A Message From Your Mayor

Greetings From City Hall

The long awaited Public Sewer System for The City of Eagleville has finally become a reality.

USDA announced our city would receive $1,000,000 grant money that does not have to be repaid, however along with the grant we were also awarded a low interest loan in the amount of $1,600,000 at 2.5% interest for the payment of 40 years. This long overdue project will enable of city to recruit business of everyday staples hopefully, a parts store, a dry cleaner; business we all need everyday.

A problem to be solved that most have completely ignored is our school. Eagleville School will be on the city sewer system. This will provide a healthier environment for the school, provide more parking spaces, and the most obvious, school activities will be conducted with better breathing conditions.

The project is scheduled to start in May with hopes of being finished by Christmas. I am sure there will be some construction delay and detours as the project is completed but, hopefully they will be minimal.

There has been need for some paving on city streets. As sewer looked more realistic paving has been put on hold until the sewer project is complete. We do not want to spend tax dollars on pavement then dig up new pavement for utility lines. Street maintenance and repairs will be made where necessary. There are a few locations that will be repaired soon as weather will allow.

As our city moves forward, your city council voted to accept the service of David Breniser as an reserve police officer. Officer Breniser is certified by the State of Tennessee as a police officer. David will work for no pay, so there is minimal cost to the city to provide more police protection.

Any leader or elected official has to be a visionary. You must look forward and plan for the future. We live in a changing world everyday. Anyone who thinks they live in the same world they grew up in are fooling themselves. Your city council acknowledges the fact that Eagleville is not the same town it was 25 years ago and in 5 years our city will not be the same as it is today. With this being said Eagleville has hired a planning and engineering firm to help guide us. Griggs & Maloney located in Murfreesboro has been chosen to give the assistance we need to plan for the future.

It is utmost important that we preserve our southern heritage, our small town friendliness and hospitality we offer everyone. At the same time, welcome new business and new neighbors who wish to share our life style.

Spring is just around the corner. I know Eagleville will be as beautiful as ever as our citizens begin their yard and garden work and we all enjoy the blooming flowers throughout our city.

Please shop locally and support our school.

If I can be of assistance, feel free to call my personal cell number, 849-6509.

Sam Tune, Mayor

Rutherford County Property Assessor

The Rutherford County Property Assessor's Office is pleased to announce that beginning Saturday March 2nd and the first Saturday of each month thereafter, the office hours will be extended from 9AM until 12 Noon. This is our way of assisting taxpayers who find it difficult to come in during regular business hours due to work schedules.

Our office is also making digital filing of Tangible Personal Property Schedules available for the first time. Call the Personal Property Department at 615-898-7761 to discover how your business may take advantage of this wonderful time saving program. Personal Property Schedules are due back in the Assessor's Office on or before March 1st of each year in order to avoid a forced assessment.

The Assessor's Office is making every effort to assist eligible owners of property with 15 acres or more to apply for the State of Tennessee's Greenbelt Program. This program is designed to aid property owners with agricultural, forest, or open space land. For more information on the Greenbelt Program please call us at 615-898-7750 or drop by 319 N Maple St Suite 200 Murfreesboro, Tennessee so we can help.

We recognize that many times bad things happen to good people. In an effort to provide relief to property owners whose property was severely damaged or destroyed, we have instituted a policy to collect data from emergency responders, insurance companies and restoration contractors to assist us in locating taxpayers who are eligible for help but may not realize it. If you or someone you know has a building on their property which has been damaged, destroyed or demolished in the last year please notify the Assessor's Office so that we can adjust the property when applicable.

Everyone is welcome to call or drop by our office anytime.

Rob Mitchell, Assessor of Property, Rutherford County Tennessee

Senators Ketron And Tracy Sign On Legislation To Exempt Vehicles Under Three Years Old From Emissions Testing

Automobiles under three years old would be exempt from Tennessee's vehicle emission test under legislation under consideration in the State Legislature and co-sponsored by Rutherford County Senators Bill Ketron (R-Murfreesboro) and Jim Tracy (R-Shelbyville). The legislation would apply to owners of vehicles in six Tennessee counties where emissions testing is required, including Rutherford County.

Vehicles with a gross vehicle weight of up to 10,500 pounds in Hamilton, Davidson, Rutherford, Sumner, Williamson or Wilson Counties must currently pass an emissions test prior to registration renewal. Senate Bill 1080 would exempt testing for gasoline and diesel vehicles from that requirement if the automobile's model is three years old or newer.

"This is a big step forward in relieving this burdensome regulation on Rutherford County citizens," said Senator Ketron. "I am pleased to lend it my full support."

"Many citizens have spoken with me regarding this requirement," said Senator Tracy, who is Chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee which will hear testimony on the bill. "I look forward to supporting it as it moves through our Transportation Committee and onto the floor of the Senate."

The emissions regulations were put into place to control pollution from mobile sources in counties that were not meeting the eight-hour ozone Federal Standards for air quality. The mandatory testing requirement does not apply to electric vehicles, motorcycles or antique vehicles with a model year of 1974 or older.

The bill is pending a scheduled hearing in the Transportation and Safety Committee in the Senate and the Agriculture and Natural Resources Subcommittee in the House of Representatives.

Dr. J. C. Emmons Dies: Rites at Chapel Hill

Dr. John Clifford Emmons 44, died Friday at a Nashville hospital, several hours after he had suffered a heart attack.

The body is at Lawrence Funeral Home. Prayer services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. at Chapel Hill Methodist Church. Burial will be in Kirksville, Mo.

Dr. Emmons was a native of Chrisman, Illinois. He had lived in Chapel Hill 17 years and had been a steward in the Methodist Church and active in the Lions Club. He also was a member of the Chapel Hill Masonic Lodge, a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner.

Dr. Emmons was a former president and secretary of the Tennessee Chapter of the American Osteopathic Association. He was a graduate of Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Survivors include his wife, Betty, a son, Johnny and his mother, Mrs. Ethel E. Emmons.

(Dr. Emmons, son of Earl and Ethel Boles Emmons, was born August 5, 1913 and Died July 18, 1958. He is buried in the Maple Hills Cemetery, Kirksville, Mo.)

Dr. Culbertson Funeral Today

Services for Dr. Newton Hunter Culbertson, 77, a physician in Chapel Hill for about 50 years, will be at 3 p.m. today at the Chapel Hill Methodist Church.

The Rev. W. E. Gober, the Rev. J. F. Rowlette and Charles E. Jackson will officiate. Burial will be in the Swanson Cemetery.

Native of Marshall County, Culbertson was a 1909 graduate of the University of the South at Sewanee, and did post graduate work at the University of Chicago. He interned at Natchez, Mississippi.

Dr. Culbertson was the first Mayor of Chapel Hill and was a former magistrate. He was Principal of the former Chapel Hill Training School for several years, and was a former President of the Marshall County Medical Society.

He was a member of the Chapel Hill Methodist Church and served as the Sunday School Superintendent for 15 years.

Dr. Culbertson was Vice President of the First State Bank and a charter member of the Chapel Hill Lions Club. He also was a Mason.

On his 72nd birthday, residents of Chapel Hill honored him by declaring it "Dr. Culbertson Day".

He married Susan Ransom in 1911. She died in 1918. He later married the former Bessie Mae Jones, who died in 1941. In 1943 he married the former Genie Bell Powell. Survivors include his wife, Genie Bell Culbertson, son N. H. Culbertson Jr. and brother, Hershel Culbertson.

(Dr. Culbertson was born October 14, 1883 and died June 13, 1961. He was the son of John Houston and Nancy Alice Hunter.)

December 1946 - William Harwell Killed by Train

Magistrate E. M. Covington of College Grove, Tn. Said Monday that the coroner's jury investigating the death early Sunday morning of William Kenneth Harwell, aged 35 years, of College Grove, well-known farmer, has officially reported that he was killed when he was struck by a train.

The decapitated body of Harwell was found on the right-of-way along Louisville and Nashville Railway track near College Grove about 8 o'clock Sunday morning by a neighbor, Mrs. J. W. Hood, who saw it through the window in the kitchen of her home near the railway.

Harwell's car was found with an empty gas tank about one-half mile north of College Grove, where the highway and railroad run parallel for some miles. The body was found about 75 yards from Harwell's home near the railroad about one-half mile south of College Grove. Covington said the man was apparently walking south toward his home when he was killed. The keys to the automobile were found in the dead man's pockets.

Harwell was reported seen buying groceries in a College Grove store about 11 o'clock Saturday night. The groceries were found in the parked automobile, Sheriff Earl Gatlin of Franklin said.

There was no sign of violence of robbery; Covington said about $14.00 being found on Harwell's body.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harwell, Mr. Harwell was born in Lincoln County and formerly resided at Caney Spring in Marshall County. His wife, Mrs. Virginia Harber Harwell, died about three years ago. Funeral services were conducted at 1:00 o'clock Monday afternoon at the College Grove Church of Christ by Andy Largen, Fayetteville minister, with burial in McCurdy Cemetery at Verona.

October 1934 - Rockvale Plans School Paper

Writers Club Will Publish "Maple Echo", Officers Named

On September 28th, a Writers' Club was organized at Rockvale High School under the direction of Miss Ruth Smotherman. Officers elected are: William Smotherman, President; Leonard Prater, Vice President; Inez Brothers, Secretary and Treasurer; Virginia Johnson, Reporter.

The club's main project for the year was the sponsoring of "The Maple Echo," a monthly paper published by the Rockvale students. The Maple Echo staff for 1934-35 was: Ruth Scott, business manager; Ruth Taylor, assistant business manager; Arzella Walden, editor; Stanley Prater, humor editor and Fount Love, alumni editor.

Rockvale School Buses

Martha Williams, Fifth and Sixth grades; Gerry Smotherman, Third and Second grades*; Wanda Marion, Third and Fourth grades*; Margaret Anne Smith, Second Grade; Leila Carlton, First grade and Miss Ruth Smotherman, Faculty Advisor.

It was decided that the club be divided into two groups for the purpose of putting on a subscription drive. Virginia Johnson was leader of one side and Ruth Scott of the other. The side winning is to be entertained by the losers.

*(These classes were possibly split classes)

December 1912 - Rabbit Barbecue

A big rabbit barbecue was given at Mr. Andrew Turner's home, near Eagleville on Monday night. Fifteen fine, plump rabbits were dressed by Mr. Turner and barbecued by Mrs. Cora McDaniel, and those partaking of the feast say they never had anything better to eat.

Among those present were J. F. Baskin, W. A. Burkhart and family, Sam Maupin and family, R H. Baskin, Jesse Wilson, Jas. Vaughn, besides a number of young people. The rabbits dressed by Mr. Turner, looked good enough to eat without cooking. Mrs. Cora McDaniel is praised for the excellent manner in which they were barbecued. Some of the guests say their mouths are watering for a repetition of the feast. Tuesday night a similar feast was held at W. A. Burkhart's.

(Mr. Andrew Turner is the grandfather of John Edward and Lanny Turner, residents of Eagleville and the late Willard and Robbie Turner.)

May 1976 - Groundbreaking For New Eagleville High School Gym

Eagleville and County officials along with approximately 500 local citizens and students attending the groundbreaking of a new $380,000 gymnasium and physical education complex for Eagleville High School. Front Row Left to Right - Burney L. Tucker architect; Dr. Homer Pittard; Frank E. Crosslin Sr., Magistrate David Ralston; Rutherford County School Superintendent M. B. Brandon; County Judge Ben Hall McFarlin, School Board Member Lydia Glanton; Eagleville Mayor Fred Hobbs, Assessor of Property Haynes Baltimore and Principal Joe Shelton

Woman Buys First 1932 Car License

Mrs. C. C. (Lizzie) Puckett of Rover is the first 1932 auto license purchaser in Rutherford County. Mrs. Puckett's license was secured early this morning shortly after County Court Clerk Jim Leathers opened his office.

However, Mr. Leathers and his clerks were not the slightest overworked to take care of all the first morning's calls, as only 10 had had been sold at noon.

The numbers this year run from 162, 951 to 168, 150, while the truck numbers run from 16,701 to 17,200. The new tags may be applied any time and no automobile may be operated after February 1 without the new license plates.

The trailer must be registered according to maximum capacity and not minimum and any violation of the law calls for a re-rating and a small fine.

(Mrs. Lizzie was the mother of Russell, Nat and Arnold Puckett, whom all lived in the Rover-Eagleville area.)

(Prior to 1915, when the first state-issued plates were distributed, vehicle owners in Tennessee were charged with supplying their own plates, just as in every other state. Plates made of wood, leather and metal are all known, but some owners chose to purchase porcelain plates from out of town mail order firms. By far the most common of these was a simple, relatively small plate bearing a number and the designation "Tenn." These all had white letters on a blue base.)

December 6, 1931 - Mid-afternoon Fire Razes Tobacco Plant

The C. F. Brittain Tobacco Manufacturing Company of College Grove, was totally destroyed by fire of undetermined origin, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The fire was discovered by an employee as he passed the building about two hours after all the employees had quit for the day. When his efforts failed to extinguish the blaze, he called for assistance but the fire had gained too much headway when volunteers arrived.

The building was two stories in height and contained an unusually heavy stock of tobacco. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. Clarence Fuller Brittain was in Nashville when the fire was discovered.

(This tobacco factory, which produced "pipe tobacco" called "Uncle Fullers", was located on Mr. Brittain's farm which is presently owned by Embree Blackwell Jr.

Clarence Fuller and wife, Evelyn Grisby Brittain, had purchased the farm in 1920 from L. D. and Ella Bell. The property was later sold to George and Mattie Sloan.)

PASTOR'S PONDERINGS

By Pastor Ken Sharp, Jackson Ridge Community Church

We celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave this month. Luke 24:2 records, "They found the stone rolled away." Let us not forget that the Easter message is a message based on historical reality and fact. There was an actual stone rolled against the doorway of a real tomb. That stone was really removed, that tomb was actually empty. The physical body that it contained was now gone, later to be seen again as a glorified but very real body, bearing the print of the nails and the mark of the spear. If we deny these facts, we will strike at the very foundation of the faith. "If Christ is not raised, said the apostle Paul, "your faith is vain, you are yet in your sins," 1 Corinthians 15:17. Whatever skeptics may say, the fact remains that on the first Resurrection Sunday morning the tomb was empty, and the Christ Who showed Himself alive to His followers had actually arisen from the dead! Are you this Resurrection Day rejoicing in Him as the Lord Whose Resurrection power gives you joy and peace and victory over sin?

Love, Mercy and Grace

Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church would like to invite you to our Maunday Thursday Communion March 28th at 7:00.

Each year our church is blessed to have this service, which is called a "Seder Meal", to remember that special event as Jesus went through his final hours with his disciples in the Upper Room. We pray that you will leave this service with insight as you gather for your Easter celebration.

WHY DENY?

May I ask you a question: What will it take for you to truly celebrate Easter? You may say: "I always celebrate Easter; it's one of the fun times of the year; our family gets together; we dress up; we enjoy great food; the kids hunt eggs." But that's really not the question, is it? What is Easter after all? The celebration of Jesus rising from death and the tomb; to give thanks for God's conquering of evil and to give the world his true Messiah (Savior). What will it take for you to let go and find real joy in giving thanks for making that discovery in your own life? Of course, that depends upon your own willingness to believe with all your heart and mind. I think we deny ourselves a good portion of exuberant joy by not reliving the reality of Easter in our own personal lives. I have a confession to make: I don't always celebrate Easter fully either! I don't always go back to that Easter when I was ten and made that wildly exciting discovery that God loved me so much as to give his own Son, Jesus Christ, for me – little ole me. I need not feel guilty any more; nor think so little of myself any more; nor feel so alone in the world any more; (and I could add a lot of "any mores" here). The point being, that experience changed my whole life. So I wonder why we deny ourselves the wonderful chance to live again within? That's what Easter meant for me that Sunday so long ago.

I think here of that bold disciple of Jesus who seemed to have a quick answer for most anything. But when the chips were down and his true test came after they had arrested Jesus, he backs down. A servant girl sees him and says, "You were with Jesus the Galilean." Taken by surprise, Peter denies it in front of everyone. Over near the gate someone said, "This man was with Jesus the Nazarene." This time he salted his denial with an oath: "I swear, I never laid eyes on the man." A short time later another bystander pointed his finger and said, "You've got to be one of them. Your accent gives you away." As the Message translation puts it: "Then he got really nervous and swore. 'I don't know the man!'" When Peter heard the rooster crow, he remembered Jesus saying he would deny him and "he went out and cried and cried and cried." [Matt. 26:69-75, the Message]

Most of us can say we would never do that, but I wonder? I know I pass up a lot of opportunities to witness to that same Jesus Christ. If you've had to cry lately about anything, perhaps Easter is the celebration for you. To find fresh spiritual life within is reason enough to celebrate. May this Easter bring that reality to you. You may even want to find someone else to join you in that celebration. Happy Easter! J. Tommy Jobe, Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church

Cultivating Big Dreams On A Small Scale

Microloan Gains Popular Footing;
Answers Need for Faster, Easier Credit

By Gene Davidson

Throughout my tenure as State Executive Director for the Tennessee Farm Service Agency (FSA), I have met several small and beginning farmers and ranchers, military veterans and disadvantaged producers interested in making a living in production agriculture. For many, the high cost of purchasing land and equipment can be prohibitive, compelling newcomers and those struggling against odds to take risks to finance their dreams by relying on credit cards and personal loans with high interest rates. I am keenly aware, too, that the average age of our farmers and ranchers is increasing. I am concerned about where the next generation of farmers and ranchers will come from.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture understands the needs of these small, beginning and specialty crop producers. Through the Farm Service Agency's (FSA) Farm Loan Programs division, the department responded to their needs by developing a new microloan program that will provide up to $35,000 to help bolster these producers during their start-up years. Likewise, it will assist small, established producers who find themselves in extenuating financial circumstances.

Microloans are like other operating loans. They can be used to purchase livestock, equipment, feed, seed, fertilizer and related supplies. And here's a real benefit when compared to those credit cards and personal loans; the current interest rate for a microloan is 1.125%.

It is imperative that we use solutions like the microloan to provide access to credit to those just starting out or those producing on a smaller scale in order to grow American agriculture. It's important because Agriculture can provide new jobs that will build our economy and ensure a safe and affordable food supply at home and abroad. In addition, these loans keep people living in our rural communities, sending their children to our local schools and doing business in our local shops.

But here is how microloans are unlike traditional FSA loans. Applying for them is a simpler, more flexible process. By reducing the application form from 17 pages to eight and modifying requirements for experience, it's easy and far more convenient for both our customers and our employees.

Although some production experience is necessary, there are many producers who may not meet the managerial requirements for traditional loans but may be eligible for a microloan. FSA will consider an applicant's small business experience, experience with a self-guided apprenticeship and specialized education to meet the prerequisite.

As the country moves toward more local food sources and joins the farm-to-table movement, there is an increasing number of people going back to the farm and selling their products through farmers markets and community supported agriculture. Microloans are perfect for those who want to grow niche crops to sell directly to ethnic markets, farmers markets or consumers.

Young future farmers and ranchers also will benefit. Prospects that previously used an FSA Youth Loan to finance an agricultural endeavor, successfully repaid the debt and are of the "age of majority" according to state law, are eligible for microloans. The microloan graduates producers to a new level and further prepares them for larger FSA operating loans or commercial loans through the FSA Guaranteed Loan Program.

By expanding access to credit, FSA continues to help grow the industry on which our country was built — Agriculture. Through FSA, more than 128,000 loans totaling $18 billion have been issued. The number of loans to beginning farmers and ranchers has increased from 11,000 in 2008 to 15,000 in 2011. More than 40 percent of USDA's farm loans now go to beginning farmers, while lending to socially disadvantaged producers has increased nearly 50 percent since 2008.

At FSA, we aim for ways to help farmers and ranchers achieve their dreams, to be part of the American population that feeds the world whether they are large-scale or small-scale operations. By supporting America's growers, we help all Americans. We provide a secure, low-cost food supply and make a major contribution to the U.S. economy. And we do these things while nourishing millions.

Eagles Fall Short in Regional Quarter Finals

By Michael Loyd

Photography by Michael Loyd

The Eagleville Eagles went into the regional quarter finals against the Patriots of White House Heritage. The Eagles, who had a stellar performance against Jo Burns on Saturday had to prove that they were ready for a much taller foe, using speed and quickness in their favor.

The Eagles controlled the tip off in the opening quarter but was unable to capitalize on a layup by Chris Hale. The Patriots ran off six quick points against the Eagles which lead to Coach Reed calling a 30 second time out to make adjustments in the Eagles defense. The Eagles missed some key shots but were able to hold their own on the boards with the much larger Patriots. 15 John Knox did an excellent job of ball handling for the Eagles, hitting Ben Kelley for three point opportunities. At the end of the first quarter the Patriots lead the Eagles 16-8.

Chris Hale pulls up for a shot in the lane

The second quarter was almost a carbon copy of the first quarter, the Eagles would pull within five points and then the Patriots would gain the momentum again and extend the lead, at the halfway point the Patriots lead the Eagles 26-17.

The Eagles came out in the third quarter and capitalized on some Patriots mistakes but were unable to gain any momentum to capture the lead. The Eagles were down by nine when the buzzer sounded at the end of three quarters of play.

At the start of the fourth period of play the Eagles came out with a half-court trap, playing a more aggressive defense. With a couple of steals by John Posada and Ben Kelley the Eagles were able to cut the lead down to three points with 1:57 to play in regulations play. The Patriots never allowed the Eagles to get any closer than three points. With only two seconds remaining in the game Ben Kelley hit a three to pull the Eagles to within three points but the Patriots held on to win 66-63.

Ben Kelley lead the Eagles scoring with 17 points, followed by John Posada and Chris Hale with 11 and 10 points respectively. Rounding out the Eagles scoring is as follows:

Kelley 17, Posada 11, Hale 10, McClary 9, Jernigan 6, Knox 4, Rudd 4, Hawks 2.

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Pretty

By Christopher Allen

Naming her baby Pretty had turned out to be less than prophetic. Pretty had the same dim eyes, ashen hair and vitamin-deficient pallor as her mother. Homely, sickly, dowdy—yes. Pretty—no. There really had been something in the water, people said. Lead probably. Or maybe some of those Erin-Brockovich chemicals.

No one called Pretty pretty—except Pretty's mother, Bonita.

"Pretty!" Bonita yelled through crooked, gritted teeth. She looked around at all the mean faces on the train station platform. "Come back here. Right . . . now."

Pretty did as Pretty was told.

"People are watching you, Pretty. Don't you attract attention to us. They'll laugh."

Pretty scooted behind her mother's beige pantsuit and considered her options, tapping her left foot on slick tile. She hated it when the other children at school teased her and called her goony butt and zombie goon and goony glasses (always a goon), but she really, really really wanted to show the world—or at least the world on the platform—the new steps she'd learned at school today.

Bonita pushed her plastic ovals back up her nose and checked her digital Casio one more time. The train was three minutes late again, and Pretty was restless as a squirrel. "Set-tle down, Pretty."

"But, Mama!"

"Not here. You have no idea. . . ." Bonita saw her own bloodless face in her daughter's glasses. The world pooh-poohed mousy women; her ex-husband certainly had. "People can be so ugly, Pretty."

The child melted back behind her mother's beige, but just seconds later she dared to peek out at the evil onlookers. To her surprise, an elegant, young businessman in a long, black coat was smiling at her. No, wait, Pretty thought. He was dancing with his eyes.

"Set-tle down."

At that moment, the businessman leapt into the air and landed next to Bonita in a perfect, grand plié.

"Oh my," Bonita said and tightened her hold on Pretty's arm.

Bystanders clapped and snorted. An ancient woman with a gloriously goitrous neck did the robot over to Pretty and shouted, "Go on, girl."

Pretty pushed her own plastic ovals an inch up her nose, dumbly begging her mother for freedom. She was itchy to get jiggy with it.

From the left a plump goth girl vamped the length of the platform; from the right a beauty queen tumbled tiara over high-heels. A middle-aged woman with her hair-net and shopping did the bump with a Cadbury vending machine. Candy rained into the slot below.

Pretty wrenched free and spun onto stage as her mama yelled, "Get back here! But Pretty just stuck out her lip, then her hip. She swished and she galloped; she tapped like an Egyptian. She twirled and took flight as the goth girl stabbed a hand in the air and yelled "Rock on!" The businessman flashed a perfect-ten card for her perfect-ten landing. Pretty giggled and swayed. Step ball change. A gaggle of old women thrummed on their walkers, nodding to the beat of Pretty's sassy new grind.

"Pretty!" Bonita growled.

"Pretty!" someone shouted from far down the platform. "Pretty!" filled the tunnel as the train came in.

"Hear that, Mama? They called me pretty."

Middle-of-the-Month Dinner/Dance

Thanks to the community and surrounding area for the tremendous support at the first "middle-of-the-month" dinner/dance held on February 16, 2013 at Eagleville Community Center. Good food, fun and music were enjoyed by folks of all ages, including our youngest guys and gals!

The Yates Brothers Band played a wide variety of music providing dancing and listening pleasure for everyone. The dance floor was hopping all evening by two-steppers, line dancers, moms, dads and grandparents having a fun-filled family evening together.

Our next dinner/dance will be Saturday, March 23, 2013 at Eagleville Community Center on Highway 99. Dinner is 5-6 pm and music 6:30-9:30 pm. Bring your family and friends for a great fun-filled evening with good food and music for your dancing and listening pleasure. There's plenty of dance floor to dance your favorite style, so come join us!

For more information, contact Denise Richardson at (615)948-8445. Hope to see you there!

What is Caregiver Guilt?

By Mary Ann Steelman-RN

There are 43.5 million people caring for those 50 years old and older, and 14.9 million caring for those with Alzheimer's or dementia, according to the Family Caregiver Alliance. Because of the demands placed on these caregivers, most of them feel alone and depressed. Many caregivers do not take time to take care of their own physical and emotional needs, which results in feelings of guilt.

Caregiver guilt is just one of the adverse outcomes of being a full time, in-home caregiver for a loved one. According to the National Institutes of Health, the psychological and physical effects of being a caregiver can be life altering. Caregivers may experience uncontrollability and secondary stress in other areas of their lives.

Guilt is one of the most pervasive emotional hurdles that caregivers face, according to Mimi Goodrich, a licensed clinical social worker at the Wellness Center in San Mateo, Calif.

"The caregivers feel it's their obligation to make these years the happiest," Goodrich says. "But none of us has that power. When caregivers have expectations that are unrealistic, that's when the guilt comes in."

Additionally, caregivers often find it difficult to ask for help. Some caregivers feel as though they owe it to a loved one to take on the responsibility of caregiver by themselves so no one else has to bear the burden. Trying to care for a loved one alone is a common mistake caregivers make. Often, caregivers do not realize the resources available to them. Guilt can be brought on by not knowing the right information, especially during times of an emergency or crisis. When a caregiver doesn't have the right facts, they may make decisions based on guilty feelings rather than on logic. Admitting a need for help is the best thing a caregiver can do.

Many communities have support groups for caregivers. Finding a place to vent your feelings, frustrations and concerns, whether to a support group or to a trusted friend, is critical in maintaining your ability to help your loved one. Expressing yourself may help you cope with the stress of being a caregiver. Meeting others in your situation can give you relief in knowing you're not alone.

Some local long-term care communities offer respite or senior daycare services that offer a temporary break from your caregiving role. As a caregiver, you could look into this before you become burnt out so you have an option to fall back on. Taking the time for yourself may give you the time you need to maintain your ability to care for an elderly loved one.

While it is stressful, taking on the responsibility as a caregiver can be a positive transition. By being there for your loved one, you are helping them through tough times. Despite the difficulties, you will get to experience special moments with your elderly loved one. Remember that your best is good enough and utilizing helpful resources is a positive, helpful action to take.

Cell Phone Users More Likely to Speed and Drive Drowsy When Behind Wheel

Study Shows "Do As I Say, Not as I Do" Attitude Prevails Among Nation's Drivers

Motorists who use cell phones while driving are more likely to engage in additional dangerous behaviors such as speeding, driving drowsy, driving without a safety belt and sending texts or emails, according to a survey conducted by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. Additionally, more than two-thirds (69 percent) of licensed drivers reported talking on a cell phone while driving within the last month despite the fact that nearly nine-in-ten respondents (89 percent) believe other drivers using cell phones are a threat to their personal safety.

"Ninety percent of respondents believe that distracted driving is a somewhat or much bigger problem today than it was three years ago, yet they themselves continue to engage in the same activities," said Peter Kissinger, President and CEO of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. "More work clearly is needed to educate motorists on the risks associated with using a cell phone while driving, especially given that most Americans believe this problem is becoming worse."

Motorists who fairly often or regularly used their cell phones over the last month also reported that they engaged in additional risky behaviors. The research shows:

- 65 percent also reported speeding
- 44 percent also reported driving while drowsy
- 53 percent also reported sending a text or email
- 29 percent also drove without a safety belt

Conversely, drivers that reported never using a cell phone were much less likely to report additional risky behaviors:

- 31 percent reported speeding
- 14 percent reported driving drowsy
- 3 percent reported sending a text or email
- 16 percent drove without a safety belt

Despite the near-universal disapproval of texting and emailing while driving (95 percent), more than one-in-four licensed drivers (27 percent) reported sending a text or email at least once in the past 30 days, and more than one-third (35 percent) said they read a text or email while driving. Young drivers age 16-24 were even more likely with more than half (61 percent) reporting having read a text or email while driving in the past month, while more than one-in-four (26 percent) reported checking or updating social media while driving.

"Every time you get behind the wheel and engage in risky driving behaviors, you're endangering your life and that of others on the road, said Michele Harris, director, AAA Traffic Safety Culture. "Distracted driving crashes are preventable tragedies and we must all take personal responsibility to fully focus on the task of driving."

Driver use of cell phones impairs reaction times and roughly quadruples crash risk. Additionally, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reports that more than 3,000 people are killed and nearly half a million are injured each year in crashes involving distraction. This is likely an underestimate given the challenges associated with determining the role of distraction in crashes.

AAA and the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety have long been leading advocates in educating motorists about the risks of distracted driving. AAA recommends that motorists turn off their phone before driving or pull over to a safe place to talk, send texts or use email. AAA also has launched a legislative campaign to advocate for a text messaging ban in all 50 states. To date, 39 states and the District of Columbia have adopted this key traffic safety measure and AAA expects all 11 remaining states to consider this legislation in 2013. To view the texting law and other traffic safety laws in your state, visit DrivingLaws.AAA.com.

The distraction data were collected as part of the AAA Foundation's 2012 Traffic Safety Culture Index, a nationally representative, probability-based survey of 3,896 U.S. residents ages 16 and older. The sample is representative of all U.S. households reachable by telephone or by regular mail. The questionnaire was made available in English and Spanish, and respondents were able to complete it in the language of their choice. The AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety provides additional details in the 2012 Traffic Safety Culture Index and as part of a report called Distracted and Risk-Prone Drivers.

Line-Dance Classes

We are having a great time at Eagleville Community Center on Wednesday evenings learning different line dances. Our class begins at 5:45 pm and the cost is only $5.00 per person per class per evening. Line dancing is great exercise and lots of fun. The class is very relaxed and the fellowship is wonderful also, so come join us for a wonderful time! For more information, contact Denise Richardson at (615)948-8445.

Literacy Fine Arts Night

Rockvale Middle School will host its annual Literacy Fine Arts Night on Thursday, April 18th from 5-8pm. All community members are welcome to come to this free event which displays many of the diverse talents of our students. Kids of all ages will love Mr. Rich the scientist's experiments. Storytellers, musical ensembles, and authors will delight. If you are wondering what to do with that new technology? Come to the session on how to use ebooks, tablets, and other devices for reading and audio books. For a small price, the choir will soothe you while you enjoy coffee and desserts. For more information or to volunteer, please call Marcie Leeman at 904-6745
