposed to be your "golden years" many senior homeowners are continuing to work or take out high interest credit cards to make ends meet. A more feasible option could be a reverse mortgage.

A government insured reverse mortgage is a loan which no payments are made on the loan as long as you live in your home, pay your taxes and insurance and maintain your home. A reverse mortgage can help you convert some of your home equity into tax free proceeds and continue to live at home for as long as you want. You also retain title to your home and can sell or prepay your loan at anytime with no penalties.

But is it right for you? It is a decision you should consider carefully, because your home may be your most valuable financial asset. Some people may tell you to sell the house and move to assisted living or a nursing home. However, many older Americans would like to be independent and stay in their home. Why not consider a reverse mortgage as another option to have the financial freedom you deserve.

A Message From Your Mayor

It appears, all of us are ready for Spring. After a cold, snowy and wet winter, buttercups are beginning to bloom everywhere; Spring is here !!!

This time of the year everyone is anxious to get out of the house work in flowers, fish, play ball or just whatever makes individuals enjoy the fresh smell of Spring.

Our city park is busy signing up teams for the upcoming season. I know we all are in anticipation of our high school baseball team to follow up with another winning season. Last year they had a stellar season, with many players returning. I know they are wanting to make another record season.

Many people work to make Eagleville successful. No way could I mention all these people that unselfishly give their time and money to attribute our success. Mrs. Holton and her staff work everyday at Eagleville School to groom our younger citizens into responsible adults. At the same time, your city council looks for ways to enhance the quality of life for Eagleville and Rutherford County. Every action taken here reflects county wide.

Hopefully, next month, we will have more confirming news about the surveys and the sewer grant that some of you participated in. Thank You for your participation.

It is essential for the future of our city and school that we establish a sewer system [waste water plant]. This is a most difficult job your city council, but needed in order to move forward, be progressive but yet maintain the small town rural atmosphere attitude we all enjoy. It is a very tough balancing act to achieve both, however, we have to move forward or we get left behind from the rest of the county and state.

We are working everyday to make our street festival the best ever. Keith Bilbrey, long time announcer for the Grand Ole Opry, has again agreed to be our announcer for the June 4th event. If you would like to volunteer to help, please contact City Hall at 274-6992 or Debbie Ryan 274-2749.

I personally want to thank every citizen who supports our city; we all can contribute in some small way and I thank you for that.

As always please support our local business to help them better serve you if I can assist feel free to call my personal cell number 849-6509.

A Step Back in Time

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

Congratulations to the “Bank of College Grove” on their centennial anniversary. We are so fortunate to have a business institution, in our area, reaching such an important milestone. A very significant fact about this business is that its history has been preserved through the years. As mentioned in previous “Step Back in Time” articles, a book on the “History of College Grove” is being published, that will be beneficial to our future generations. The following history of the Bank of College Grove is a good example of the many interesting and informative articles that will be included in this publication.

BANK OF COLLEGE GROVE

One hundred years ago a group of men met under a white oak tree on the steps of what was then the College Grove Presbyterian Church and made plans to organize a new bank. Dr. W.J.M. Covington, a physician of the College Grove community, established the idea of a bank in College Grove. Other community members included Dr. J.J. Covington, J.C. Haley, James S. Ogilvie, J.G. Smith, W.L. Smith, and N.P. Warren. These members planned and received a charter from the State Banking Department at Nashville.

Six months later, Jan. 15, 1911, the bank opened for business with $1,782 that one of the organizers had withdrawn from a Nashville bank and kept in his home the night before. The bank was organized with capital stock of $10,000 which after three years grew to $15,000.

The new bank was the Bank of College Grove, and it was located in a then frame building in the heart of the South Williamson County community’s business district that fronts U. S. Highway 31-A.

Those representing the official board were Dr. J. J. Covington, President; S. H. Brisby, 1st Vice-President; J. C. Haley, 2nd Vice-President; and W. E. Stammer, Cashier. The Board of Directors included J. S. Ogilvie, N. P. Warren, J. L. Covington, I. J. Jordan, Dr. W. J. M. Covington, J. D. Scales, and J. G. Smith.

Year-end financial statements are indicative of the institution’s growth from a fledgling rural bank to a financially strong small bank. At the end of its first year of operation, the bank’s assets totaled little more than $27,000. This was a time of general prosperity in the county. Especially after the railroad was built through College Grove, there was a great increase in trade. The assets of the bank increased and even during the 1930s the bank was stable. Great growth was experienced in the 1970s. Assets were $4.9 million at the end of 1970. By the end of 1973 that figure had increased to $7.2 million.

J. J. Covington, Sr. was elected chairman of the bank’s organizational meeting in June 1910, and he was later elected first president of the bank. J. S. Ogilvie, who was elected first vice president of the new bank, became its president seven months after the bank opened when J. J. Covington resigned. Ogilvie served for five years (1912-1917). Others who served as bank president were T.H. Ogilvie (1916-1931), C. B. (Clarence) Haley (1930-1942), and J. P. Covington (1942-1984).

Minutes of the directors reflect something of the economic conditions under which the bank operated in its first years. N. P. Warren and J. L. Covington, who comprised a committee to buy furniture for the bank, “were ordered to buy it at the price asked, $60.”

In 1911, directors elected W. E. Stammer cashier at a salary of $75 a month. Two years later, he was raised to $85 a month. In 1916, lines of credit to “our heavy borrowers” were established. These ranged from $1,000 to $6,000. An “excessive loan” was considered $1,250.

T. H. Ogilvie was elected president of the bank in August 1916. At the directors’ January 1921 meeting, “a motion was made and carried to have an oyster supper at the school building for stockholders of the bank and their wives.”

At a March 1920 meeting, “the money tightness of the banks was discussed and the statement of the bank was read. The cashier recommended to the board putting two more directors on the board, making 13. But instead two directors offered their resignations as directors and were accepted by the board.”

Even in that day the bank was community-minded, just as it is today. At a January 1926 meeting, a motion “was made and carried, that the bank pay $25 toward freeing our pike from toll gates.”

Interest rates in January 1927 were a hefty four per cent, if you left your money in the bank on certificates of deposit for at least six months. Later, directors reduced the interest they were paying to three per cent.

At a September 1927 meeting, directors appointed a committee of W. T. Stammer, R. T. Young and C. B. Haley “to have the banking house remodeled and gave them power to spend $1,500 fixing it up if it took that much.” A later meeting reflects that the cost of renovating the building, including brick-veneering the original frame structure, ran $300 more than has been authorized.

In the memories of Erik Hardison, as written by Lanieve Eudailey: “In 1933 President Franklin D. Roosevelt closed the banks in order to give them an opportunity to recover from the depression. The College Grove bank was closed for only one hour.” In 1935 the Bank of College Grove was recognized as one of the strongest and most successful rural banks in Tennessee.

In addition to those mentioned above, elected Directors of the Bank in the first thirty years included W.B. White, M.B. Sanford, S. F. Anderson. The officers in 1938 were C.B. Haley, President; E.M. Covington, Cashier (succeeded W.E. Stammer), John Haley, Assistant Cashier; Eula Haley, Typist and Bank Correspondent.

Minutes of July 1943 reflect the directors’ decision to make application to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which had been in existence since 1934, to become an insured bank.

Over the years the Bank of College Grove was not overlooked by those who sought to make their living the easy way—by robbing banks.

The Jan. 2, 1936 Review Appeal reported: “The College Grove bank was robbed of over $1200 on a Tuesday afternoon. Two armed robbers walked into the bank and robbed it. The robbers apologized for their actions and said they were unable to find jobs and had no other way of getting money. They left, headed toward Lewisburg. Mr. Covington, cashier, fired six pistol shots at their car as they left and believed each shot hit the car. One of the bandits fired several pistol shots in return, but none took effect. They apparently attempted to use a back road as a shortcut toward Eagleville and a possible curving route toward Nashville, but had to return over the slippery bank of an ice-covered creek that flowed over the road. They were in a 1935 model Plymouth coupe. On Feb. 13, 1936 the Review Appeal reported that Pete Dean, 18, of Thompson Station, was returned to the state penitentiary at Nashville after he was apprehended for robbing the Jackson County bank at Whitleyville and escaping with approximately $500. Dean admitted that he was one of the two men who recently held up the Bank of College Grove.

The bank was robbed again on the night of Aug. 28, 1946, of $4749.79. In September 1946, "It was suggested by the cashier that we offer a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the robbers. At a March 1947 board meeting the cashier was authorized to install a burglar alarm in the bank.

The Bank moved from its original location to a new building, adjacent to the College Grove post office, in the fall of 1965.

August 14, 1969 the College Grove Bank experienced another bank robbery. The amount taken totaled, $22,206. "Matthew T. Harwell, executive vice-president and cashier of the bank, said he saw the two men entering the front door and immediately rushed to close the vault door which he had just opened. He said one of the men ran behind him and jabbed a pistol at his neck. The slamming of the door sounded like a shot and frightened him and the others in the bank. The men made Mr. Harwell, the two tellers, Mrs. Marjorie Bellenfant and Mrs. Jean Batts, and a customer, Sam Pinkston, lie on the floor while they cleaned out five cashier cages. As they left one of the men spotted a booby-trapped package of money and hurled it on the floor causing the tear-gas bomb to explode."

"The men escaped in a white 1969 Chrysler discovered later to have been stolen from country music star Billy Grammer while he was fishing. The get-away car was found about two hours after the hold-up parked behind the Rehoboth Methodist Church on Possum Trot Road just inside Rutherford County. A red Ford which had been seen there earlier was gone and authorities assumed the gunmen switched to it." Carroll Johnson, cashier of the Bank of College Grove, did receive a check for the stolen money from the Truett and Barker Insurance Company as payment for the amount taken in the robbery.

Matthew Harwell, the son of a Methodist minister who held pastorates throughout Middle Tennessee, came to work for the bank in 1942 and remained for 35 years. Harwell said "I never had a home until I lit here." Previously, he was in the insurance business. When he first started, the bank had only 2 paid employees and, as he told The Tennessean's, and College Grove's, Ed Cromer, he was "janitor, bookkeeper and assistant cashier, all at the same time." Harwell saw the institution grow from assets of $200,000 to $14.3 million. "I remember the day we got to a million dollars for the first time," he said. "I thought the adding machine was broken."

Powell Covington, 12 years old when the bank was first established bought half a share of the stock for $50, all the money he had; his father bought the other half. His grandfather, Dr. John James Covington, helped to establish the bank and Powell's father, Cowden McCord Covington, was an early director of the bank. Powell Covington started as a director of the bank in 1938, became bank president in 1942 and went on to serve the bank in various roles for

WANTED – FLAT CREEK SCHOOL INFORMATION

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

Information, school pictures, stories and school memorabilia is now being collected for a book to be published on the Flat Creek School which was located in the Flat Creek Community of Williamson County, Tennessee. The school dates from 1854 to approximately 1960. Former students, teachers or anyone with information, please contact Jeannie McElhaney, 615-274-3971 – 2904 Hwy 41 A N. Eagleville, Tn. 37060 or Helen Logue, 615-599-6764 -1603 Emerald Ct., Franklin, Tn. 37064.

In 1972 the Bank of College Grove established its first branch office, on Columbia Avenue, in Franklin. In September 1980 employees Elaine Holt, Diane Schnakenberg and Penny Langley detained a man who tried to make a withdrawal from the Bank of Franklin using a stolen savings book until police were notified and arrested the man, thus gaining the nickname "Carroll's Angels" from the television show "Charlie's Angels" and bank president Carroll Johnson's name. A similar incident occurred at a later date when someone broke into bank employee Sheila Hood's car and stole a tape player, billfold, driver's license, credit cards and a passbook. The burglars didn't know that Ms. Hood worked for the US Bank in Franklin where the stolen passbook account was located. Ms. Hood alerted the staff of the theft the next day; later in the morning a woman entered the bank and presented Sheila's passbook and driver's license to Ann McKee and attempted to withdraw $250. Ann diverted the woman's attention and notified Carroll Johnson who phoned police. Officers arrested the woman and later arrested two men who had promised to pay the woman fifty dollars.

In 1974 a newspaper article was written about the bank. At that time, there were 14 officers and employees. Besides J. Powell Covington and Matthew Harwell, they included: Melvin White, vice president; Dan Taylor, vice president; B. Carroll Johnson, vice president; Anthony Pewitt, Edward C. Cromer, Mrs. Marjorie Bellenfant, Mrs. Roberta Cothran, Mrs. Nancy Ford, Mrs. Barbara Ladd, Martha Robinson, Mrs. Gail Sanford and Patricia Harris.

Directors of the bank were Joe C. Bellenfant, M. F. Clendenin, Mabry Covington, Wilson Dowdy, Wilson Herbert, Robert A. Manier, I. C. Waddey, Melvin White, J. Powell Covington and Harwell.

From 1911 for more than seventy years, the Bank of College Grove was owned primarily by members of the community. Beginning in 1982 the bank has changed its name and its ownership many times: Bank of Franklin (Franklin office only, 1980), United Southern Bank (1982), Nashville City Bank (1984), Dominion Bank (1987), Firststar, First Union Bank (both 1998), and lastly U S Bank (2000), which is still the name of the bank in 2011.

Over the years the bank has offered employment to members of the community, sometimes for a short while, sometimes for a working lifetime. This group includes, in addition to some previously mentioned, Nancy Ford, Mabry Covington, Marvin Clendenin, Mildred Hardison, Buddy Cromer, Roberta Cothran, Marjorie Garrett Bellenfant, Nell Wilson, Joannie Glenn Batts, Danny Taylor, Pat Peach, Larry Hazelwood, Joe Gabard, Martha Robinson, Lesley Swayze, Tammy Hazelwood, Amy Fagan, Betty Rigsby, Bobbie Taylor Tackett, Gail Sanford and Kay Johnson.

Since 1911 the Bank of College Grove has changed in many ways. Rules and regulations have proliferated in the banking industry and business transactions long ago progressed from pencil and adding machine to computer. As this book goes to press the employees at the bank are Tammy Hazelwood, Bonnie Spain, Katie Taylor, Rayann Waddey Potocik and Nathan Robinson.

Regional Science Olympiad Held At MTSU

Congratulations to Emily Adams and Brandyn Jutkofsky for their first place finish in the mousetrap vehicle competition at the Regional Science Olympiad at MTSU Saturday February 26. The Science Olympiad is an international non-profit organization devoted to improving the quality of science education and increasing student interest in science. It is considered one of the premiere science competitions in the nation, providing rigorous, standards-based challenges to middle and high school students.

The mousetrap vehicle competition required the participants to design, build and test a vehicle using one or two snap mousetraps as the sole propulsion energy source to push a plastic cup forward three meters, leave the cup there, reverse direction, and stop behind the starting line. Emily's and Brandyn's mousetrap vehicle was the only vehicle to travel 2.91 meters forward and about 3.5 meters backward, putting them far ahead of the competition! Nancy Caukin, Emily and Brandyn's Principles of Technology teacher said, "This was only our second year to compete in the Science Olympiad. I am so proud of Emily and Brandyn not just for finishing first place, but for all the hours they spent on perfecting their vehicle. They have shown tremendous commitment and dedication to this endeavor and demonstrated a true engineer's aptitude for problem-solving, thinking outside of the box and cooperation to produce an exceptional product!"

THE BUZZ AROUND CO-OP

GREENER PASTURES

March is the perfect time to spray and fertilize your hay fields and pastures so they will be ready for those April showers. The first important step is to identify your weeds and obtain the proper chemicals to eradicate them. Feed your grass, not the weeds!

The second step is having a current soil test before spreading fertilizer, which will allow you to use a special formulated blend of nutrients on your fields. This application will bring on an early stand of pasture forage and a healthy and hardy thick first cutting of hay. With the increase of grain prices, a good pasture is extremely important this year for continual grazing.

Stop by the Co-op and talk to our team of professionals about your home and farm needs. At the Co-op we strive to bring you the most current information and products in the marketplace today. Stop by and check out our garden center which is now open and stocked with annual flowers, roses, spring seed and cool weather vegetables.

Rutherford County 4-H Honors Members

By Rebecca Henry

Forty-three Rutherford County 4-H'ers were recognized at a reception on February 20, 2011 for their project work, leadership, and citizenship efforts.

4-H members are invited to the reception by winning 1st, 2nd, or 3rd at a county contest or by representing Rutherford county at a regional, state or national event. We awarded outstanding 4-H'ers in each of five divisions: Explorer (4th grade), Junior (5th grade), Junior High (6th – 8th grade), Senior High Level I (9th – 10th grade), and Senior High level II (11 – 12th grades). Outstanding 4-H'er is determined by a point system for project involvement, competition, leadership and citizenship activities. Those members were: Explorer – Savannah Sandlin of Murfreesboro, Junior – Scott Ayers of Christiana, Junior High – Olivia Gum of Readyville, Senior High Level I – Ariel Chism of Murfreesboro, Senior High Level II – Jonathan Belcher of Rockvale.

We also recognized our School of the Year which is determined by the amount of participation in three projects: Public speaking contest, Demonstration contest, and Exploring 4-H book (4th grade)/Project activity sheets (5th grade). Our 2010 School of the Year was Brown's Chapel Elementary. Teacher of the Year was also honored. The nominees were: Brandi 2009-2010 Friend of 4-H plaque was presented to Kaye and Pete Doughtie at this year's 4-H award recognition reception held Sunday afternoon, Feb. 20. Pictured (L-R) Barbara Davenport, Extension Educator, Kaye and Pete Doughtie.

Breneman 5th grade teacher, Brown's Chapel Elementary, Jason Eaton 5th grade teacher, Smyrna Elementary, Kay Monroe 5th grade teacher, Barfield Elementary, Mike Perry 5th grade teacher, Walter Hill Elementary, Michelle Slusher 5th grade teacher, Brown's Chapel Elementary. The 2010 Teacher of the Year was Kay Monroe. We also honor a business or individual who has been very supportive of the Rutherford County 4-H program as our Friend of 4-H. The 2010 recipient was the Doughtie Family.

Rutherford County 4-H has an enrollment of 4,570 youth in 4th – 12th grade. We have youth enrolled in 237 clubs (including in-school), project groups, or classes.

Wisdom of a Wannabe "Town Girl"

Some of my richest childhood memories are of my grandmother. Our relationship continued to grow stronger throughout the years of our lives. She was always lighthearted with a smile and a joke for anyone who would sit and listen to her spin a tale full of humor and chuckles. My grandmother never met a stranger and with the blink of her eye and the crack of her smile, the room would erupt in laughter, and a friendship was born. The circus that seemed to always be in my grandmother's midst was colorful, filled with smiles, and lots of laughter. Growing up, I thought she was the ringmaster, cracking her wit at every turn. Later in life I realized the many valuable lessons I learned from my grandmother during our laughter and lighthearted conversations.

One of my favorite pictures of my grandmother is of her in her twenties in a bathing suit at the water's edge. I always thought she was so beautiful in that picture, and although I never saw my grandmother smoke a cigarette, it was known that she was a smoker during that era of her life. I never knew my grandmother without emphysema, caused by cigarette smoking in her younger years. Even though never spoken, the most important health lesson that my grandmother taught me was this one: Do not smoke. I knew that smoking robbed us of many walks, swims, and our ability to enjoy life on a whim. My grandmother always said that if she wasn't sick, she would be a real "town girl."

During my nursing career I have witnessed countless patients trying to mentally and emotionally work through a serious medical diagnosis. However, few things in medicine bring about more anxiety for patients than difficulty with breathing. Is it any wonder that people who suffer from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) also have a high incidence of anxiety and depression? Those who suffer from COPD are faced with loss of function, social isolation, and constant worry of being able to bring moments of breathlessness under control.

According to one study, about 80% of people with COPD suffer from depression, anxiety, or both. Studies also indicate that women are at a higher risk of suffering from the emotional effects of COPD. I think it is important for caregivers and loved ones to be on the lookout for the signs and symptoms of anxiety and depression, and if needed, seek medical treatment from a healthcare provider. The good news is that these conditions are treatable, and early medical intervention may improve results and save the whole family a lot of stress and anxiety.

It is important to understand that many medications used to treat COPD can also lead to depression and emotional anxiety. Adding anxiety and depression to an episode of shortness of breath only compounds the problem, making symptoms worse while decreasing the ability to participate in daily living. Recognizing and understanding the benefits of early treatment for the emotional aspects of COPD will improve overall quality of life.

The unspoken words from a wannabe "town girl" if you smoke: Stop! There is nothing sexy or glamorous about not being able to breathe or oxygen tubing. I often look back on my childhood experiences and reflect on how they have affected me in adulthood. I am sure that my grandmother missed out on things with me that she would have liked to have experienced. As for me, I know I missed out on a whole circus of experiences, smiles, and laughter that I will never know.

Laura On Life

By Laura Snyder

The Bane of My Existence

Video games are the bane of my existence. I have the power to eradicate them from my home. The only problem is that I live here with other people. Some of those people have chosen to side with the video games.

If I let the video games stay, I can impose rules that will control the amount of time my children can play them and I can monitor the appropriateness of these games. They can also be used as a threat when someone refuses to eat their vegetables. If I eradicate them, they will go “underground.”

They are like illegal drugs; seemingly harmless, but slowly wreaking havoc and impossible to get rid of without losing control of the situation. The addiction will seep into every facet of a child’s life.

I’ve seen it happen and could only stand by and watch. No matter what restrictions I put on them, the path doesn’t change.

It starts out by some “dealer” saying “Try this.” The kid will try because their “dealer” is usually someone they trust, like their dad, older brother or close friend.

Then, you watch cartoonish animals running around a screen and falling off buildings. You think, “That’s kind of cute. The little guy is trying to rescue a princess.” You think, “It teaches good values. What’s the harm?”

The game keeps him busy and out of your hair, right? What’s not to like?

Then you begin to notice that the games begin to take precedence over everything else; schoolwork, chores, family game night, friends... everything.

“Just let me get to a place where I can save the game.”

You don’t want to be rude, but it apparently takes 15 - 30 minutes to arrive at this safe place. Bedtime, which used to be set in stone, is now suddenly negotiable.

I have taken to pulling out the plug when it takes more than 30 seconds to get to a safe place. They know it, and expect it.

It’s amazing how fast they get to their safe place now. My husband warns me about future computer malfunctions caused by improper shut downs... Ask me if I care.

No matter that I have, long ago, restricted game-playing to a few hours on the weekend. If we have plans for an outing, the video games somehow wend their insidious way into those plans.

“Okay, I’ll help clean up the garage, Mom, after my three hours of game time. Otherwise, someone else will be on the computer and I won’t have a chance to play.”

Well, that wouldn’t be very fair, would it?

My children have learned that it is far easier for me to ban video games for the entire weekend rather than try to schedule our plans around them.

“We’re going to be gone all day?! But I didn’t get to play video games yet!”

Boo-hoo.

I started out not wanting to be rude and trying to accommodate the interests of my children. After all, I know it would’ve upset me if my parents banned the activities I liked to do. Even if they thought those activities were not good for me, I still would have been mad.

The fact that my children may be mad at me doesn’t seem to bother me as much as the thought of seeing a virtual weapon in their virtual hands being used on virtual people.

“But Mom, they’re zombies, not real people. They have no brains, or conscience.”

It doesn’t take long for those cute little cartoon characters to become zombies, does it? How long will it be before they think I’m a zombie? How long before the virtual weapon becomes real?

The trick, I think, is to keep them grounded in real life 90% longer than they are immersed in a virtual life. At least, I hope that’ll work.

Learn About Butterflies Day

KIDDIE CORRAL

BY ANGELA WOODALL

Butterfly Trivia

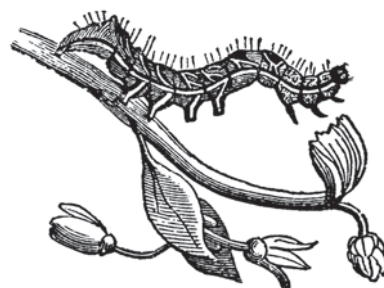

- Did you know butterflies taste with their feet?
- A butterfly usually flies during the day
- The butterflies life cycle consists of four parts: egg, larva, pupa and adult
- Butterfly eggs are fixed to a leaf with a special glue which hardens rapidly
- Butterfly larvae are also known as caterpillars

How to Attract Butterflies

As you look to attract butterflies, look for flowers with lots of nectar. Also, look for flowers whose blooms offer a suitable place for a butterfly to land and rest while feeding. Here are some flowers that you will want to add to your flowerbed or landscaping plans, to attract butterflies:

- Lilies
- Violets
- Lavender
- Aster
- Hyacinth
- Wildflowers High in Nectar

The Fuzzy Caterpillar

(Tune: Itsy Bitsy Spider)

The fuzzy caterpillar
Curled up on a leaf,
Spun her little chrysalis
And then fell fast asleep.

While she was sleeping
She dreamed that she could fly,
And later when she woke up
She was a butterfly!

Caterpillar Snack Idea

In the book The Very Hungry Caterpillar, by Eric Carle, the caterpillar is able to taste many different types of food. Below is a list of those foods you could share with your little one. Try one or a few!

- Apples
- Pears
- Plums
- Strawberries
- Oranges
- Cake
- Ice Cream
- Pickles
- Swiss cheese
- Salami
- Lollipops
- Cherry Pie
- Sausage

Recipe Of The Week

Easy Beef Kabobs

WHAT YOU NEED

1 lb. beef sirloin steak, cut into 16 pcs
3 ears corn on the cob, cut into 1-inch-thick slices
1 green pepper, cut into chunks
1 cup Barbecue Sauce
3/4 cup chopped cilantro

MAKE IT THREAD steak evenly onto 4 skewers. Thread vegetable chunks on 4 additional skewers. Place in shallow glass dish.

MIX barbecue sauce and cilantro. Pour half the sauce mixture over kabobs; cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours to marinate.
Refrigerate remaining sauce mixture for serving with kabobs.

HEAT grill to medium heat. Remove steak kabobs from marinade; discard marinade.
Grill 5 min.; turn kabobs over. Add vegetable kabobs to grill; grill 5 to 6 min. or until steak is done and vegetables are crisp-tender. Warm reserved sauce mixture; serve with kabobs.
