City Beer Sales Leave A Bad Taste For Some

BY MELISSA BUCHANAN

As the Eagleville City council moves forward with plans to establish a beer board, some local opposition overshadows their efforts.

In a series of e-mails sent out under the alias "Lord's Servant" to local media, business owners, city council, and even some Eagleville School teachers; an individual, or group of individuals have expressed major opposition to the establishment of a beer board, citing religious reasons.

In the wake of Resolution 09-01 being passed after its first reading during the April city council meeting, one such e-mail, seemingly aimed at city council members asked, "Will the Lord turn his back on YOU as you ask to be entered in the Gates of Heaven?"

While there has been no opposition to the establishment of a beer board during the citizen's input portion of any city council meeting, local resident Jesse Smotherman made her stance very clear during a called work session regarding the proposed establishment of a beer board, stating that she did not want the sale of alcohol to take place on her property

Smotherman, along with her husband, own the property and building currently occupied by Eagleville Classic Pizza on Clark Street, just down the road from her personal residence. "I'm not here to tell anyone how to make their money. I am just against drinking and I don't want it in our life, or sold on my property," she explained.

Eagleville Classic Pizza owner, Buddy Gadd, did express an earlier interest in potential beer sales at his restaurant, "I just wanted to be able to

MILNAR ORGAN COMPANY PULLS OUT ALL THE STOPS

BY MELISSA BUCHANAN

Milnar Organ Company pulls out all the stops, creating beautiful handcrafted pipe organs, while leaving behind a family legacy.

Tucked away on a hillside farm off the beaten path in Eagleville, lies a family owned and operated business that has made a name for itself across the Southeast. Milnar Organs has been embarking on journeys of restoration throughout churches for over 40 years, preserving or becoming a part of history along the way, through their design and fine craftsmanship of pipe organs.

At the young age of 18, Dennis Milnar found a job amongst economic hard times by holding keys during Christmas tunings at the Delaware Organ Company, in his native Tonawanda, NY. This would lead to a seven-year apprenticeship under the company's president, Mr. Robert Colby. As Dennis moved through the challenges of woodshop, metal shop, leatherwork, and electrical wiring, it allowed him to hone his skills as a true craftsman.

Highlights from the City Of Eagleville Council Meeting Thursday - April 23, 2009

Citizen's Input

1. Buddy Gadd, owner of Eagleville Classic Pizza wanted to know if the community center could be utilized for city council meetings, and also wanted to know what measures could be taken to make the bridge on Clark Street safer.
2. Nina Merritt wanted everyone to know where the city's money goes for the library, since the budget will be discussed; explaining circulation has really increased, and even doubled.
3. Andy Soapes wanted to know if citizen's input could be moved to the end of the meeting.
4. Lanny Turner wanted to know if anyone is over keeping up the city's streetlights, explaining the one on Cheatham Springs Rd. has been out for 7 months. Vice-Mayor Hill said to get the pole number; call city hall and the city recorder will call MTEC.

Financial Report

- Councilman Fitzgerald asked about the charges from the DNJ, and the $100 per month FSA benefit provided to City Recorder Colleen Adams. Councilman Fitzgerald also had several questions about the profit loss portion of the financial report regarding $200 in court costs, accounting charges that seemed inflated, and payments to Ed Wettig for hourly work performed for the city.

Park Update

- Vice-mayor Ronnie Hill announced the upcoming Main Street Festival to be held in the streets of downtown Eagleville. The event is June 13th, 2009, beginning at 9a.m. The festival will host a car and motorcycle show, as well as vendors. Local Eagleville restaurants will provide all food. Entry fees will benefit the Eagleville City Park.
- Councilman Alan Ball suggested there be a goal and a budget set for the event.

Fire Report

- The volunteer fire department has responded to 10 fire calls within the last month. They have also been working on the inside of the fire hall to create a room for trainings, (much of the supplies have been secured through Habitat for Humanity), and have also cleaned up around the side of the fire hall building.

- Volunteer firefighter, Daniel Rowell, recently went above and beyond training requirements by attending a training 6 days a week for 2 weeks.
- Firefighters are expected to complete 120 hours for training each year. Over 20 volunteer firefighters were sent to help out with debris removal from the Rutherford County tornado in Murfreesboro, and delivered 600 cases of water to the Red Cross shelter on Thompson Ln.
- There are 2 open seats on the Fire Board. One will need to be filled with a council member and the other a citizen.
- Terry Greene, who read the fire report, wanted to add that the volunteer fire department is not "lollygagging around" and that he was proud of the men the department has. He has financially helped the fire department along in the past, and worked on the trucks when no maintenance had been performed.
- Councilman Tune explained that the Eagleville Volunteer Department was one of the first units to respond to the Murfreesboro areas hit by the tornadoes on Good Friday and that he was proud of the department.

Police Report

- City Recorder Colleen Adams explained that the grant that could potential fund the positions of 2 police officers was successfully turned in by its April 14th deadline. The salary was based on $28,000 per year/per police officer, which could be tweaked to accommodate a regular officer and police chief. The city will know the outcome no later than September.

Zoning Report

- Zoning Administrator, Linda Lichtenberger explained that she attended the TN Building Officials Assoc. Convention and was elected Treasurer of the Organization and received the President's award for her work and dedication.
- Lichtenberger explained a potential grant opportunity through the Community Building Code Administration Grant Act, currently in Washington. It is created for community's just like Eagleville; providing grant funding for training/hiring code officials, for government code offices, and capital needs, such as computer and vehicles. She will get a listing of each Senate committee member, and a copy of the grant to review, citing it would be very worthwhile to follow-up with a letter of interest to Senator Bob Coker and the other committee members.

Old Business

- Establishment of Beer Board 1st Reading on Resolution 09-01 passed, with Councilman Rigsby voting no.
- Councilman Fitzgerald brought forward a citizen's concerns/comments that were e-mailed to each council member prior to the meeting, explaining they are valid points that do need to be looked into.

Councilman Sam Tune was sworn in on April 23, 2009 as the new Eagleville City Mayor by City Recorder Colleen Adams.

- A Public Hearing will be held the 4th Thursday in May, which will run concurrently with the 2nd reading of the resolution.
- Councilman Fitzgerald gave an update on the non-working street sign at the corner of Main St. and Hwy. 99. A claim on the sign has been filed with the insurance company and a police report is needed as well.
- Councilman Tune and Councilwoman Jensen have given a basic assessment of the exterior of city hall. Mold is present in several places, a small tree is growing out the side of the building, and there are a few pieces of rotten trim, etc. that will need to be repaired prior to caulking/painting its exterior.
- Councilman Fitzgerald presented the council w/ a paint scheme for the city hall, as suggested from an interior designer. Councilman Fitzgerald was voted in to head the building improvement committee, who will select the new color scheme for city hall.
- Councilman Tune explained that a meeting was held at the city hall with the Ruth. Co. school board, who has expressed interest in the sewer system. Councilman Tune also announced an open meeting that will be held Monday morning at 9 a.m. with another consulting firm to look at other sewer alternatives.

New Business

- Councilman Rigsby explained that he is totally against the establishment of a beer board, and he would never vote for it. *See article Page 1 -City Beer Sales Leave A Bad Taste For Some
- First Reading, Resolution 09-02 2009/2010 Budget Vice-Mayor Hill reported that there is $92,000 in General Funds located in CD's. The budget was talked about in great length and detail, going line by line and passed its first reading with Councilwoman Donna Jensen voting no.

- The next city council meeting will serve as the Public Hearing and 2nd reading for the 2009/2010 budget.
- Vice-Mayor Ronnie Hill made the motion to appoint Sam Tune as the new Mayor with the council voting him in unanimously.
- Swearing in of Mayor Sam Tune. Mayor Tune thanked everyone for their support, saying he would take the position as Mayor very seriously, just as he has with his position on city council. Mayor Tune said there is a lot on the table for the next few years, and that it would take everyone's help: citizens, businesses, etc. Mayor Tune hopes that a better place can be found for city council meetings, since the meetings have outgrown city hall. He also encouraged everyone in attendance to return and bring someone else to the next meeting.
- Glenda Dyer made a proposal to the council, offering her services to the city as a records management coordinator for only $1 for a period of 1 year. Dyer will establish a proper record management system, inventory and organize all records at city hall, making them public accessible, develop a file system and follow a retention schedule.
- Glenda Dyer was voted in unanimously as the new records management coordinator and will be under the supervision of the Mayor and city council. She will begin May 11th, 2009 and will provide monthly reports during each council meeting.

Fine craftsmanship, artistry, and unique details are just a few words that define a Milnar Organ. while it was some of those very qualities that made the company's founder, Dennis Milnar, fall in love with the creation of these unique instruments. "After one week in the organ company, where I could see people working with wood, leather, and wiring, I knew that was what I wanted to do with my life," explained Dennis.

Dennis and his wife Connie, would later relocate their young family to Tennessee and start the Milnar Pipe Organ Service out of their basement in 1968, while only eight years later the family would relocate again to their present location in Eagleville; after much hard work had quickly established their business and more workspace was required.

Settling into its new and expansive workshop facilities, the Milnar's four sons, (the Milnar's also have a daughter who is a registered nurse), would work for the company, each specializing in an area that is unique and invaluable to the family business.

In the workshop - Todd Milnar an original 1975 Milnar pipe organ belonging to the First United Methodist Church in Murfreesboro, TN, which has grown over the years with its own facilities and congregation.

After a complete redesign and a move into their new church facility on Thompson Lane, the new Milnar organ frames the beautiful stained glass windows and overlooks the sanctuary, with its impressive 87-foot ceilings. This project proved to be quite impressive, "and is now used by the Murfreesboro Symphony during their performances," explained Derek Milnar.

The Milnar Organ Company also plays a part in maintaining organs steeped with in church history, through restoration and preservation. "The oldest pipe organ we maintain is located at the Church of the Assumption on the West side of Nashville in Germantown," said Derek Milnar. The organ, a Johnson, is over 100 years old, dating back to 1895.

While most of these beautifully crafted instruments are used amongst congregations for praise and worship, the Milnar Organ Company had the unique opportunity of creating a pipe organ for a modern mansion atop the highest hill in Cool Springs, belonging to Cal Turner Jr., former Dollar General Chairman and Chief Executive.

"The biggest challenge was designing an organ that could architecturally fit well into a home that was already being built," explained Dennis Milnar.

Spanning the first and second level of the home, the Milnar organ built for Mr. Turner's residence was recently featured on the April cover of The Diapason, a magazine read throughout the pipe organ community.

An organist, himself, Mr. Turner was taught how to play by his mother and was also the organist at the Methodist Church in Scottsville, Kentucky for several years.

In a personal note to Dennis Milnar from Mr. Turner, he wrote, "Thank you for a wonderful organ project in our home. The result is a great joy for me." Mr. Turner furthered by writing, "Your whole family has my respect, admiration and love." Mr. Turner now enjoys performing for his grandchildren on his very own Milnar organ.

serve beer, and hopefully build my business to where I could at least draw a paycheck from it; everyone knows the potential for profit in alcohol sales,” he explained.

Gadd has been in the process of expanding his menu, bringing in gravel to the Clark Street location to accommodate a drive-thru in which he could serve breakfast, and constructing a building on-site so that he could open up a 16-seat in house dining room area.

It is uncertain at this time whether or not Gadd will continue to operate his business from the Clark Street location, but Gadd remains hopeful. “I love this community, I’ve met a lot of nice people here, and I would like to stay here and make a living.”

The Eagle Roost Smokehouse and Grill, has no interest in the sale of beer at all. With owner Doyle Woods adding, “We’re even closed on Sundays for worship.”

Councilman David Rigsby, who also serves as Chairman of the Deacons at the Eagleville Baptist Church, was the only council member voting against the resolution during its first reading, and encouraged the council to annex homes with in the urban growth boundary as an alternative means of bringing in additional revenue to the city. “If we want revenue, we need to get the city limits moved out,” said Rigsby. “As far as I’m concerned, every road leading this area going to each county line and all the way to Mt. Vernon Road needs to be in the city limits of Eagleville.”

Councilman Rigsby continued, by asking Mayor Tune and Councilman Fitzgerald to be the “front runners” of an annexation movement to benefit the city by electively placing their residences with in the city limits. However, both Fitzgerald and Tune own “real property” in the Eagleville city limits, which qualified them in last November’s election, as specified in the city charter.

Establishment of a beer board was first brought up at the March city council meeting after Sam Tune, (who is now the new Mayor of Eagleville), was approached by local businessman, Craig Sewell. Sewell, who plans on opening a grocery store in Eagleville, enlisted the help of a grocery consulting firm, so that his new store would match up well with consumer’s needs and lifestyles of the local community and surrounding area shoppers.

Since growing trends indicate the need for one stop shopping, having everything under one roof became a necessity. Sewell was prompted to approach the city council and ask for the establishment of a local beer board that would allow for the sale of beer with in the city limits, and, at his new grocery store that will be located on Hwy. 41-A. Sewell explained that beer sales would bring in additional tax revenue for the city, while helping to offset the cost of employees.

Out of respect for the local clergy, Councilman Tune and Sewell met with several within the community, explaining that the proposed establishment of a local beer board was going to be brought before city council. “I understand that from their pulpit that alcohol is a sin. They understand my viewpoint; it is not against the law to sell beer,” explained Tune.

Establishment of a local beer board would allow “on-site” and “off-site” beer sales inside the Eagleville city limits. Since cities in Tennessee are authorized to regulate the sale of beer by ordinance, the city council will serve as the beer board, and have some flexibility in regulation.

According to the new ordinance, “on-site” permits would allow beer sales in restaurants in which food and beer consumption must occur on premises, while “off-site” permits would allow beer sales in grocery stores and convenience stores; in which the beer is to be consumed off premises. The ordinance does require total beer sales to account for less than 30% of income or gross sales; otherwise, the beer permit may be suspended or revoked.

In efforts to cut down on underage drinking and the sale of alcohol to minors, Tennessee became one of the first states to require universal carding for the sale of beer at grocery and convenience stores. The Responsible Vendor Act, which went into effect July 1, 2007, was also passed, giving vendors incentives such as decreased civil penalties or not holding them subject to permit suspension or revocation on the first offense sale to a minor, in exchange for sending their employees/cashiers through a training program approved by the Alcoholic Beverages Commission.

Sewell is aware of the Responsible Vendor Act, and says that he plans on sending his head cashiers and management positions through the training. “Actually, I believe my store manager has already received the training,” he explained. The new grocery store is expected to create at least five or six full-time, salaried positions, and Sewell hopes it will be an asset to the community for a long time to come.

Letter To The Editor

May 10, 2009 is when the United States of America honors the mothers of this great nation. Mothers play an important part in this nation's history and we wish all mothers a Happy Mother's Day in your honor.

Mother's Day began in 1908 at the request of Anna Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia. Mothers were honored at the Andrews Methodist Church, a historic structure built in 1873 on East Main Street in Grafton.

Letter To The Editor

I read with confusion the recent email that has surfaced and made the rounds in greater Eagleville. While I can appreciate the passion of the author, I am unclear why my name was included in the Footnotes Section. In order to clarify, I am authoring this statement:

First, I am a child of God, renewed by the sacrifice of Christ, saved from my sin, and created as new Creation. I seek to live a life of faith, knowing that I am imperfect and fail, but that God is bigger than all my mistakes, and through His Son, welcomes me into relationship with Him.

Second, I am a husband and father and live in the greater Eagleville community. I call this my hometown. I want to be part of the community.

Third, I am the pastor of Eagleville United Methodist church and Concord United Methodist Church (Rockvale), assigned there by the Bishop of the Tennessee Annual Conference. This represents the Call on my life by God, to serve His Kingdom here by shepherding these congregations. As I believe in the priesthood of the believers, this Call does not represent a spiritual elitism or that I am any better or closer to God than anyone else. God calls everyone to be of service to His Kingdom. He has called me through my denomination to be at EUMC and CUMC.

Fourth, since I have a call to serve God by serving people, I also want to serve my community with the talents and passion God has given me. This has lead me to be involved in the Emmaus Walk, spiritual leadership retreat program, to be active in the Eagleville Volunteer Fire Department, Anna Jarvis contacted the members of the U.S. Congress and President Woodrow Wilson. In 1914, President Wilson declared the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day.

Today the church is known as the International Mother's Day Shrine and is open for visitors and group tours.

Happy Mother's Day 2009 to all Moms!

John D. Blue, Eagleville
Member of the International Mother's Day Shrine Board of Trustees and most recently to share Chaplain responsibilities with another local pastor to the Eagleville School Varsity Football Team.

My role is one of service to God and to people, not to organizations, agendas, governments, or groups. While there are many issues that local and national governments respond to and develop policy around, my personal response to these must be consistent with my responsibility to God as His child, to my churches and to the Tennessee Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church who appointed me to serve. I am glad to discuss my views and beliefs as a man of God and pastor of churches regarding the sale of alcohol within the city limits of Eagleville with anyone who would like to sit down and talk with me, face to face. I do not feel called to mount a vocal and visible rallying cry for or against this issue in my role as either Pastor or Fire Chief. As an individual I have exercised my personal rights to discuss matters with members of the Council.

My response to the City officials who are considering this change in policy is daily they are in my prayers and I pray that God leads them to makes decisions which build the Kingdom of God. I pray for the City of Eagleville, for those who live and work here and call it home. I pray for the churches and those that attend and for the un-churched that they may come to know Christ. I pray that I may be the catalyst that makes Christ visible and approachable to them by showing love in every situation and encouraging all those that I have contact with to show love.

Blessings,
David Martin, Pastor of Eagleville United Methodist Church

It Only Takes A Short Walk To Help Someone Take a Lifesaving Step

May 16th the National Kidney Foundation will be holding a walk in Murfreesboro at Barfield Crescent Park. The check in begins at 8:00 am and the walk starts at 9:00 am.

The National Kidney Foundation's Kidney Walk is a non-competitive, fundraising walk focusing on education and prevention of kidney and urinary tract diseases, and awareness of the need for organ donation. The Kidney Walk presents an opportunity for family, friends and colleagues to celebrate LIFE while participating in an inspiring, community-based event which calls attention to the need for early detection of kidney disease while supporting NKF's patient services, public and professional initiatives and kidney research.

Local resident, Sonny Parrish, better known as "Uncle Sonny", was diagnosed with End Stage Renal Disease two years ago. Sonny has been on kidney dialysis for a year and a half. May 1st he will be having his right kidney removed. Sonny is unsure if he will be able to make the walk on May 16th. If you would like to be a sponsor for Sonny by making a donation to the National Kidney Foundation, go online at walk.kidney.org, click on Support A Walker and enter Sonny Parrish and TN.

Local Artist Wins Dove Award

Cindy Morgan, local resident of Eagleville has a very busy life. Living half the year in Eagleville, she spends the winters in Canada. Married to an award winning author, Sigmund Brower, she is the mother of two beautiful girls, Savannah and Olivia and can often be seen picking them up from YMCA Fun Company or cheering them on at a Ball Game. But on Thursday the 20th, Cindy was present at the Dove Awards, Gospel Music Association in Nashville. There she was honored again with an Award for Country Song of the Year : I Wish. This song is recorded by Point of Grace and included in their album: How You Live Deluxe Edition; Point of Grace; Cindy Morgan, Phil

Madeira, Word Records

The lyrics are an amazing statement about life and everyday struggles and what really matters, relationship with Jesus Christ and nurturing our relationships with others. Point of Grace showcases this song with a video on their web site. Cindy has a great relationship with this group and performed with them at the 2008 Dove Awards.

Cindy has a strong faith walk that sustains her even with a busy schedule. Above all is her desire to serve God through her life and her music. She has used her talents and gifts in various charity events that support individuals confronting life challenges including loss of home or devastating illness. She is a mentor to new artists as they search to find their place in the industry and in ministry. Often, she and her husband collaborate on projects that combine his talents as a Christian author and hers as a songwriter. The Carpenters' Journey was one collaboration recently given out at Eagleville United Methodist Church during Holy Week.

Congratulations Cindy for the honor you received. And thank you for bringing your gift of Song, Word and Music to our town and to people around the world. You are a blessing.

Mother's Day Sunday - May 10th

In the early 1830's a group of families living in the southeastern part of Williamson County decided their small community was in need of a post office. The name, Manchester, was selected as their community name and an application was filed for postal service. On May 7, 1832, the Manchester Post Office was established. Soon, the community learned they had to change their name because there was already a Manchester Post Office. A legend passed down through the years, accounted that an unusually large eagle was killed on Sullivan Hill about the time when a new name was needed, so the name, Eagleville, was adopted on August 16, 1836.

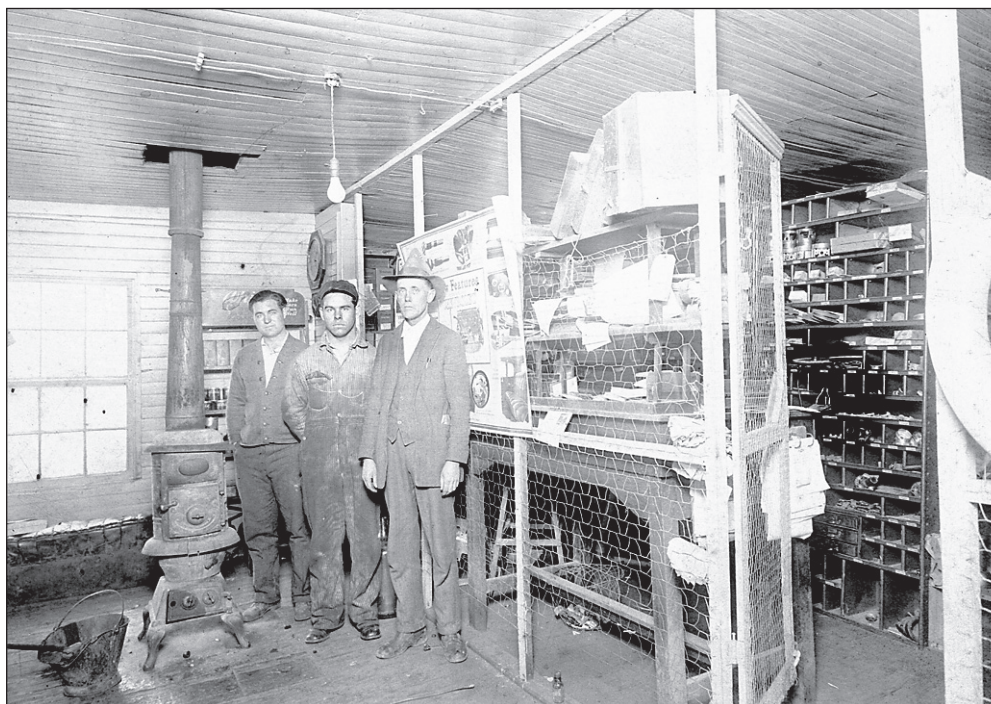

Even though the Eagleville Community was in Williamson County, their mail came from Columbia, by way of the Old Columbia Road, that ran from Columbia to Versailles. There was no direct road to Franklin, the county seat for Williamson County. When Eagleville began to prosper, a better and faster way to get to Franklin was needed and a request was made to Williamson County for a direct road to be built. When Williamson County refused, Chesley Williams, a prominent businessman in Eagleville, approached Rutherford County officials and they agreed to build a road from Murfreesboro to Eagleville (now highway 99), if Eagleville would agree to become part of Rutherford County. After a vote passed and with the Act of the General Assembly of Tennessee, Eagleville became part of Rutherford County on March 24, 1877.

With this county change, the mail was then transported from Murfreesboro to the Eagleville Post Office. In the early days, the community post office was usually located in another business establishment, more often, a general store. According to some old maps of Eagleville, the local post office location has changed several times. It's unknown the location of the Manchester Post Office, that later became the Eagleville Post Office. In 1878 the post office was located in a building on the west side of Main Street, almost directly across from the entrance to Church Street. At this time, R. S. Brown the Eagleville postmaster, was also the proprietor of a general merchandise store at this location.

A 1904 Map shows the post office near the same location as the present one. This property was owned by Chesley Williams until his death in 1892, at which time, it was passed to his heirs. The lot the present post office is now located, was a vacant lot in 1914. S. O. Edmonds purchased the property from L. K. Lowe and the heirs of the late Sophia Lowe, who was the daughter of Chesley and Elizabeth Jordan Williams. Also in 1914, J. M. Carson owned the property where the Eagleville Drug Center is presently located and it is believed, that a store building was located on this property in the late 1800's. This could have also been the location of the post office. More research is needed for proof of the post office location, referred to on the 1904 map.

In 1907, the location was already moved to the corner of Allisona Road and Main Street on property owned by Mr. N. N. Dryden. In the early 1900's this property was under the ownership of Chesley Williams and in his personal papers, a family grocery used by P. H. Elmore, is mentioned. It is believed, that this was the same building, used by W.

A Step Back in Time

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

H. "Buck" Dyer as a grocery in the 1930's till 1945 when Russell Puckett took it over. Located in the back of the store was the Eagleville Post Office until June 11, 1952, when the building burned to the ground. The devastating fire destroyed the grocery-post office building, a hardware store, café and poolroom. With the fire starting near the poolroom on the south end of the street, moving northward, it was possible to move everything out of the post office before the fire reached it. It was reported that not a piece of mail was destroyed.

The post office then relocated to the north end of the Crosslin Supply Company building, on the corner of Main and Church Streets. In 1960, the Eagleville Post Office moved again to the present location. Howard and Helen Marshall won the bid for a post office building, and contracted Crosslin Supply Company to build the building on property purchased from R. Y. Martin on September 10, 1956. This corner lot joined their grocery store property, (presently the Eagleville Drug Center). Herbert and Evelyn Crick are owners of the post office property at the present.

MANCHESTER – EAGLEVILLE POST OFFICE POSTMASTERS

William Nunn, a charter member of the local Odd Fellows, was the first postmaster, for the Manchester Post Office, 1832 till 1836.

Chesley Williams succeeded William Nunn as postmaster August 16, 1836 and held the position for 30 years. Williams moved to this area in 1832 from Triune and opened a store. Being a very large landowner and businessman, he is often referred to as the "Father of Eagleville". In 1876 an effort was made to get him to run for a political office, State Senate. Chesley Williams was endorsed by the Rutherford Herald newspaper that stated, "Mr. Williams is one of our oldest and most intelligent citizens, is above the shadow of suspicion, is competent and is in thorough accord with the democratic party of the state". He apparently did not run, but was very involved in many business adventures,

John W. Christopher was appointed postmaster May 17, 1866. He was a carpenter who made coffins, furniture and built houses. He also served as an undertaker. John Christopher served on the Board of Directors of the Savage School in 1884.

On February 25, 1870, Robert S. Brown Sr., a Republican, replaced Christopher as postmaster. Republicans holding the office of postmaster must have been a thorn in Chesley William's side. Surviving correspondence shows he challenged the Brown's appointments, which turned heads in the government. Chesley wrote to U.S. Representative James D. Richardson in Washington D.C. asking the Postmaster General to make a change in the job in Eagleville. That request was turned down because the policy was not to remove any incumbent from office except for just cause. A change in Eagleville was not made until Brown's term expired. Robert S. Brown was a school commissioner and a Squire, acting as a judge in minor legal matters. His store, located where the Eagle Roost Restaurant is now located, had the first telephone in Eagleville. He had a son, Robert S. Brown Jr. and a granddaughter, Alice Brown, who were also Eagleville postmasters.

Robert Edward Williams, the youngest son of Chesley and Elizabeth Williams held the office for four years, being appointed on April 13, 1893. Robert was a clerk in his dad's store before becoming postmaster. He and his wife, Beulah, moved to Nashville in the early 1900's.

James W. Brown's appointment on May 27, 1889 followed Robert E. Williams as postmaster. It is believed he had family connections to the Gentry family who moved to Eagleville from the Brown's Creek area, about five miles south of Nashville French Lick.

Robert S. Brown Sr. was appointed for the second time as postmaster on January 19, 1891. The Brown family lived on the south side of Pig Alley, now Church Street.

The Democrats took over the postmaster job again when the James Chesley Williams, the oldest son of Chesley was appointed

MANCHESTER – EAGLEVILLE POST OFFICE – Part I

H.K. & Marie Stephenson - H. K. was Postmaster 1935-1948 & Rural Mail Carrier 1948-1955. Marie was Post Office Clerk, retired 1961

April 13, 1893. James C. Williams enlisted in Company C, 11th Tennessee Cavalry, CSA and was a scout and courier for General Nathan Bedford Forest. During the war he was captured and spent several months as a prisoner of war. He had joined his father, Chesley, in the family store, which was burned during the war by the Yankees. The store was rebuilt soon afterward in the same location and business was resumed. James Chesley was the president of the Bank of Eagleville in 1904 and also ran the family store until 1910 when his son, E. L. Williams was given a partnership and took over the store. James Chesley Williams died in 1913.

On May 20, 1897, Robert S. Brown Jr. became postmaster. He married Henrietta Owen and owned a farm on Highway 99 near the head of the Harpeth River. His home is still standing located just west of Tommy Jackson's brick home.

Dr. John Robert Moon assumed the job of postmaster on October 12, 1909. After graduating from the University of Nashville, Department of Medicine in 1878; he practiced medicine for 13 years in Unionville. He moved to Eagleville in 1891 and served as a doctor in Eagleville until 1911, leaving to practice medicine in Christiana. In 1921 he moved his family back to Eagleville and built the house, which the Robert Shelton Sr. family later owned, north of Eagleville near the Eagleville Co-op.

James B. Dryden served as postmaster a little over thirteen years, beginning December 13, 1911. He was the son of Ephram and Marian Dryden and brother to Norman Dryden, who was a large landowner of Eagleville.

Alice P. Brown, daughter of Robert S. Brown Jr. was the first "acting postmaster" taking office in January 14, 1925.

David Henning Hughes, son of Dr. William Tandy and Mary Jane Hughes took the position of "acting postmaster", October 15, 1925.

On December 16, 1925, David Henning Hughes was appointed postmaster. He was married to Lucy Holland Jones and had five children. After her death he married a Dovie Demonbreum and had two more children. One of his children, the late Mary Claire Hughes who married Dr. J. E. Stephenson, lived her entire married life in the Eagleville community.

Alice P. Brown "Ralston" again took over the post office was appointed as postmaster on June 28, 1932. She had married Oliver Tolbert Ralston and lived on Highway 99, west of the Community Center.

Richard Walker Carlton was appointed as "acting postmaster" in November 3, 1934.

In 1914, when several one-room schools were closed and consolidated with Eagleville School, he was one of the drivers of the wagons, used to transport children to the school.

On December 24, 1935, Hollis Kenneth "H. K." Stephenson received his appointment as postmaster upon the recommendation of Congressman J. Ridley Mitchell of the Fourth Congressional District. H. K. was also the manager of People Bank in Eagleville from 1939 till 1952. He and his wife, Marie, shared duties at both places during this time. At the time of H. K.'s appointment to postmaster, Mrs. Evelyn B. Redmond was working as the assistant postmaster.

Fred Abernathy, an "acting postmaster" served in this position, starting November 1, 1947. He was married to Emma Lee Jackson, October 4, 1920, and lived on a farm, on Swamp Road.

Walter S. "Dub" Smotherman was also an "acting postmaster" for a short time, beginning in April 1, 1948, after returning from serving in WWII. He married Sue Tomlin Speakman and was accidentally killed in 1978 when his truck and cattle trailer overturned.

Harry Patillo began working in the post office as an "acting postmaster, August 27, 1949. He had moved to Eagleville from the Murfreesboro area following WWII and on September 12, 1950 was appointed postmaster. Patillo accepted on the condition that he could have time off to get married, which he did on Sept 17th of that year. Harry married Lillian Webb and lived on Elm Street in Eagleville.

Paul D. Lamb came to the Eagleville post office and was "officer in charge" beginning, December 26, 1980.

Last Three Eagleville Postmasters (L-R): Dale Chism, Harry Patillo, Ellie Wilkinson

Ellie Wilkinson was appointed postmaster on May 16, 1981. She began working in the Eagleville Post Office as a post office clerk, replacing Marie Stephenson Knox, who retired in 1961. Ellie was the second female to hold the position of postmaster in the history of the Eagleville Post Office. Ellie retired August 3, 1998.

For several months after Ellie's retirement, Jim Watson, Karen Berglund, and Sandy Williams held the position of Officer In Charge.

On December 19, 1998, Dale Chism came to work at the Eagleville Post Office with twelve years of experience in postal work. In January 1999, he was appointed as the Eagleville postmaster and continues to work in this position at the present date. Dale is the third generation of his family to be in postal service. His father was a carrier for 25 years and his grandfather, also a carrier in the horse-back days.

Assistant Postmasters and Post Office Clerks

Several different individuals have served as Assistant Postmaster, Office Clerk or Postmaster Relief in the Eagleville Post Office.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Redmond was the Assistant Postmaster when H. K. Stephenson became postmaster in 1935. Known office clerks are: the late Marie Stephenson Knox, Ellie Wilkinson, Evelyn Crick and Karen Berglund. Bithie Sue King became the first Post Master Relief, followed by Mary Neil Ghee. Barbara Owens, is the present Post Master Relief and has held the position since September 2000.

Health & Wellness by Howard Baker, RN BSN

Young Bones, Young Minds: Part One

When I think back on my childhood I reminisce about fishing, horseback riding, gardening and learning to fly. I often thank my lucky stars that I escaped adolescence alive and without a life altering injury. I used to dream about being a rootin' tootin' rodeo cowboy. That was replaced by dreams of being a corporate pilot. As fate would have it, a horsing accident left me with a fractured elbow and a concussion. Fifteen hundred pound animals falling on top of you are dangerous and can cause injury. As I learned to fly, who would have thought you could get hurt soaring the skies and barnstorming the high school band? My senior year in high school, I missed a flight with my best friend / flight instructor that ended in tragedy- a fatal crash killing all on board. The twist and turns of my life led me away from my childhood dreams of rodeos and airplanes. These roads led me to nursing- which on some days is like a rough day at the rodeo, both physically and emotionally. In nursing I have also suffered injuries ranging from needle sticks to an injured shoulder. My point is no matter what we do there are risks of injury. What's important is we enjoy what we are doing, use a little common sense and protect ourselves the best we can.

Since April is National Youth Sports Safety Month, it's a good time to think about the risk of physical injuries related to sport activities and ways to prevent them. I support and encourage all children and adolescents to participate in sports and activities that promote regular physical activity. Sports provide numerous physical and social benefits important in developing healthy lifestyles and strong social skills. The downside is there are risks of sports related injuries that range from serious brain and spinal cord injuries to scrapes and bruises. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimate that more than 30 million children participate in organized sports in this country, and still more participate in informal sports related activities. When less than 2% of these children report to emergency rooms for treatment of injuries these numbers seem low- until your child is the one hurt. A few simple precautions and good common sense will help prevent injuries.

For starters, make sure there is sufficient safety equipment for everyone on the team and it is properly maintained and in working order. Make sure everyone playing knows the proper use of their equipment and uses it- even during practice. According to the CDC 62% of organized sports related injuries occur during practice. Treat injuries with "RICE" REST: Reduce or stop using the injured area for at least 48 hours. ICE: Put an ice pack on the injured area for 20 minutes at a time 4 to 8 times per day. COMPRESSION: Ask your healthcare provider about elastic wraps, air cast, or splints to compress an injured ankle, knee, or wrist to reduce swelling. ELEVATION: Keep the injured area elevated above the level of the heart to help decrease swelling. Seek medical attention for severe or persistent pain.

Be heat-smart and play it safe: Take regular fluid breaks every 20 minutes to drink at least 8 ounces of water. Wear light colored breathable clothing and make player substitutions more frequently in the heat. Use misting sprays on the body to keep cool. Know the signs of heat related problems and seek medical attention immediately- confusion, dizziness, fainting, headache, nausea, weakness, dilated pupils, pale and moist or hot dry skin. If any combination of these symptoms are present, or if a child just does not seem right to you, play it safe and seek immediate medical attention.

It is equally important to protect our youth from emotional injuries and abuse. Emotional injuries often go unnoticed but could result in lifelong effects. So, be sure to read part two on this important sports safety topic next issue. Important resources for players, coaches, and parents will be included.

FROST REUNION 2009

The Frost family reunited on April 18th in Murfreesboro at the Third Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. Approximately 150 family members of Rueben Frost attended who were his grandchildren to his great-great-great-grandchildren. This included Evelyn (Frost) Ray of College Grove who is the oldest female Frost at age 93. The oldest male Frost is Carl Frost of Rockvale at age 83. The picture shows them sitting together and Evelyn is holding the youngest Frost, Logan Lee Frost, who was born on February 19th. Logan is the son of Carl David Frost and the grandson of Carl Frost.

The Frost Reunion held a tradition of reuniting around the birthday of the patriarch of the Frost family, who was fondly known as Granddaddy Frost. His full name was Rueben Andrew Jackson Frost. He was the father of Clyde, Clifford, Edgar, Robert, Roscoe, Roy, Raymond and his only daughter, Clara. Four of these brothers were the original Frost Brothers Quartet: Robert, Roscoe, Roy and Raymond. Roscoe's four sons: Carl, Alvin, Don and John carried on the tradition and were the second generation Frost Brothers Quartet.

The picture shown here was taken of a beautiful portrait made of Granddaddy Frost in his later years. He was born in Louisiana and migrated to Tennessee when he was a very young boy. He lived in Rutherford County around Eagleville and just across the border into Williamson County. He passed away on April 22, 1966 at the age of 97.

The lunch was catered by Peggy (Frost) Pinkston and our spokesperson was Don Frost. Our family member who traveled the furthest was April (Frost) Bunn and family from Asia. Recognition was given to the family of Clyde Frost. Clyde had thirteen children and ten are still living and all of them were there with their families.

We all enjoyed hearing John sing and others joining in on the stage. Needless to say, there were gospel songs sang as all reminisced. At the end, Amazing Grace was sung as all stood and joined in. We always reflect on Raymond Frost as the song is sung, because no one could lead it with the heartfelt passion like he did.

CLASS NEWS FROM MS. HILL'S THIRD GRADE

Everyone has been very busy this spring. We have finished our T-Cap achievement test, completed our sixth book report, and are finishing up our wildflower flower books.

We are proud of Calee Pineda who won first place in an Agriculture Poster Contest. She will receive an award and share a pizza party with our Class. Way to go Calee! We also enjoyed our field trip, Take a Walk on the Wild Side, where we learned much about our natural environment. Mr. Brouwer, a best selling author and Olivia's dad, talked to us about how to write stories. He also gave everyone a book he had written. Last week we had a great field day, and enjoyed our own Addie Hall singing the song she wrote in the talent show.

You can see that we have been very busy learning and having fun.

Many students have earned special recognition the last two grading periods.

Juicy ripe peaches, snapping fresh green beans, sweet grape jelly, and crunchy dill pickles . . . nothing tastes better than home-canned foods. For many, preserving these and other foods at home can be an intimidating process. A little knowledge, the right skills, and practice anyone will find that it is easy to preserve fresh fruits and vegetables at home.

UT-TSU Rutherford County Extension announces a class to help beginners with canning foods safely at home. Basic home canning techniques will be demonstrated by Pat Whitaker, Extension Agent and Pam Sites, fce Volunteer. Participants will receive a UT Extension Canning Foods Publication.

Programs in agriculture and natural resources, 4-H youth development, family and consumer sciences, and resource development. Extension provides equal opportunities in programs and employment.

Testing of dial gauge home canner lids for accuracy will be available.

For registration contact the UT-TSU Rutherford County Extension Office:

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Choosing To Care By Donna Blewett

Six months of preparations took place before my mother came to live with me eight years ago. They were busy months—the majority of my time spent adapting an area of our home physically to meet her needs. At the same time, I was also researching and trying to learn all I could about caring for the elderly. The decision for her to come had not been made lightly and I knew there would be difficult days ahead, but by the time she arrived, I was sure I recognized and had accepted the commitment it would require.

No one believed, including Mom, that her stay with us would be long. Her doctor had already told us there was little time left. She was 81, a widow, and in very bad health. My younger brother had died of a massive heart attack eight months before and Mom had been so devastated by his death she had simply given up. My sister and I tried to find competent help in the small town of Kentucky where she lived but there was none. Assisted living or nursing home care was not an option because money was not available. My dad had been a farmer who had lost his health early and struggled to raise and educate two daughters and a son on disability. Mom had never worked outside the home and by the time Dad was disabled, she had her own health problems, so there was no way she could help. What little money they had managed to save after educating us was insignificant. But it wasn't just the money. I wanted Mama to be cared for by someone who loved her. She had cared for her mother, and her mother had cared for her grandmother, and I truly wanted to continue the tradition. On her part, she agreed to come only because she thought she would never live to actually do so.

Because she was giving up her home and friends, church and independence, my main concern throughout the process was her emotional and mental wellbeing. The trauma of the move, added to her health problems, kept me in a constant state of worry about how she would manage. The few fears that would steal into my consciousness at night concerning my own changing lifestyle were not given much consideration. There simply was no time.

Each generation faces its own challenges when a change of this magnitude takes place. For my generation it is our lifestyle. Unlike my mother's and grandmother's generations our lives are not spent totally inside the home. We can drive, go to lunch with friends, join clubs, take trips, go to dinner and movies, work. We are active. We can participate. We can go!

Therein lies the problem—the largest problem I, and my husband, have had to face—the confinement. What I couldn't know when the process began was how much the responsibilities for Mom would consume our life, for they don't exist just between the hours of eight and five, but for twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year—no nights off, no weekend breaks, no holidays. If we have plans and she is sick, our plans change. It's as simple as that. As long as she stays on a schedule she does fine, so her schedule has become our schedule. She is simply too old and life is too difficult for her to make those changes.

The best analogy I can use to describe our situation is that it is like having a baby. You think you know how a child is going to change your life, but no one can fully comprehend the overwhelming responsibilities it entails until you actually have one. But, unlike a baby, who gradually grows and gets older and finally matures, our situation goes the other direction. Over the years my mother has become weaker and less mobile and more dependent on my care, and she will continue to do so. Still, knowing what I know today, I would do it all again, because the love and respect I have for her makes it all worthwhile and I have been blessed with a husband who understands that. I am no martyr. We simply do what our conscience allows us to do.

I take a lot of pride in the fact that Mom has lived much longer than expected. I have no idea if my love and care has had anything to do with it, but I allow myself to believe it has, because in that is a lot of satisfaction. We have no idea what tomorrow may bring but, by taking one day at a time, we are still managing. For that I am extremely grateful.

Laura On Life

By Laura Snyder

Diet, Detox, Fasting - Same Thing

Summer is coming and with it comes Diet Season. It's not so much of a coincidence. It's just that when a woman knows that she will be required to wear a bathing suit at some point in the next few months, her mind automatically goes into "lock-down" mode.

All I have to do is imagine what a bathing suit would look like on my body and a part of my brain curls up into the fetal position. Suddenly, even white powdered donuts look like a diabolical spy trying to penetrate my defenses.

It doesn't really matter what you call it – diet, detox, fasting – it's all the same word for starving.

I once lost 35 pounds on a low-carb diet, so I thought I'd try it again. A low-carb diet is great. You get to eat as much as you want of anything except carbohydrates like bread, sweets, fruit, potatoes and rice. Though, as it turns out, those foods seem to be the only ones that make you want to get up in the morning. So... that was a problem.

When I whined about it one morning, lying on my side of the bed like a corpse, my husband had an idea.

Jokingly, he said, "You know, I heard that Viagra is going to offer a stimulus package."

My eyes rolled toward him and I managed a bit of biting sarcasm when I said, "Well, you don't need any stimulation, so until Viagra comes out with a little pink pill, I think we can pass on that offer."

A little miffed, he got out of bed while I prayed my electric blanket would short circuit and give me the jolt I needed to start another day. Why couldn't I like coffee?

My low-carb diet did get results, though. And I never felt hungry. Of course, I never felt much of anything except tired.

The hardest thing to get used to is figuring out what to have for breakfast each morning. I couldn't have fruit or breads or cereals and there is only so many ways to cook eggs before they begin to sport a pitchfork and grow horns. I began to experiment with vegetable medleys. Perhaps if I put some peas in a bowl and poured milk into them, I could pretend it was a bowl of Cocoa Puffs. But though I could fake color-blindness for a short time, there was no getting past the taste. Nope, definitely peas... with milk.

Carrots and yogurt, maybe? My stomach started to erupt at the thought. Broccoli and cheese? It sounds good at any other time, but breakfast was made for carbs.

So okay, what about meat for breakfast? I started with bacon because, well, I associate bacon with breakfast. But bacon and cottage cheese is... not good. And if I had to choke down another egg, I just might have to start a campaign to sterilize chickens!

A banana turned out to be the end of my weight-loss program. Like Eve, a seemingly innocuous fruit led me into temptation. Once I allowed myself the sweet pleasure of fruit for breakfast, my body would not stop at anything less than a cookie jar full of Double Stuff Oreos.

"Take that!" it said. "How dare you keep me away from real food!"

When your body starts yelling at you as if it's a separate entity, you know you've gone too far.

As I munched on my Oreos, I thought, "Bathing suits are highly over-rated."

Spring brings the Dreaded Storm Season

Don't be scared - Be prepared!

Before the Storm Season Approaches

1. Make sure you're covered - Check Home Owner's Insurance.
2. Install surge protectors to prevent lightning damage.
3. Learn how & where to shut off main power & gas to your home.
4. Have an emergency kit. Include batteries, flashlight, radio, blanket, fresh water, first aid kit, etc.
5. Have an emergency plan with family & friends.

During the Storm

1. Lightning can travel through wiring and water pipes, so avoid showers, sinks & laundry.
2. Avoid using any corded or land line telephones. Use cell phone for emergencies.
3. Stay in safe place in your home or auto until the storm is completely over.
4. If flooding occurs, move to a higher spot in your home.

"Whether the weather be hot, or whether the weather be not, we'll weather the weather, whatever the weather, whether we like it or not!"

When a Storm Approaches

1. Move activities inside - if you can hear thunder, you are close enough to be struck by lightning.
2. Find shelter in building or car. Keep windows up.
3. Do not touch any metal objects.
4. Draw blinds/shades over windows to avoid shattered glass entering your home.
5. Unplug all appliances such as TV and turn off Air Conditioner, as lightning can cause serious damage.

After the Storm

1. Never use gasoline or propane powered outdoor appliances to heat or cook indoors.
2. Never use gas oven or range-top to provide heat.
3. NEVER turn on a light switch, use power source or inspect household appliances while standing in water.
4. Have your chimney, flue pipes, and other vent pipes inspected by a licensed technician.
5. Do not use any gas appliances or turn on supply until your system has been checked by a qualified service technician.
6. Make sure that you check all of your appliances for water damage. If you are not sure, have a technician check it out.

Meeting All Of Your Mechanical Needs

Extended Service Agreements are a great way to make sure your family stays comfortable all summer & winter long. Did you know having an Extended Service Agreement for your unit can lower heating & cooling costs, extend equipment life, and result in fewer emergency repairs, as well as save you 15% on all of our provided services? ## Happy Mother's Day

Top 10 Mother's Day Gift Ideas

1. Make your own card to include your handprint. Moms love this!
2. Prepare a meal for your mom but make sure you clean up the mess!
3. Pick flowers for your mom or buy flowers that she can plant and enjoy
4. Help with your mom with a chore or give her a "Coupon Book".
5. Visit your local dollar type store and make her a gift basket!
6. Donate to a charity in her honor or donate a library book in her name
7. Candy always works well or prepare break in bed! Moms love food!
8. Create a scrapbook with photos of you and Mom
9. A simple picture frame with a picture of you is special to Mom
10. A simple hug, kiss and "I Love You" is a winner for sure!

No-Bake Mother's Day Desserts

- ❑ Ice Cream Sundaes are great with all the toppings, ie...sprinkles, cherries
- ❑ Frozen pound cake, thawed, topping with strawberries and whipped cream
- ❑ Layer store bought brownies (cubed) with Cool-Whip to make a cool parfait
- ❑ Frozen cheesecakes or pies are always a hit! Spend time "out" of the kitchen
- ❑ Mix popcorn, with chocolate candies, nuts, raisins, for a "trail mix"
- ❑ Prepare S'mores inside over a large candle or in the microwave

Mother's Day Trivia

Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia began the campaign that brought about the official observance of Mother's Day in the United States. Her mother died, and Anna wanted all mothers to be remembered.

She asked that white carnations be the official mother's day symbol. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed the orders that made Mother's Day a national holiday.
