Eagleville, Tennessee

It's once again time to turn the Friday night lights on in Eagleville. Are ya'll ready for Football?

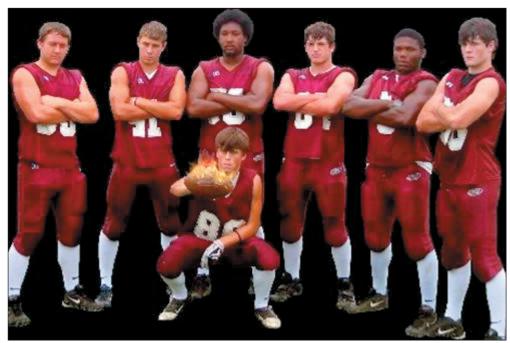

BY LISA JUTKOFSKY

Talon Field is quickly becoming "The Place" for action and excitement as Eagleville Varsity Football is pumped up, setting the field on fire, playing in top form and Winning. The Eagles opened the season at home against Franklin Road Academy. The Eagles beat the Panthers 29 to 13 as players made their mark both on defense and offense. Jo Jo Vestal had 13 tackles in his first game. Sophomore Jake Simms is the Eagleville quarterback and showed his skill in orchestrating the running game and making the passing game effective. He passed for 158 total yards connecting with J.T. Rucker, Jeremy Moore, and Steven Mastin.

The second game of the season, August 25th had the Eagles traveling to Chattanooga to play the Silverdale Academy Seahawks. The team stopped at Cracker Barrel for their pre-game meal and then focused on the game plan. The visitor bleachers were full of Eagleville Fans and the Band, making their presence known and supporting the team. Derrick Powell had an early first-half interception and Jo Jo Vestal made his first high school career interception. Tavarice Moore ran for a 25 yard touchdown off a Seahawk deflected punt. Cameron Lillard scored running 40 yards after a pass reception from quarterback Jake Simms. J.T. Rucker also scored on a 50 yard run during the game. Defense kept the Seahawks from gaining momentum on their offense and the Eagles marched back home with a 22 to 10 victory.

Coach Scharsch spoke recently about the Varsity Team saying that this year's Cornerbacks, both sophomores, have been effective in both games. Scharsch is also pleased with the progress the offense is making. When asked if there is a player whose stats did not show his performance and contribution to the team on the field, he replied Senior Scott Moss. "The kid never comes off the field."

Scott plays Tackle, Defensive End, and Fullback. He is truly a workhorse. His regional game of the coaches.

exemplifies the meaning of team player. He is not the player in the spotlight but he is definitely key to the success of the Eagleville Team.

The Team travels this Friday the 1st to play Jo Burns. This is the team's first regional game so Play Hard. For information or directions contact the school or one of the coaches.

Change of Summer Venue To Prepare Scouts For Canoeing Adventures

Boy Scout Troop 123 changed their yearly tradition this year. Instead of attending summer camp at Boxwell Reservation near Gallatin, the Troop spent a week canoeing the Buffalo River at Grimes Canoe Base. Grimes is part of the Middle Tennessee Council recreation / camping properties available to Troops. In the past the Troop has enjoyed a weekend at the Canoe base but this summer they stretched their stay from Sunday to Thursday. Their reason? To reach the goal of earning their 50 Mile patch and to prepare for even longer canoeing adventures.

camping, cooking their own food, playing in the river and canoeing and kayaking the Buffalo River. Each day, the Grimes Canoe base staff took the troop with their gear to another part of the river. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the scouts canoed anywhere from 15 to 20 miles each day. The final day the scouts canoed 7 miles, completing their goal and earning a 50 mile patch. Each scout learned guiding a canoe, working as a team, and handling a kayak. There was also time to fish, swim in the river, and enjoy camping.

Boy Scout Troop 123 meets every Tuesday night at the Community Center in Eagleville. For more information contact Don Davis at 274-3439 or Mike Hayes at 504-1851.

Labor Day
September 4th

I WALKED WITH GOD TODAY

I saw the glory of the sunrise,
Breathed the fresh clear, pure air.
And my body saw the beautiful skies,
Looking down on me like I was surprised.
When I set forth, my aim to enjoy
The love of a beautiful day.

But this was early morn when I walked on,

I found the awful heat coming down.

I stooped, and my brow was already wet from heat,

That when I found misfortune frown.

I cried, "I am not conquered yet,"

For this is just early morn.

The softer shades of twilight soon began to fall,

And released my grip in the strife of heat.

Now this is early evening,

I walked today with God,

And walked out on a wooded hill.

I heard the words that Mother Nature spoke

Where all the world was still.

I saw God lay His gentle hand on Mother Nature's brow,

And thought about once it was cold and dead,

But now it's pretty and green and lovely now.

I stopped to watch a happy brook,

Go babbling on its way.

And heard a song bird giving thanks,

That life was his today.

I saw a giant oak tree, stretch its boughs to Heaven above,

As if to cover all below with God's abiding love.

I said a prayer to God today on the hill,

A prayer of thanks, for all He had created,

Oh! what wondrous things for folks like us to see.

So shall I each day aspire to grow,

With grace, as the creator of life ordained.

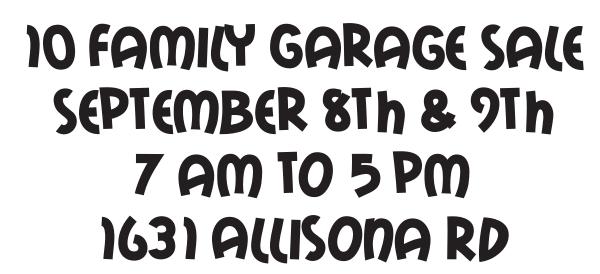

Just for us to find and in which my friends may find,

Hope, love, courage and peace of mind.

Thanks God for my walk, I have enjoyed it a lot,

And may it make me more thankful and much more stronger too.

Love You All, Maye Taylor

this milestone.

The recording and memories of several now deceased members has provided the early history of the Rockvale Church Of God.

The congregation of the invitation to join them, celebrating for this glorious celebration.

According to the late Oden Williams, Mrs. Nannie Coursey from Missouri sent the "Gospel Trumpet" to her husband's brother, Mr. Newt Coursey which they shared them with their neighbors. Inspired by what he read, Mr. Edgar Williams sent for Brother Willis M. Brown to conduct a revival in the Rockvale Community in October 1909.

The Church Of God, with U. S. offices in Anderson, Indiana, had began in 1881 as a movement emphasizing the unity of God's people and holy living. Daniel S. Warner and several associates sought to forsake denominational hierarchies and formal creeds, trusting solely in the Holy Spirit as their overseer and the Bible as their statement of belief. These individuals saw themselves at the forefront of a movement to restore unity and holiness to the church. Their aim was not to establish another denomination but to promote primary allegiance to Jesus Christ so as to transcend denominational loyalties.

In 1891, the movement's first missionary was sent to Mexico. Since those early days, the Church Of God has continued to grow into a multinational community of faith. There are approximately 2,300 congregations in the United States and Canada with weekend attendance in the congregation's totals approximately 250,000. Worldwide the movement has work in eighty-nine countries and territories representing approximately 7,300 church and more than 750,000 believers.

The late Julie Burns Brannon told of a revival in a one-room schoolhouse in 1910. Brother J. Lee Collins was the evangelist and Brother Long and his wife were singers. "On the final night, Brother Collins asked that those who believed he had preached the gospel to raise their a hand." Most of those present did so. "Then he asked if anyone wanted to take a stand for the Church to stand up. Six or eight people stood up". Sister Brannon said,

ROCKVALE CHURCH OF GOD

"That night was when the Rockvale Church started."

There was no place of worship except in the schoolhouse, tent or prayer meetings in homes. This schoolhouse was located in the right hand corner of the lot where the Burns Log home is across the road from the Jackson Ridge Presbyterian Church. Julia was the daughter of George Washington and Emley Ellen Burns.

After the revival in 1910, Edgar Williams bought the lot where the church and parsonage now stand from Mell Morgan for $75.00. In July 1911, a brush arbor was built on this lot and N. E. Setser conducted a revival.

On October 26, 1911, the first lumber was placed on the lot for the new church building. Some gave money; logs for framing and many gave work. Everyone was happy to have a place to worship. November 14, 1911 contractors Tom Rutledge and Andrew Sims began construction on the one room frame building. Mr. Williams paid them $100.00 for their work.

The first service was held in the new church April 20, 1912 and in the summer of the same year, W. P. Long and W. A. Sutherland held the first revival in the new church.

According to the late Mildred Bell, the first pastor in the new church was R. H. Craig. The first Board of Trustees was composed of the following: Edgar Williams, A. W. West, J. T. Wilson, T. J. Todd and R. A. "Dick" Stegall. First Sunday School Teachers were: Inez Williams, J. T. Wilson, Annie Wilson and Minnie Williams and classes were held in separate sections of the one room church.

Unfortunately, this building burned to the ground in the fall of 1916 during a revival. Only one revival service was missed. A tent was pitched and the revival continued.

Another church building was constructed before Christmas of the same year. Five new Sunday school classrooms were added to the back of the church in 1945 while Reverend Harry F. Martin was pastor.

Quoting from a small note book preserved by Oden Williams dated 1916, "Rockvale Tennessee" The Church Of God Chapel at this place burned on the night of Aug. 22, 1916 and left the congregation without a house of worship. In order to raise money to furnish a new building the ladies of the congregation organized a sewing circle, which meets each Wednesday afternoon. In order to do more work and for the convenience of all, the club was divided into two sections. A joint meeting was held at Sister Burns' Sept. 6th, quilted one quilt, collection $1.00. Sept. 13, meeting at Sister Williams' and Shoemaker's, quilted two quilts collection $2.00. Sept. 27, a joint meeting was held at Sister Johns', two quilts quilted, collection $2.00. Oden Williams also stated, "The Church Of God message in song as well as in sermon attracted people all over the countryside." She said, "The Word was preached in its purity with signs following them that believed."

In 1955, a new brick church building was started. The old building was torn down but the classrooms were moved and joined to the back of the new building. The first service in the new building was on February 5, 1956. Dedication Service was held on April 22, 1956 at 2 p. m. with Bro. Thurman Hall as the dedication speaker and Bro. Ira Marion from Riverside California, a former pastor, praying the dedication prayer.

The parsonage was built in 1938. It was remodeled several times before being replaced.

In April 1963, a building committee was elected to make plans for building a new parsonage, which was completed within the same year. The Morgan Davis family was the first occupants of the new parsonage. The old parsonage was moved and added to the back of the church building for more classrooms.

The Christian Fellowship Center (C.F.C.) was constructed in 1977, consisting of a half court gymnasium, kitchen, two classrooms and rest rooms. Over the years, the entrance to the church was enlarged and new glass doors and a covered entrance has been added. Many other donations and improvements have been made over the years to make the Rockvale Church Of God a beautiful and comfortable place of worship.

The Rockvale Church Of God has had 33 different Pastors in the past 95 years. Reverend Morgan Davis who served as pastor the longest from 1961 to 1972 left the Rockvale Church for a position as the Area Administrator of the Church Of God of Tennessee, located in Murfreesboro.

Present Pastor Donnie Clayton, a native of Dayton, Tennessee has been a full time minister for 30 years, serving in Tennessee, Alabama, South Carolina and Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Joan, also an ordained minister, have 3 sons and 4 grandchildren. They have served the Rockvale Church Of God since July 1, 2002.

Pastor, Donnie Clayton stated: The Rockvale Church Of God is made up of people who have been here since birth, those who have only been with us for a short while and a host of others whose coming was somewhere in between. Many have gone on to heaven and some have moved away and still others, who are relatively new, have come to bless the rest of us with their presence and their involvement.

Rockvale Church of God is located 7824 Jackson Ridge Road, Rockvale, Tennessee.

WELCOME TO THE CHURCH LUNCHEON SEPTEMBER 17, 2006

Tom & Frankie Reed of Murfreesboro, and Jane & Leon Puckett of Eagleville, along with twenty-two First United Church members, have returned from a thirteen day Princess Line tour of Poland, Finland, Russia, Estonia, and Germany. Two tours enjoyed by the groups were the Hermitage, St. Petersburg, Russia and the Jewish Heritage Museum and Berlin Wall in Germany.

Five of the Perrell sisters (pictured L-R: Shirley Crick, Jane Shelton, Anita Hargrove, Margaret Ryan, and Bessie Lee Mosley) along with Kathy and Janet Shelton and Junior Crick celebrated Jane's birthday at Henry Horton Park Restaurant on Saturday, August 26th. Celebrations of any kind is a way for the sisters to get together each month.

College Grove was the featured community in August on Channel 2 News. Interviewed were: Emy Joe at Ej's Antiques; Bob Moran & his mother, June; Buddy & Mary Tom Cromer with the College Grove United Methodist Church; College Grove Grocery folks; and the home of Carol Schmidt was featured.

Guess who dropped in on Emy Joe at Ej's Antiques during August? The great....George Jones. I guess Emy Joe is right. You just never know who will stop by her shop.

Eagleville City Park Progress

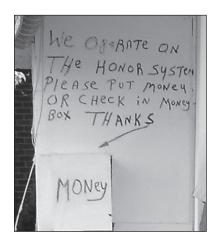

Tuesday, August 29, 2006

The rain came but installers were hard at work at the new city park working on the new playground equipment.

HONESTY PAYS OFF

In Gallatin, there is a fruit and vegetable stand on Highway 70 that has a strong and loyal local following and also appeals to the "out of towner" just passing by. Fresh peaches, tomatoes and other produce items are offered on a daily basis for purchase to complete the dinner menu or to serve with breakfast. Shoppers enjoy a self-service atmosphere as they gather, bag, and weigh their choices, encouraging those new to the produce stand to do the same. When shopping is complete and payment is due the newcomer may suddenly be at a loss as to whom to give their money. Everyone clustered around the shelves are customers. Why? Because this produce stand operates on the honor system. For the past 10 years, owner Paul R. Williams has successfully operated his business allowing shoppers to place their payment in a box on the side of a small building. During that time, this honor system has proved to be a remarkable way to do business and proves that even today, honesty is a policy that many follow.

The Eagleville Times Newspaper stands operate on the same principal. Throughout Eagleville, Rockvale, College Grove, Chapel Hill and surrounding communities the Eagleville Times has become increasingly popular as circulation has increased and outlets for retail sale have grown. Typically the paper is sold from stands inside retail establishments with a payment on the honor system.

Mr. Paul R. Williams of Gallatin

This system brought with it initial apprehension as the paper had to rely on people to deposit their 50 cents when they purchased a paper. Time has proven that the honor system has been an overwhelming success for the paper. A variety of communities sell the paper from various stores and other vendors and collections at these sites demonstrates that most people are paying for their paper and that the Honor System is working.

State Releases AYP Scores for Rutherford County Schools

Plans Being Developed to Help Three Schools With Target Status

MURFREESBORO - Director of Schools Harry Gill Jr. is pleased overall with the 2006 Adequate Yearly Progress results that were released August 16, 2006, by the Tennessee Department of Education. Out of 38 Rutherford County schools that were tested last year, 35 are meeting all goals set by the state and federal governments.

The AYP scores show that Central Middle, Smyrna Middle and the Rutherford County Schools system have met all requirements and have been taken off the High Priority list under the federal No Child Left Behind law.

"I'm thrilled that Central, Smyrna Middle and our school system have earned their way off the High Priority list. The faculty and students at those schools should be proud of what they have accomplished," Director Gill said. "Now we've got to turn our focus to other schools who have needs. I plan to meet with each of those principals immediately to develop a strategy to shore-up any weak areas."

Three Rutherford County schools - Oakland High, LaVergne High and Cedar Grove Elementary - have been listed as "Targeted" for not meeting at least one goal during one academic year. Target status is not part of No Child Left Behind. It is a term the state of Tennessee uses to notify schools when they are at risk of being listed as a High Priority school if they fail to meet a certain goal for two consecutive years.

Oakland has been targeted for its graduation rate, LaVergne High for reading scores for students with disabilities, and Cedar Grove for reading and math scores for students with disabilities.

"Students with disabilities will continue to be a challenge for Rutherford County and a majority of school systems in Tennessee," Gill said. "Even though these students have identified learning disabilities, they are held to the same standards as other students under No Child Left Behind."

All three schools had AYP successes, despite being targeted by the state. Cedar Grove had 93% of students who were either advanced or proficient in both math and reading. LaVergne High School made the goal for graduation rate and Oakland recorded the highest Algebra I Gateway scores out of the past four years.

AYP information is collected from TCAP scores, Gateway tests, attendance reports and graduation rates. The state of Tennessee gathers the information annually on every school system in the state. For additional information, please contact James Evans, Community Relations, at (615) 893-5812.

Driving Ms. Dottie - Manager Shares Rambo Stories From The Road

NASHVILLE, TN – Have you ever wondered what it's like to live on a tour bus, traveling from town to town, or what really goes on behind the stage before a concert appearance? What are some of the funny experiences that can happen on the road? Do overzealous fans sometimes go too far? What is it really like to get to know a famous Gospel singing legend?

Larry Ferguson, manager of Gospel music artist and songwriter Dottie Rambo, has put pen to paper and compiled a number of adventures that will answer these and many other questions in his exciting new book, Driving Ms. Dottie, coauthored by Mike Collins.

The new release, from Woodland Gospel Publishing, offers an enjoyable and touching "behind-the-scenes" look at living in the center of the Gospel music industry. The book portrays the private side of Ms. Dottie that the public doesn't get to see, away from the bright lights and stage, from a unique perspective that only her manager could tell. As Dottie herself reveals in the book's foreword [yes, she even gave her stamp of approval to the project!], some of the stories you'll read will make you laugh, while others will make you cry. But overall you will be able to gain an insight into what it's like to take the Gospel in song all over the world.

"After laughing and crying for years over some of the things that have happened to us while on the road, we have often joked that these stories would make a good book," Dottie told the Singing News Magazine. "When Larry recently told me he wanted to write it, I knew it would be something special. However, since he's never written a book before, I was really amazed when he let me read a few excerpts. He's a natural storyteller!"

Larry is obviously more than a manager to Dottie Rambo; he is a dear friend. The depth of that friendship and their mutual respect are very easy to sense throughout this volume. "My wife, Judy, and my two sons, Christian and Pierce, often travel with Dottie and me while on tour," Larry said. "We are all one big family. My children even call Dottie 'GranDot' like her own grandchildren do. You know, Dottie is such a unique individual and, at times, as funny as a monkey! I want readers to see this lighter side of the woman who has blessed my life again and again," Larry said. In one chapter Larry explains that, as any diehard fan already knows, Dottie removes her shoes sometime during a concert and, after performing a few of her hits, takes requests while performing with just a box guitar. One night, while Dottie was going into this segment of the concert, a woman in the audience yelled, "Dottie, you have a hole in your pantyhose!" Always quick at the draw, Dottie looked down at her hosiery and said, "Uh, I sure do. Well...I guess I'm a Holy woman!"

On another occasion, Dottie told an audience in the Midwest that she needed to get comfortable, as she removed her earrings and wristwatch. "Don't worry," she said, jokingly. "That is as far as I'm going!" At that very moment, a shower of tiny beads began falling from her sparkling gown. "Catch them!" Dottie shouted, as the beads sprinkled and bounced all over the stage floor. "I'm going to get my money back for this sucker!"

In addition to the humorous and unusual occurrences revealed, there is one rather frightening chapter about a fan who turns into a stalker and ultimately endangers Dottie's life. In another chapter, there is an account of a harrowing airplane story where Dottie and Larry experience a bizarre bomb threat.

Larry discloses how Dottie has gone through numerous health issues, including having three near-fatal bouts of pneumonia, each time leaving her in a coma, and how she has struggled with acute back pain for many years and undergone ten back surgeries. Then just last year she broke her femur, the largest bone in her leg, in a mishap at home. Yet as you can see in Driving Ms. Dottie, her reliance upon Christ seems to shine through on every page and in every episode. Larry shows how through it all, she refuses to slow down, pressing onward with the Gospel in song. She is truly an encouraging and inspiring personality.

"It's times like these that make me depend upon the Lord and my faith," Dottie explained. "Roman 8:28 is absolutely true: the Lord will make something good come out of all these experiences and trials."

is such a unique individual and, at times, as funny as a monkey! I want readers to see this lighter side of the woman who cus on what may seem like an unlikely compilation of cherished friends, including Dolly Parton, Bill Anderson, Lily Tomlin, the Crabb Family, Stella Parton, Eva Mae LeFevre, Michael Sykes, Benny Hinn, Mark Lowry, Carol Channing, Barbara Mandrell, Tammy Faye Messner, Joan Rivers, Amy Grant and Vince Gill, the Gaither Homecoming Friends and others. Larry also pays homage to both Vestal Goodman (Dottie's closest friend) and Jake Hess. The hardbound 144-page book, with its additional 16-page full color insert, is packed with photos from Larry and Dottie's personal collection. There are also special moments and hilarious snapshots of Dottie on the road and at home.

Larry tells the story behind Dottie's 2003 Stand By the River recording session with friend, Dolly Parton, as well as the touching account of the shooting of the music video for this project. After reading an early galley of the title, Dolly penned a recommendation, saying: "I am very honored to be included in his book, Driving Ms. Dottie. (I, too, love Ms. Dottie!). Larry has done a wonderful job, and I'm sure you readers will enjoy it."

Homecoming Friends' comedian Aaron Wilburn, after reading a pre-release copy of the book, said: "Jump in for a joyride as Larry Ferguson takes us on a journey of laughter and reflections in Driving Ms. Dottie—and best of all, everybody gets a window seat and Larry pays for the gas! Bless his heart!"

Larry Ferguson and his family and Dottie Rambo live in Nashville.

In addition to Driving Ms. Dottie, Woodland Gospel Publishing, of Chapmanville, WV, will soon be releasing After All These Years: The Authorized Biography of the Hoppers, authored by F. Keith Davis, and The History of the Singing News Magazine, authored by Mike Collins. In 2007, the publishing firm will publish the highly anticipated Dottie Rambo autobiography, and North Carolina Gospel Music: The North Carolina Hall of Honor, a book which focuses on the Gospel groups and soloists from North Carolina that have made an impact in the Gospel music industry. They are also the publishers of the popular title, Hold On: The Authorized Biography of the Greenes, by Mike Collins. EAGLEVILLE SCHOOL NEWS FROM MS. HILL'S THIRD GRADE

We are off to a great start with twenty terrific girls and boys and one "glad to be back" bunny. Kali Majors joins us this year. We are so glad she moved to Eagleville. Our attendance has been outstanding so far. Looks like we are a healthy bunch.

Several of our students are playing Jr. pro football and cheering. We also displayed great spirit by winning the elementary spirit award at the first H.S. Football pep rally. Speaking of football, our parents are already thinking and planning for our homecoming float, which will roll down the streets of Eagleville on the afternoon of Sept. 22.

Hope to see everyone at the first P.T.O. meeting and open house on Sept. 7. Please check out our class page on the Eagleville web site at www.eag.rcs.k12.tn.us We would love to hear from you.

Owners, Gary & Gina Kay Reid, Eagleville One man's trash is another man's treasure! I would like for people to check their local shelter before getting a puppy. All three of these wonderful animals came to me second hand and I do get very emotional at the thought that I was a last resort and that no one wanted them. The rottie and terrier will honestly bring you a ball to toss until you think your arm will fall off of your body. Every childhood needs to experience a companion of this sort at least one time. The Dalmatian, Abby, is always with her favorite stuffed pheasant of all things. She won a first place in Rally Obedience, a second in agility, and a forth place in Veterans at the Dalmatian Club of America Show held in Milford, Ohio earlier this year. All three of these have done well in the show ring. They love to ride in the car even though they know it means they will have work to do at the end of our trip. I am very proud of my pack that no one else wanted. I have received much satisfaction over the years of the time spent with them and the accomplishments they have achieved

Margaret's Helpful Hints

To bring a nice luster to your telephone's finish, try wiping it down with a little rubbing alcohol on a soft cloth.

Bagging Leaves - Use your old bedsheets or a tarp to collect grass clippings or leaves by raking them onto the sheet. Then fold the sheet over the leaves and simply drag it away to your compost pile. Your back will thank you for it.

Place a large decorative ceramic bowl or straw basket on a small table in your entrance hall. It comes in handy for dropping off small items like your keys, gloves, etc. when you come home. They'll be there, ready and waiting for you, when you go out again.
