

Hale "Homecoming King" Against Grace Baptist

Last Friday night's game for Eagleville against the Grace Baptist Golden Eagles from Chattanooga was the topping for their homecoming. The final score was 49-20 with Chris Hale scoring five touchdowns, one coming on the opening kick-off return of 82 yards, for the opening of the second half.

Quarterback Ryan Jordan connected with Maison Vallance the first time the Eagles touched the ball for six points and kicker Luke Duross added the point after. Chris Hale's first quarter touchdown was followed by a two-point conversion attempt but was not good.

On defense James Merritt had another good evening following his excellent game against Chapel Hill. Linebacker Joseph Sewell, on the second half kickoff to Grace Baptist nailed the runner with a solo tackle. The younger players had an opportunity to sharpen their skills during the second half.

Eagleville will be on the road this Friday to challenge Fayetteville.

Facebook Recipes ONE HOUR YEAST ROLLS

- 1 cup of warm water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup oil
- 2 tablespoons yeast
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, beaten
- 3 1/3 cup flour

1. In a large bowl, mix together warm water, sugar, oil and yeast. Let stand for 15 minutes until yeast mixture is bubbly.
2. Stir in salt and beaten egg to yeast mixture.
3. Gradually add flour. Dough will be kind of sticky, but add enough flour until it's manageable. Let dough rest in the bowl for 10 minutes. I cover mine with a towel. This allows the dough to rise more.
4. Spray hands with non-stick cooking spray (such as Pam) and form dough into balls. Place balls so they don't touch on cookie sheet. Let rise for 20 more minutes.
5. Bake in 375 degree oven for 10 minutes.
6. Mix 2-3 tablespoons of melted butter with honey (to taste) and brush the top of hot rolls with the honey butter.

Rutherford County's Jewel, Eagleville

The City of Eagleville held its monthly council meeting Thursday evening, September 26, 2013.

With a short agenda, Mayor Tune called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. Amy Von Almen, City Recorder called the roll with Mayor Tune, Vice-Mayor Ball, Councilman Brown and Councilman Soaps being present.

There were no citizens present for input and with the normal adoption of the agenda, the approval of the financial report and minutes of the last meeting, things moved fairly fast.

Police Chief Elijah Stuard reported that he was working on having the county mobile emissions unit available for Eagleville. The county is now serving the city with a Monday only license renewal office located at City Hall, so additional services are being provided to locals, saving on driving time to Murfreesboro. The new squad car is now in service and a recent two-hour domestic stand-off ended successfully.

Under new business, a short discussion on the Municipal Court Ordinance revision ended with a proposal to make it easier to understand, this had nothing to do with the current court date time, that remains as is, the vote for the revision was 4-0

It's in the best interest of the city for residents to attend the council meetings. Knowing what is going on and what is being discussed for the future gives you the opportunity to have some positive input and prevent casting stones after the fact. After all those elected are doing their best to make Eagleville a great community, the council needs your support and input. It's healthy.

Protect Your Winter Landscape From Hungry Wildlife

by gardening expert Melinda Myers

There's no doubt that managing critters in the landscape can be a challenge especially as food supplies start to dwindle. If you are battling with rabbits, deer, groundhogs or other wildlife, don't let down your guard as the growing season begins to wind down.

Be proactive. Start before they get into the habit of dining on your landscape. It is easier to keep them away than break the dining habit.

Fence them out. Fencing is the best defense against most wildlife. A four foot tall fence around a small garden will keep out rabbits. Secure the bottom tight to the ground or bury it several inches to prevent rabbits and voles from crawling underneath. Or fold the bottom of the fence outward, making sure it's tight to the ground. Animals tend not to crawl under when the bottom skirt faces away from the garden.

Go deeper, at least 12 to 18 inches, if you are trying to discourage woodchucks. And make sure the gate is secure. Many hungry animals have found their way into the garden through openings around and under the gate.

A five foot fence around small garden areas can help safeguard your plantings against hungry deer. Some gardeners report success surrounding their garden with fishing line mounted on posts at one and three foot heights.

Break out the repellents. Homemade and commercial repellents can be used. Apply before the animals start feeding and reapply as directed. Consider using a natural product like Messina's Animal Stopper (www.Messinas.com). It is made of herbs, safe to use and smells good.

Scare 'em away. Blow up owls, clanging pans, rubber snakes, slivers of deodorant soap, handfuls of human hair and noise makers are scare tactics that have been used by gardeners for years. Consider your environment when selecting a tactic. Urban animals are used to the sound and smell of people. Alternate scare tactics for more effective control. The animals won't be afraid of a snake that hasn't moved in weeks.

Combine tactics. Use a mix of fencing, scare tactics and repellents. Keep monitoring for damage. If there are enough animals and they are hungry, they will eat just about anything.

Don't forget about nature. Welcome hawks and fox into your landscape. Using less pesticides and tolerating some critters, their food source, will encourage them to visit your yard. These natural pest controllers help keep the garden-munching critters under control.

And most importantly, don't give up. A bit of persistence, variety and adaptability is the key to success. Investing some time now will not only deter existing critters from dining in your landscape, but will also reduce the risk of animals moving in next season.

Norman Rockwell Art Comes To The Frist Center For The Visual Arts

"American Chronicles: The Art of Norman Rockwell," will be on view Nov. 1 through Feb. 9, 2014 in the Frist Center for the Visual Arts' Upper-Level Galleries in Nashville.

During this holiday season, visitors will have the opportunity to examine the legendary American illustrator's working process and career through his oil paintings, iconic Saturday Evening Post covers, posters, photographs and correspondence.

The works in this exhibition span from folk heroes and frontiersmen to the turbulent events of the 1960s, representing 56 years of Rockwell's career. A reporter at heart, Rockwell told visual stories with meticulous detail and went to great lengths to achieve precision in his studio. He is equally recognized for his trademark idealistic tint, affection and humor.

Signature works such as "No Swimming (1921)", "Christmas Homecoming (1948)" and "Triple Self-Portrait (1959)" will all be on display. Photographs, correspondence and Rockwell's newspaper clippings used for research provide a glimpse into Rockwell's creative process. A 14-minute film narrated by one of Rockwell's sons is also included in the exhibition.

For more information, visit www.fristcenter.org.
