The Twenty-Fourth Annual Tennessee Valley Pioneer Power Days Drew Another Large Crowd To Eagleville

By Jesse Geasley

The Twenty-Fourth Annual Tennessee Valley Pioneer Power Days opened with new vendors, new contests, a new kitchen crew, "The Holy Smokers," and live music. The show drew a larger crowd compared to last year when rain sent the crowds home early Friday evening. The weather cooperated this year, with breezy eighty-degree temps in the daytime, dropping to the sixties in the evening, a welcome respite after the three-digit temperatures of late summer.

This year's show featured a coloring contest, with First Place Prize in the eight-to-ten-year-old category going to Tucker Bennett, age nine. In the eleven to thirteen group, eleven-year-old Anna Poole took First Place.

On behalf of our club I would like to thank all the demonstrators and owners who brought their tractors and exhibits. Our show would not be what it is without the dedication of those who spend long hours in the shop restoring tractors, farm implements, and other equipment.

We would also like to thank our list of sponsors who have continued their support. Farm Sales & Service, The Eagleville Co-op, Sewell's Grocery, The Eagleville Times, Tri-Green Equipment, and Bonnie's Barnyard were among our returning sponsors. We had the pleasure of welcoming Smotherman's Antiques, Flailmaster of Murfreesboro, and Air Gas Welding supplies of Murfreesboro to this year's event.

We would also like to thank the community organizations who set up booths at our event, including the Eagleville Trap Shooting Team, The Eagleville Booster Club, and the Eagleville Lions Club.

Next September will mark our 25th or Silver Anniversary show. This will be a special time of celebration, and we hope you will join us. We plan to have more arts & crafts than ever before along with several new events for everyone. Please visit our website for updates at eaglevillevppa.com.

Thanks to everyone for another wonderful year. Here's wishing everyone a safe and fun holiday season!

A Message From Your Mayor

As we all know, Eagleville, Tennessee is a very special place. Regardless of how much we cherish our past, today's world is changing very fast. We, the citizens, have a huge task in front of us, keeping pace with today's world, but retaining our identity as a small true southern community and city.

If it were not for changes the county commission would not have approved money to build a football field so our student athletics could excel, receive college scholarships, and we could not brag of a 6-0 record. With a victory over Forrest, we will be 7-0.

I say all this and to announce another upcoming change on September 27. Rutherford County Health and Education Committee voted 6-0 to proceed with the expansion of our school. This will take our school to the next level. The cost is expected to be 3.7 million dollars. Hopefully, next year we can continue with the second phase of the expansion.

Another change is our new city hall. Open house will be Sunday, October 2nd from 2-4 pm. I encourage all citizens to attend and see how the city is preparing to better serve our tax payers.

Next week we will be meeting again with USDA in pursuing a grant for the purpose of building a city sewer system. All looks favorable to achieve this goal. This grant has the potential value of 1.6 million dollars.

So as you can see, the total of money being invested in Eagleville from outside sources in the near future is 5.3 million dollars. I consider this a great honor that state and county leadership believe this strongly in our city.

Please shop locally, support our school, and if I can assist you call my personal cell number.

Sam Tune, 849-6509
Eagleville Mayor

Eagleville Fire Department Fire Chief Terry Greene

We, at the EVFD, would like to wish everyone a happy fall. Please be sure to abide by the burning guidelines that are now in place.

Especially during the fall lawn and garden clean-up can our little brush fires quickly get out of control.

A special thanks to Phil Williams and Eagleville Florist for their donation of the memorial wreath that was placed on the 911 memorial statue that was unveiled at the Tennessee Fire Academy.

We are very excited about our Bluegrass night at the Eagleville Park on October 15th. The show will start at 4:00 and there will be three bluegrass bands playing. Everyone please come out and enjoy the night and support our local fire department. The admission is free of charge with donations only please. There will be concessions available.

We are starting up a fire auxiliary support team. This team will help with events and support when we are out on long extended calls. This is still being developed and we will have more information in the near future on this. Please come out to help your fire department.

Once again, thank-you to all of our men who give up their time so freely. We appreciate all you do.

Fire Chief Terry Greene

U.S. Constitution Week

On Friday, September 30, 2011, Mayor Sam Tune signs proclamation presented by Andrea K. Calfee with the Colonel Hardey Murfree Chapter NSDAR, Daughters of the American Revolution. This proclamation recognizes a week in September as Constitution Week. This year is the 224th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution.

Wayne Blair Receives National School Board Award

MURFREESBORO – Rutherford County School Board member Wayne Blair has been selected for the National School Board Association's Distinguished Service Award.

NSBA recognizes up to 10 school board members in each state annually. Only two school board members from Tennessee received the award this year, which is given to those who have made a significant contribution to the advancement of education in the leadership at the local level and beyond, according to the organization. Blair previously won the same award in 2008.

"Wayne has been a champion for improving educational opportunities in our county since before he was elected to the School Board several years ago," Director of Schools Harry Gill said. "I can't think of anyone who is more deserving of this recognition."

To qualify for the award, recipients must have regular attendance at regional and state workshops / conferences; attend a minimum of three NSBA-sponsored workshops / conferences during a four-year period; and have achieved at least Level III of the TSBA Boardsmanship program.

"There are so many people out there doing so much – it was totally unexpected," Blair said. "I try to be involved in the process and help TSBA. Of course, our district is the priority, but if we can help others across the state, then it's worthwhile."

Blair received the award on Sept. 8 at the Tennessee School Boards Association's Mid Cumberland Fall District meeting.

Other Rutherford County board members also earned recognition at the TSBA fall meeting. Rutherford County School Board Chairman Mark Byrnes and board member Donald Jernigan both earned Level III Boardsmanship from the TSBA.

Blair was elected to the Rutherford County Board of Education in 2006 and served as vice chair during the 2007-2008 school year. He has served as an at-large member on the TSBA Board of Directors, achieved Level IV Boardsmanship from TSBA, and is a TSBA ambassador, among his many accomplishments as a school board member.

IN DAYS GONE BY Riches

© Jeanne D. Rhein

They say that times were tough then
That money was very tight
But I remember my childhood
And I know that can't be right

Mom would cook our dinner
Dad came home at five
We were all sitting at the table
Waiting for him to arrive

We wouldn't eat from a microwave
Or a restaurant down the street
We all ate Mom's home cooking
And boy that can't be beat

We didn't eat in front of the TV
Or with a phone in our hand
We weren't plugged into a stereo
bopping to the latest band

We would all sit at the table
Everyone in their place
There were never any surprises
We recognized every face

Brothers to the left of me
Sisters to the right
That's the way we ate dinner
Every single night

We laughed we joked we talked we ate
We were a family don't you see
Though some may have been raised poor
You can see it wasn't me

We ate collards we ate biscuits
We ate fatback and blackeyed peas
We said yes sir we said no sir
We said thank you ma'am and please

So when you talk of family life
Or how it used to be
Though many had more money
None were as rich as me

These pictures are a few of the families that lived and raised their families in the Eagleville Community. Most of the individuals, included in these pictures, could have written the above poem. Some of the individuals, portrayed in these photographs, are now deceased, but still have descendents living in the Eagleville and surrounding areas. Others have made Eagleville their home their entire lives. These families are included in the "Eagleville History" published in 2006, and are still available for purchase.

LATE SEASON CARE FOR YOUR GARDEN

Six Things To Do Now for a Better Garden Next Year

by Melinda Myers

As the summer garden season nears an end, don't let your guard down. Keeping up with a few basic chores can improve your landscape's beauty and reduce your workload next season.

Continue weeding. Removing weeds now before they go to seed will eliminate hundreds of weeds next season. Destroy invasive weeds, those that have gone to seed and perennials that may root in the compost pile. And mulch the soil if you haven't already done so.

Keep watering new plantings, stressed and young plants, evergreens, and moisture loving plants as needed throughout the fall. Water thoroughly and whenever the top few inches are crumbly and slightly moist. Check my plant guide for more specifics on your plants watering needs. Properly watered plants are better able to survive the rigors of winter.

Reduce future workloads and improve your garden's health and beauty. A layer of shredded leaves, evergreen needles or woodchips will help suppress weeds, conserve moisture, moderate soil temperatures, and improve the soil as they decompose.

Replace faded annuals with cool season annuals, mums, and other fall plants, decorative squash and pumpkins. And add a few fall containers to your front entrance, patio or deck. It adds color and a feeling of freshness to the garden.

Monitor and manage pests as needed. Keeping plants healthy throughout the growing season increases your overwintering success. Hand pick small populations of insects, rake and destroy disease infested leaves, and always use the most eco-friendly products when greater intervention is needed.

Keep applying animal repellents. Use a long lasting all natural product like Bobbex. Keeping hungry animals away from your landscape will help reduce the future risk of critters moving in and dining on your landscape.

1969 EHS Annual Class Reunion

The reunion was held at the home of Nell Russell Palmer in Shelbyville on September 17, 2011. We all enjoyed the good food, fellowship and fun. A time was spent in remembrance of those who had passed: Linda Beasley Keele, Barbara Jean Lamb, Larry Turner, Barbara Powers, Rocky Turner, and Sparky O'Neil. The class still needs to make contact with Mike Smith if anyone has any information on how to reach him.

Rhonda Braswell Tenpenny, Celia McDaniel Toombs, Nell Russell Palmer, Betty Rowland Puckett, Jimmy Irvin, Mac Tullos, Dan Hartley, Johnny McClaran, Don Lamb, Margie Haley Cothran, Shelia Hayden Binkley and David Hay.

FSA Guaranteed Loan Limit Increases

September 20, 2011: The Farm Service Agency (FSA) lending limit for Guaranteed Loans will be increased to $1,214,000, effective October 1, 2011.

The lending limit increases every year according to an inflation index. The maximum combined guaranteed and direct farm loan indebtedness will also be increased to $1,514,000.

As a reminder, the one-time loan origination fee charged on FSA guaranteed Farm Ownership and Operating loans will increase from 1 percent to 1.5 percent of the guaranteed portion of the loan, for loans obligated after October 1, 2011.

For more information about this, please contact the local FSA office at 615-452-3998.

Appreciation to Brother Tommy Jobe

Submitted by Cathy Parham

Since this is pastor appreciation month, honoring our pastor is as much about “who he is” as a person as “what he does” as an individual. When Brother Tommy Jobe came to Rocky Glade Cumberland Presbyterian Church, it was like God gave the people of our church a present. Words come easily when describing Brother Jobe. He is a kind, generous, helpful and worthy pastor. We at Rocky Glade treasure Brother Jobe and Mrs. Gloria. They are our ROCK at Rocky Glade and without them and the Lord we would crumble under the pressure. With his leadership, our church has grown both inside the walls and inside our hearts. We have GRACE and GRACE is sufficient for me. So with gratitude and inspiration, we honor and thank you Brother Jobe and Mrs. Gloria. We all love you dearly. LOVE MERCY GRACE

Food for Fines Week is October 2-8 “Give to a Good Cause for What You Owe”

Got overdue library fines - and some extra groceries? If so, the Linebaugh Public Library System is offering you an easy way to pay off those overdue fines! For one week, patrons of the library will have the option to bring in canned goods to pay off library fines. Not only will you be getting rid of some fines, but you will be helping your neighbor too.

From October 2 through October 8, 2011, the Linebaugh Public Library System (Linebaugh Public Library in Murfreesboro, Myrtle Glanton Lord Library at Patterson Park, Smyrna Public Library in Smyrna, and the Eagleville Bicentennial Public Library in Eagleville) will be collecting food donations. Smyrna’s collection will go to the Smyrna -La Vergne Food Bank, and all other sites will collect for The Salvation Army.

Bring your canned goods to the Library Circulation desk, and we will waive your fines for overdue items. Charges for lost or damaged items cannot be waived. We will waive one dollar in fines for each can donated to help feed the hungry. Please bring only new, unopened cans within expiration date. No fines? You can help out and make a food donation anyway. Last year, our patrons donated nearly 5,000 cans to this food drive!

Since both the Food Bank and The Salvation Army are committed to helping provide for those in need, you can be sure that donations are going to a good cause. Remember: the library is ONLY collecting canned goods for the food drive.

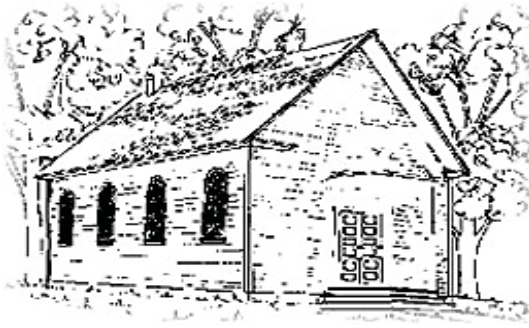

To find out if you owe any fines, simply go to the library’s website (www.linebaugh.org) and choose “review my account”. Enter your library card number and PIN (typically the last six digits of your library card).

Linebaugh Public Library is located at 105 W. Vine St. in Murfreesboro. The Library is the cornerstone of our community, enriching lives through free resources for learning, fun, and opportunity.

Engagement Announcement
Shapcott & Smith

Elaine Shapcott of Eagleville and William and Vicky Shapcott of Murfreesboro would like to announcement the engagement of their daughter, Katherin Dee Shapcott, to Christopher Lewis Smith, the son of Lou and Lorena Smith of Knox, Indiana.

The wedding will be held October 15th at the home of John Edward and Judy Turner in Eagleville.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of John Edward and Judy Turner of Eagleville and Linda Shapcott of Murfreesboro and Bill Shapcott of Estill Springs. She is a 2005 graduate of Eagleville School, and will be a graduate of Bethel University in December this year, with her Bachelor of Science Degree in Child Learning and Development K-6. She is the President of STEA and is a member of the Renaissance Choir at Bethel University.

The bridegroom-elect is the grandson on Nokie Russell of Denham, Indiana. He is a 1993 graduate of Knox High School, and he has earned his Associates Degree in Electronic Technology. He is also a member of Runaway Freight Bluegrass band from College Grove and he leads music at the Christ Church of Arrington.

Jones & Lamb

Andriana Inez Jones and Dustin Robert Lamb were married on June 25 at Eagleville United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Andy and Mary Jones of Unionville. She is the grand-daughter of Bill and Arlene Jones of Unionville, and William Carl and Mary Frances Hasty of Flat Creek, Bedford County. She is also the great-granddaughter of Sadie Jones of Unionville.

The groom is the son of Don and Ginger Lamb. He is the grandson of Gordon Lamb and the late Mary Alice Lamb, and Donald and Nancy McClaran, all of Eagleville.

The guest registry was attended by Chelsea Lamb, cousin of the groom, and Chelsey Ray, cousin of the bride. Tiffany Lamb, cousin of the groom, attended the gift table. Pre-ceremony music was done by Tam Clark on piano, with a candle being lit in honor of the late Mary Alice Lamb. Special music was performed by Chris and Kelly Harris.

The ceremony was conducted in front of a large company of guests by Brother Dan Seeley of Maxwell Chapel Methodist Church, Unionville, and Brother Jack Gilbert of Eagleville United Methodist Church.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a strapless sweetheart ball gown of luxe white taffeta, accented with vintage embroidery on the bust and near the natural waistline. The gown featured a corset back, a pick-up style skirt and was finished with a chapel length train.

The veil was of simple design, fell to the mid-back and was accented with pearl and crystal beads. It was crafted by the bride's great aunt Jenell Barber.

The bride carried a medium-sized bouquet of predominantly white daisies with white roses and button mums, accented with yellow Gerber daisies at the base of the bouquet.

Maids of honor included the bride's sisters, Marissa and Michaela Jones, both of Unionville. Bridesmaids included life-long friends, Kayla Brown and Brittany Smith, both of Unionville; cousin, Courtney Ray of Shelbyville; sister of the groom, Jennifer Cooper of Eagleville and sister-in-law of the groom, Jodi Lamb of Murfreesboro. Brenna Truitt of Murfreesboro, friend of the bride and groom, attended as a junior bridesmaid.

The flower girl was Sophie Lamb, daughter of Chad and Jodi Lamb of Murfreesboro and niece of the groom.

Best man was Don Lamb, father of the groom, of Eagleville.

Groomsmen included brother of the groom, Chad Lamb of Murfreesboro; brother-in-law of the groom, Brian Cooper of Eagleville; friend, Jonathan Johnson of Eagleville; and cousins Mac Jones, Brandon Lamb, and Lee Jones, all of Eagleville. Jay Truitt of Murfreesboro, friend of the bride and groom, attended as a junior groomsmen.

Ring bearers were Colton Byrd, cousin of the bride and son of Scott and Carla Byrd of Dandridge; and Grant Cooper, nephew of the groom, son of Brian and Jennifer Cooper of Eagleville.

Bell ringers for the ceremony included cousins of the bride Rylei Hale, daughter of Amber and Josh Hale of Shelbyville; and Carlie Belle Barber, daughter of Tad and Jenny Barber of Shelbyville.

The wedding reception was held in the Eagleville UMC Fellowship Hall and in the outside pavilion with music provided by D.J. Tam Clark as well as a performance by the Mid-State Cloggers.

The bride and groom's cake was created by the bride's aunt Mary Alice Hasty of Dandridge. Bouquets and flowers inside the church were made by the bride's cousin, Amanda Hasty of Fayetteville. Exterior flowers and decorations were made by the groom's brother, Chad Lamb of Murfreesboro.

After leaving on a restored A John Deere tractor, originally owned by the groom's great-grandfather, the couple honeymooned in Charleston, South Carolina. The couple will make their home in Unionville.

Victims of Judges Judging Judges

Editorial - From Tennessee Senator Mae Beavers

Sept. 27, 2011 - The public perception of a judge is often one of dignity and fairness – the ultimate arbiter who always rules on the side of justice. However, to many Tennesseans those black robes represent the opposite of partiality and fairness.

As our Ad-Hoc Joint Committee on the Court of the Judiciary opened hearings this week, we heard from citizens with claims that there are judges in our state who choose to rule and act contrary to their own code of judicial conduct, but yet are accountable to no one. This has led many to believe that these judges are free to rule and act without fear of repercussions.

Our Committee heard from citizens from all socioeconomic, racial, and cultural walks of life, some who tearfully talked about how they fear their testimony may bring about potential future judicial retaliation. However, these individuals feel our system is broken, and know the legislature is the only body that can fix it so others will not face the same problems in the future.

These types of alleged judicial abuses are what led the legislature to create the Court of the Judiciary in 1979 as a delegated arm of the legislature to investigate judicial misconduct and to recommend possible impeachment or removal. This is a duty bestowed to the legislature by Articles V and VI of Tennessee's Constitution like the separation-of-powers framework in our U.S. Constitution. All three branches of our government – the executive, the legislative, and the judicial – operate as checks on one another, a balance of power that usually ensures the most fair and accountable implementation of the law.

Yet, since the legislature enacted the Court of the Judiciary, the result has been a delegation of the legislature's duty to the very branch of government that we are attempting to monitor. Today, the majority of the Court of the Judiciary is comprised of judges appointed by the Supreme Court – “judges appointing judges to judge judges.”

In approximately thirty years of the Court of the Judiciary's existence, only two judges have been impeached (some who committed felonies were allowed to resign without being prosecuted). Since the first year we have statistics in 2006, approximately 92 to 95 percent of the thousands of complaints filed with the Court were dismissed without a formal investigation, including a case where the judge resigned, complaints against him were dismissed, and he was reappointed. This could be due to the fact that only one contract employee is looking into allegations. Another concern shared with committee members relates to the alleged shredding of documents.

In addition, even when a reprimand is given to a judge, it is often private and not subject to the general public's inspection or review by the legislature. This is the same legislature who is constitutionally directed to monitor the behavior of judges in order to know whether to introduce removal proceedings.

Action to reform the Court of the Judiciary is central to our democratic system of government as laid out in our Constitution. One person who has been treated unjustly and who has lost faith in our justice system is too many. We must have full judicial accountability as envisioned by our forefathers. Otherwise, the end result is a system where judges can live in an “above and beyond the law mentality” with no threat of public scrutiny.

Heart of the Homestead

By Tina Greene

As we look around us, we see many who are embracing the more simpler ways of life. For years we strived to have the newest gadget, the fastest cooking appliance or the shiniest toy. We thought that meant success. After four or five decades of this rat race we found out that what we are longing for were the good old days. Why is this? I believe it is because instant gratification isn't good for anyone at any age. We certainly know that it doesn't work for our children and it doesn't work for adults either.

As mothers and wives we set the mood of our homes. If we are always in a hurry or never at home what memories are we creating for our families? This section will be devoted to rekindling the lost homemaking arts and more importantly the right attitude as we serve our families with love.

Now don't get me wrong, fast food has its place, but there is not a more satisfying feeling of seeing the fruits of your labors. A homemade meal not only tastes so much better but as you are making it, it fills the house with an aroma that your children will remember for the rest of their lives. Imagine how excited our husbands will be when they come home to a delicious meal after a long day. For those who work outside the home, it can be done also with the help of a crock pot, a little planning and quick and easy recipes. All we need is the get up and go attitude. Making a monthly menu will be the most helpful thing you can do to get started. I print mine off of the web site thefamilyhomestead.com. I have found this site to be very valuable to me in my effort to be a more effective homemaker. Another life saver is my Fix it and Forget it cookbook. It is a cookbook filled with Crock pot recipes. Anything from breakfast foods to main dishes to appetizers can be found here. Here is one of my favorite slow cooker recipes.

Beef Tips

2lbs. Stew Meat
2 Tbsp Oil
1 Cup Flour
2 Cans Cream of Mushroom Soup
1 Pkg. Dry onion Soup Mix

Heat oil in pan. Brown the meat that has been dredged in flour. Drain and layer in crockpot along with cream of mushroom soup and dry onion soup mix.

Cook on low for 8 hours. Serve over rice or egg noodles.

THE BUZZ AROUND CO-OP

Prime Time

It's that time of the year again, prime time to seed and over seed your lawns and pastures. Fall is a great time to spot seed your lawn and pastures and plant a forage crop for your grazing animals. With the ever rising grain prices, planting a winter forage crop is an economical and convenient way to supplement forage. Fall planting of a lawn gives grasses a few months to mature in the winter and take root without the foot traffic they might have during the warm seasons of the year.

Stop by the Co-op and talk to our specialists about your fall planting and fertilizing needs.

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

Remembering The Dead

Have you made arrangements for your body after you no longer have use for it? Some people leave that up to their families and friends while others plan their funerals down to the last details. Some have shopped for their caskets, grave-clothes and headstones. I've seen a headstone where one spouse has died, but the information on the stone is for both. It stands silent waiting for the death of the other.

Some speak openly about death while others act as if the grim reaper will never show his face in their presence. My son wants to be cremated. His nephew (my grandson) said, in jest, that he wants to be on the mantel beside him. With rising burial cost cremation is not a bad option. There are still options: Of course the ashes can stay on the mantel, or be scattered in a spot special to the deceased and if desired the ashes can still be buried complete with a marker.

Not everyone is buried in a traditional manner. At the turn of the 20th century Mr. Bingham who had contempt for the evangelist in his town requested to be buried standing up on the crest of a hill with his whisky and a rock in his hand. Mr. Whiddon arranged to be buried in a vault in the middle of the road about three feet above ground. The top was a gabled roof—the sides were sealed glass so that spectators could see him resting in peace. The hot sun caused the vault to explode and concrete was poured over the glass. For fifty-five years the road remained divided forcing travelers to pass on either side of the vault. When the road was paved the contractor moved the vault to a nearby cemetery. Often, today, graves are moved in the name of progress and people are buried in vaults above ground.

At the "Bone Church" in the Czech Republic some 70,000 people's remains have found their final abode. The place was built in 1400 beneath the Church of All Saints to be used as an ossuary for thousands of skeletons unearthed from the overcrowded cemetery of Sedlec. The skulls are arranged in an almost lace-like artwork with the giant bone chandelier being the most impressive.

"Known as the oldest continuously inhabited settlement on Earth, Hallstatt, Austria is home to one of the most unusual burial places you'll ever see. Hallstatt ossuary was built in the 12th century when the population of the town exceeded the burial space. There a person rents a grave in the cemetery for ten years and then his or her skull is added to the crowd in the ossuary. Today most folks are cremated, however skulls are added to the ossuary by special request.

Coffins hang on the side of Mount Province in Sagada Philippines. The Igorot people believe the higher the body—the closer to heaven.

Perhaps you have some exotic plans for your departure or maybe you will just leave that up to your family and friends. It's no secret—we will go. On All Saint's Day, how will you choose to remember your loved ones who have gone before you?

Laura On Life

The Child Inside Us

As a parent, you may worry whether your squirrely, irresponsible child will become a successful adult one day. Can a child be successful as an adult if he never changes from a child into what society perceives as an adult?

I watched a movie a long time ago that touched on this very issue. It was called "Big" starring Tom Hanks as a 13-year old boy who made a wish to be grown up.

Well, he got part of his wish. His body aged into an adult's body, but he was still a 13-year old boy, mentally.

When I was 13, I always thought about being an adult, but like Josh, Tom Hank's character, I glamorized it. I wanted what would be added to my life as an adult, but I didn't realize that climbing trees wouldn't be part my life plan from then on. Or that walking around barefoot or locking myself in my bedroom would not be an option anymore.

Imagine being in a board meeting and suddenly standing up and announcing, "You cheat! I'm never playing with you again!" Adults have different ways of handling those who "cheat." We're much more subtle.

Of course, if you were an adult who still had the faculties of a 13-year old, you could tolerate the highly annoying repetitious sounds kids make for absolutely no other reason other than to hear an adult scream.

We may never know how long the insanity would go on if there were not an adult present to stop them.

If I still had the faculties of a 13-year old, I could memorize a list of things and still remember them an hour later. I might have retained that spur-of-the-moment enthusiasm that my kids have. If I did, I wouldn't have that deer-in-the-headlights look when one of them suggested, "Let's make soap today, Mom!"

"You mean actually MAKE soap? Wouldn't hopping into a bubble bath be more fun?"

I might be able to feel the same excitement my daughter feels when she says, "There are 60 kids in my theatre camp, Mom. Can we make cupcakes for everyone?"

Instead, since I'm an adult, I think about all the pesky consequences the kids don't bother with. Things like having to buy new measuring cups and a double boiler after the soap wax sticks to the sides. Things like how many hours it will take to bake 60 cupcakes with one cupcake pan. I think about the clean-up and delivery of 60 cupcakes.

Still, if it wasn't for my kids and their nothing-is-impossible, throw-caution-to-the-wind innocence, life would be pretty boring.

As an adult, I probably wouldn't climb a tree for the fun of it. However, if a kite, plastic rocket, badminton birdie, or kitten was up there, I would attempt to rescue it. I wouldn't want to. I would throw things at it first, but if all else failed, I would climb... and then I would be glad I did. There would be that sense of accomplishment I used to feel when I was a kid. I would think, "I haven't done that in thirty years!"

If you asked a 13-year old to clean out the garage, he'd do it. He wouldn't want to. He'd complain and whine at first, but if all else failed, he'd do it... and then be glad he did. He'd feel that sense of accomplishment, too.

That 13-year old is still there inside all of us, it's just that the activities that motivate us are a little different. It is unfortunate that, as adults, we know ahead of time the consequences for any sort of enthusiastic project. What we have forgotten, though, was that they are worth it.

All-State Recognition for Intermediate Sporting Clay Team

The Tennessee Wildlife Federation (TWF) is proud to present the 2011 Tennessee Scholastic Clay Target Program's Academic All-State Teams. These shooters represent the best student-athletes that the Tennessee Scholastic Clay Target Program has to offer. All-State team members must meet many criteria including; each athlete must have shot a certain number of registered competition targets, must be nominated by head coach, must have the highest overall shooting averages of TNSCTP participants in the state, and must maintain a 3.0 GPA.

Athletes received their All-State recognition plates during the award ceremony at the state championship in Nashville back in July.

Academic All-State Intermediate Sporting Clay Team for 2011: Captain, Hunter Rowland of College Grove, Grant Porter of Spring Hill, and Jesse Mobley of Sale Creek.

Hunter Rowland, student at Eagleville School is a member of the Eagleville Trap Team. He is the son of Edward "Buzz" and Tara Rowland

Happy Halloween

Scary Worms & Brains

Scare all your friends with a "realistic" ghoulish table of eyeballs, worms and guts. Blindfold each person and uncover a bowl of the following. Let them place their hands in the bowl to "guess" what the items are:

Cooked spaghetti = Worms

Peeled grapes = Eyeballs

Peeled shrimp = Ears

Slivered almonds = Fingernails

Jell-O over half of a peeled cantaloupe = Brains

Easy Ghost Cookies

Ingredients Needed:

Package of Nutter Butter Cookies

Container of Vanilla Frosting

Package of Miniature Chocolate Chips

Spread vanilla frosting on one side of sandwich cookie. Place two chocolate chips for the eyes.

Place on serving tray and you have edible "ghosts" for your little goblin to share with friends

Caramel Apple/Candy Apple Trivia

Q: What is the best type of apple to make caramel apples?

A: Granny Smith apples for there tart taste and firmness.

Q: William L. Kolb invented the candy apple in 1908.

A: False. The idea of coating fruit in sugar dates by to ancient times when sugar and honey was used to prevent fruit from rotting.

Q: Candy apples and caramel apples are the same thing.

A: False. Candy apples are coated in sugar syrup that dries to a hard, crackly covering sometimes flavored with cinnamon. Candy apples are coated with "caramel". Both apples can be dipped in extra topping like nuts, chocolate, candies, etc.

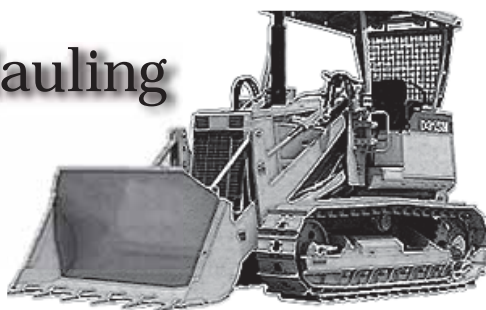

Did you know? - George Renninger of the Wunderle Candy Company in Philadelphia created Candy corn in the 1880's. A serving of 22 pieces of candy corn contains 140 calories with no fat.

COLLEGE GROVE HISTORY BOOK
AVAILABLE FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

About 100 copies of College Grove, Williamson County, Tennessee: History & Families, published in 2011, are available at Fifty Forward College Grove Senior Center. This book, which contains more than 800 photographs, is hard bound and constructed with the very best materials and workmanship. Future generations will treasure it and appreciate your generosity in making it available for them.

All funds received from the sale of these books will go to the endowment of the senior center, helping to support this excellent resource for the older generation of southeastern Williamson County and neighbors from Marshall, Bedford and Rutherford Counties.

The Scales – Cary house, built in the late 1850s, is presently being demolished at College Grove. A picture and information about this house are part of the past that is preserved in the College Grove History Book.

These books can be reserved until December 15, 2011, by a $20 deposit. The full price of the book is $55.00, so an additional $35.00 per book will be due when it is picked up. No later than November 30, 2011, you may request that the book be gift-wrapped and mailed for an additional $7.00.

Recipe Of The Month

Chicken Pot Pie

WHAT YOU NEED

4 sheets frozen puff pastry
1 egg, beaten
4 chicken breast halves, (2 cups cooked)
Seasoned salt and pepper
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1/3 cup butter
2/3 cup all-purpose flour
1 quart heavy cream
1/4 cup chicken base
1 tablespoon minced garlic
1/2 small yellow onion, minced
1 cup frozen green peas, cooked
1 cup chopped cooked carrots
4 (2-cup) individual baking dishes

MAKE IT

Preheat oven to 350 degrees

CRUST - Cut each sheet of frozen puff pastry into 1-inch strips, 8 inches long. On a large cookie sheet, weave strips into a lattice large enough to cover each pot pie. Brush beaten egg onto each lattice square. Bake for 5 minutes, or until dough has risen and turned light golden brown. Set aside until ready to assemble pies. Leave oven on at 350 degrees.

FILLING - Season chicken with seasoned salt and pepper. Heat oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken and saute until cooked through. Remove from heat and cut into chunks.

In a large saucepan, melt butter and then slowly add flour, stirring until consistency of peanut butter, but not brown like a roux. Slowly add cream and keep stirring. Add chicken base, garlic, and onion and stir until thickened. Add peas, carrots, and cut up chicken. Remove from heat. Fill 4 individual oven-proof bowls with chicken mixture and then top each with a pre-cooked lattice square. Bake for 5 minutes or until bubbly. Any remaining pie filling may be frozen.
