

Eagleville High School Football Starts Off The Season 2 & 0

Eagleville High School Cheerleaders Are Excited About Their Upcoming Season!

Eagleville High School football team has gotten off to a great season start. The Eagles played Westmoreland for their first game of the season on August 19 on Eagle's home turf. Eagleville Eagles pleasingly defeated the Westmoreland Eagles with a score of 28-27.

The Eagleville Eagles played another good game on August 26 against McEwen, winning 27-0.

This Friday night, September 2, Eagleville goes to Moore County.

A Message From Your Mayor

As we enter into September fall is approaching and summer draws to a close. One thing for sure, time brings changes to all of us. Hopefully we can all make the best of all changes.

Our football team is undefeated (2-0). Keep up the good work; we are proud of the way you represent our school and community.

Starting Monday August 28, we will have officially moved into our new city hall. At this point, all city business, meetings and court will be held at the new facility. Please drop by to look at your new building. Soon we will announce a date for a dedication and open house to officially welcome everyone.

I am a firm believer that no one accomplishes anything by themselves. It takes unity, team work, civic and community pride. With that being said, I would like to share with you a prefect description of Eagleville.

MY TOWN

MY TOWN is the place where my house is found, where my children are educated, and where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived. It is the spot for me.

MY TOWN has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I should support it.

MY TOWN wants my citizenship, not my partisanship, my friendliness, not my dissensions, my sympathy, not my criticism, my intelligence, not my indifference.

MY TOWN supplies me with protection, trade, friends, education, schools, churches, and the right to free moral citizenship. It has some things better than others, the best things I should seek to make better, the worst things I should help to suppress.

“TAKE IT ALL-IN-ALL, IT IS MY TOWN AND IT IS ENTITLED TO THE BEST THERE IS IN ME” “

THE CITY OF EAGLEVILLE

Remember to shop locally and support our school. If I can assist, call my personal cell number 849-6509

State Representative Pat Marsh District 62 — Covering Eagleville, Tennessee

As you know, the 107th Session of the Tennessee Legislature ended in May this year and we are off until the second Tuesday in January. However, I continue to go to many meetings and events in the district and occasionally in Nashville. I wanted to let all of you know what I was proud of that we accomplished in this past year’s Session:

- Passed a balanced budget that $1.2 billion in spending with no tax increases
- Tenure reform so only our best teachers receive it and remove ineffective teachers
- Lawsuit reform so businesses can quantify their risk, expand, and bring more business to Tennessee
- Started constitutional amendment process for no income tax
- Passed bill to protect teacher pay
- Reformed workers comp law
- Ended pre-trial diversion for felons—a legal maneuver not found in our constitution
- Lifted the cap on charter schools so students in rural areas and inner cities can have access to high-performing schools
- The murder of a pregnant woman is now treated as two murders
- Protected Tennesseans who do not want to participate in Obamacare
- Made it so those who loot after a disaster are made to rebuild the community/ help with cleanup efforts as opposed to paying a fine or jail time
- Brought Tennessee in line with federal law with regard to corporate contributions
- Ensured integrity at the ballot box by making sure Tennesseans who vote show a photo ID
- Ended 5 weeks early, saving tax payers $450,000
- Cut the budget by $1.2 billion
- Put over $70 million more in the Rainy Day Fund
- Did all this with NO new taxes

Here is some information on the state budget:

In the fiscal year that just ended in June, we are $439 million better off in Revenue than we were at the same time last year. We were almost $300 million higher in our sales tax collections. Things are definitely better off in Tennessee this year versus last year.

I want to let you know in general where our state funds are collected and where they are spent in our state budget. Revenue: 54% comes from sales tax, 13% comes from Franchise and Excise tax, and 7% comes from gas/ fuel tax. Expenditures: 42% goes to education, 29% goes to health and social services, 9% goes to safety, Law enforcement, and corrections, 7% goes to transportation, and 7% goes to City and County governments.

Some of the things that I have been doing this summer have helped me better understand the 62nd District, and also how the State of Tennessee operates.

I attended the Cable Show in Chicago to expand my knowledge about part of my role on the Commerce Committee. I was astonished at how the cable industry works and how many new ideas and products are coming to our area.

I also was very fortunate to visit China (at no expense to our State) on a fact-finding trip with a group from the University of Memphis. We toured five major cities and attended government meetings, and also some of China’s largest universities. The amount of construction activity there is impressive. I got to meet, and have dinner with, the president of the major company, Fushi-Copperweld, in Beijing. Copperweld has a plant in Fayetteville and employs a number of individuals there and is also opening an international sales office in Brentwood, Tennessee.

I recently attended the William R. Carter memorial Bridge dedication in Fayetteville and also the ribbon cutting for our new bypass in Shelbyville. I have been to the annual Farm Bureau meeting in Lincoln County and attended the Kiwanis and Rotary meetings and enjoyed the Bedford County Fair.

Most recently, I have been assigned to be a part of a Small Business and Economic Development Task Force at the State Legislature. We have been meeting and plan to come up with ways to limit government regulations on businesses and to help businesses expand and entice more businesses to move to Tennessee.

We are focused on doing everything we can to attract jobs to Tennessee and give our existing businesses the room they need to grow. But we understand that government doesn’t create jobs. Instead we can pave the way for sustainable job growth in the private sector.

While I am proud of our record of accomplishment and encouraged by the hard work of the Governor to make Tennessee the number one destination for high quality jobs in the South, there is much work to be done.

Tennessee is open for business and providing a shining example of how government can step out of the way so our small businesses can thrive.

Please feel free to stop by my office or give me a call if you have any questions or concerns. You can reach me at (615) 741-6824 or by email at rep.pat.marsh@capitol.tn.gov.

I am honored to represent the people of the 62nd district.

Eagleville Fire Department Fire Chief Terry Greene

I hope everyone has had a great and safe summer. I would like to thank everyone for their continued support for our fire department. Our men continue to work and train very hard to keep this community safe and to be there for us if the need should ever arise.

Our EVFD and our local Boy Scouts of America chapter are teaming up for an exploratory program through the school. Boys that are age 14-18 can explore the possibilities of a career as a fireman or trigger an interest in another emergency career. We are very excited to be able to mentor these young men.

As the summer draws to a close be sure to keep in mind the upcoming Bluegrass in the Park in October. This will take place in Eagleville at the City Park on October 15. The time will be 6-8 pm and concessions will be available. We are looking forward to a very fun night filled with friends and great music.

Continue to be safe and, as always, if anyone is in need of smoke alarms for their home please contact me at city hall.

God Bless, Chief Greene

What's That New Building Project Going Up on Hwy 99 in Rockvale?

Middle Tennessee Electric Membership Corporation is building a new electrical substation, located next to Rockvale Church of Christ in Rockvale.

"The new substation will help to handle any present electrical loads and provide for efficient growth in the area," said Paul Hanson, project site manager. This is one of 30 substations providing electrical power to Tennessee.

"Projected completion date of the project is set for this November, providing the weather permits," said Hanson.

New electrical poles are being replaced in the area provided to efficiently handle the extra circuit load. The new poles can handle double the circuits. All the area in front of the substation site on Hwy 99 has not had poles before, so those poles are newly added.

Eagleville School Expansion

Information obtained from the minutes of the Health & Education Committee that met on August 23, 2011 concerning the Eagleville School expansion project:

Chairman J. Jordan advised the Eagleville bids were opened August 16 and the Stewarts Creek High School bids were opened earlier today. The Committee was provided information on the Stewarts Creek bids reflecting savings of $1,750,000 through value engineering and a $567,000 decrease due to cuts by contractors. There were five bidders today versus seven in the last bid. The Committee was also provided information on the Eagleville project and advised it appeared the Eagleville work would be possible.

A Step Back in Time

By Bobbie Sue Shelton-Lonas

Imagine, looking at a present-day Nashville paper and finding an article and picture which includes your grandmother! Well, that is what happened recently. Ann Marie Clark Hooper was glancing at a newspaper and saw an interesting article on St. Thomas Hospital. Reading the article, she saw her grandmother's name, Irene Hay, mentioned and could not believe it.

The paper was the June issue of the 'Nashville Retrospect', which is printed monthly, and contains pictures and articles that have previously appeared in Nashville newspapers. In 1955, Irene Hay of Eagleville had participated in an historical event, the first of its kind, in the United States. The Saint Thomas Hospital in Nashville was the first hospital in the nation to establish a fire prevention plan. During the intensive training, Irene, who was a nurse at Saint Thomas, participated in a demonstration of the efficiency of removing patients from the hospital in case of a fire. In the demonstration, Irene acted as the patient, and was carried out of the hospital, by other nurses, on a hospital bed mattress.

The picture and article was also a surprise to Irene. She had no knowledge of the article or picture ever being in the newspaper.

With permission from the Retrospect Editor and Publisher, Allen Forkum, the readers of the Eagleville Times can also enjoy the article.

The following article appeared in the Nashville Banner, June 2, 1955.

FIRST IN U. S. WITH HOSPITAL FIRE PREVENTION PLAN

1955 – The Nashville Fire Department is staging the first extensive hospital fire prevention program in the United States.

Its first object of training is St. Thomas Hospital, where the personnel have a motto: "Every week is Fire Prevention Week." Hospitals are among the many institutions, the City Fire Department is training.

The Fire Department's indoctrination at the Maxwell House, for example, impressed authorities when an actual fire broke out recently, and occupants filed out of the building without panic and with clockwork efficiency.

Schools, hotels and businesses are also getting the indoctrination. Each employee has a special job if a fire comes.

Members of Truck Company No. 1 put on a demonstration at St. Thomas on Wednesday, ending the current training there. City Fire Marshal Dan Hicks, Inspector Herman Slonecker and Drillmaster Maurice Schutt supervised the rescue and emergency evacuation demonstrations.

Nurses were taught that a "stretcher" easily can be improvised by tying the sheets around the mattress like bands, so that the patient is held in the trough securely; and the "bands" can be used for handles in carrying out patient and mattress. Firemen H. T. Frensley and Thomas Soule demonstrated the fireman's carry, when Frensley hauled Soule down an extension ladder from a window.

Soule later got an unusual ride to the ground, bound in a mattress, with teammates lowering him by a rope. Fireman G. E. Pidcock showed how the small but powerful "Davy fire escape" works, by harnessing himself into its chest band and descending from the third story as slowly as he cared to. The Davy will support 1100 pounds, and has gears inside its pulley box to control the speed. In a Toronto hospital fire, the Davy saved 17 lives.

Drillmaster Schutt explained that each nurse at St. Thomas now has a special duty in the event of fire. "Each baby, incubator and all, must be removed," he pointed out. "So there is a nurse for each baby. We don't want any of this carrying out one baby, then going back for another one. That takes time."

Sister Catherine, hospital administrator, keeps the staff aware of fire prevention, along with the help of Ed Shea, personnel and public, relations director. Fire extinguisher demonstrations, compulsory fire prevention films and drills are regular programs.

"Planned action saves lives," say the officials. "Know what to do!"

Irene, daughter of George Washington and Bertha McCluskey Sulser, of Lincoln County, graduated from Blanche HS in 1943 and St. Thomas Hospital of Nursing in 1946. She was introduced to an Eagleville resident, David Marion "Buddy" Hay, while a student in nursing school. On June

Eagleville Resident Participates In Historical Event

December 1949 - At her desk at St. Thomas Hospital

22, 1946 Irene and Buddy were married in Nashville, and after a few years living there, they moved to Eagleville. They are parents of two children; Peggy Marie and David Michael.

Irene started her first professional job as a registered nurse at St. Thomas Hospital on Hayes St., Nashville. Irene was traveling to Nashville working at St. Thomas as head nurse on the women's surgical floor and later held the assistant supervisor position on the medical floor for 11 years. In 1952 Irene had one of her nursing high-lights. She was taking care of Minnie Pearl's mother and one day Minnie Pearl put her arms around Irene and thanked her for taking care of her "sweet little mother". Being hugged by Minnie Pearl out in the busy hospital hallway was certainly a thrill for Irene.

During this time, Buddy was working at GE, he and Irene decided to quit going to work in two directions, so on December 26, 1961, Irene started to work at the Rutherford Hospital in Murfreesboro, which later became the Middle Tennessee Medical Center. By working in Murfreesboro, she and Buddy was able to ride to work together each day. The first year, she worked on the medical floor as a medicine nurse, during the second year she was head nurse in the surgical unit. The rest of her employment at the hospital was as head nurse in the recovery room. In the later years, the head nurses at the hospital got a new title: Patient Care Directors.

Irene was very instrumental in the planning and building of a new "Same Day Surgery Unit" in the old Middle Tennessee Medical Center. She was asked to plan and design the new unit. She and Buddy traveled to other hospitals looking at their units and equipment until she was able to work out the plans and knew what equipment was needed. She got the unit all set up, started and worked in it until her retirement March 30, 1993, after 32 years of service. Irene's face was the first one a lot of people saw when they were waking up from surgery. During these years at the hospital Irene also helped many of her Eagleville neighbors thru surgery or during their hospital stay. She was a great comfort, not only to the patients, but to their families also.

Since Buddy's death in 2007, Irene continues to live in Eagleville, enjoying her children and their families which include several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

WHAT IS SAVED?

A Biblical Critique of the Doctrine of Salvation

Before Jesus ascended into Heaven, He commissioned His followers to go and make disciples of all nations. But what does that look like? What does a true disciple of Christ look like?

Today, many people claim to be saved. Many believe in a literal Heaven and that if they die, they are going there. But what are they basing that on? What is saved? What does it look like?

Bro. Dan Reed will expose the truth of God's Word concerning the Doctrine of Salvation & the cost of Christianity. As we examine the Scriptures together, we will find the answer to the question, What is Saved?

Health & Wellness by Howard Baker, RN BSN

Healthy Patriotism

Some of my fondest childhood memories are of my grandfather.

I remember walking through the mountains listening to him tell stories about his service in the U. S. Army. He often reminisced of a small boy who would approach him on the streets of Europe asking for food. My grandfather's chest would swell with pride and his eyes with tears as he talked about giving the boy his food rations. The stories of my grandfather were not of self-pride and gratification, but more about his pride of being an American and his service to his country.

A few weeks ago, as I drove through North Carolina in what used to be the furniture capital of the world; I noticed cranes with wrecking balls tearing down factories where once people worked. Driving though Chattanooga Tennessee you see graffiti on the walls of old factories where once people went to work with pride. As a teenager I can remember standing on the streets of New York City and looking down at a manhole cover which read "Hoe Foundry, Middlesboro Kentucky." I went to church with the Hoe family—I knew them. As I stood on that manhole cover, I remember being filled with pride as I realized this piece of iron came from my hometown and I knew the men who forged it. As an adult living in Knoxville, Tennessee the manhole covers in my neighborhood were made in China.

I encourage you to take notice of the number of flagpoles in your neighborhood and town. I find it concerning how many flagpoles fly a tattered flag or stand empty. The most disturbing flagless pole I have noticed stands in front of the National Guard Armory in Jefferson City, Tennessee. It is a dishonor to the men and women who sacrifice daily and have given their lives for the freedoms we often take for granted, for a National Guard Armory not to fly our flag.

What does our flag and patriotism have to do with our health? The United States unemployment rate is at a 25 year high. We stand by and watch wrecking balls tear down factories as graffiti artist disgrace and vandalize the remnants of what once stood for American prosperity and opportunity. Is it any wonder doctors in a major hospital in Boston report that the percentage of children 3 and younger who are underweight increased from 12% in 2007 to 18% in 2010. According to the same article: "The percentage of families with children who failed to secure adequate food monthly, increased from 18% to 28% during the same period" (Boston Globe).

Today it is hungry children—tomorrow a hungry nation. The pride of our grandfather's erode like tattered factories and faded flags, and go unnoticed till once they are gone. During the Labor Day celebration, I encourage you to fly our flag with pride.

Healthy patriotism—may not cure hunger, but the hunger for patriotism may starve a nation!

THE BUZZ AROUND CO-OP

Leprosy in Tennessee.....REALLY?

You see these cute little critters in their leathery shell along the road, they look so harmless. Recent research has new facts that few people realize, leprocy is alive in armadillo's. Each year about 150 people in the US are infected with leprosy, a bacterial disease that can lead to nerve damage and disfigurement.

There are now reports of humans contracting the disease who have handled the animals or were exposed by gardening in soil where the animals have burrowed. At this time the infected animals are in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama, but the armadillo population appears to be spreading North and East and could bring the leprocy with it. Medical professionals urge people not to touch, handle or eat the animals and steer clear of the carcasses.

Laura On Life

By Laura Snyder

We Still Do

My husband and I celebrated our 30th anniversary yesterday.

For us, anniversaries are not celebrated the same way birthdays are. There was no cake (we are on diets). No balloons (nobody wants their cheek muscles to explode on their anniversary). We don't give gifts (what would my husband do with another pair of socks?). Gifts are something we give each other all year long. These are gifts that are not necessarily tangible.

Birthdays are celebrated because it's been another year that we have lived. For some, especially my nine-year old, this is an unexpected surprise. So we have a big celebration to show how happy we are to have been on the earth one more year. For my nine-year old, birthdays are an event that makes it possible to actually get the things he's been asking for the rest of the year.

Wedding anniversaries are a little different. It should come as no surprise to a couple who have promised to love, honor, and cherish each other for the rest of their lives, that they have been together another year.

However, as two people who have been together thirty years, we can tell you it might come as a surprise that you still like each other.

I said "I do." I did. And I still do. But that doesn't mean that there haven't been days I wanted to use a frying pan the way Bugs Bunny and Daffy Duck used to. That I never did is a testament to my enduring love for my man and the tiny bit of sanity I have retained for all these years.

At times, having me as his wife couldn't have been a picnic for my husband either.

Imagine a person who has dreams of using frying pans in creative ways serving your dinner. Would you eat it? As a testament to his enduring love for me and his total lack of sanity, he did eat it – every single meal. I will add here that my cooking is less than palatable even when I'm not mad at him. This shows that he has true grit. He may have gotten it from the bottom of the many pots of long grain rice I've burned.

So, here we are, thirty years after uttering those infamous words – I do.

We went out for breakfast together before the kids got up. Then we bought two Kwanzan cherry trees and planted them in our backyard. Those trees will mark the day.

My daughter made us a sugar-free pumpkin pie. My nine-year old gave us an unwrapped coffee can which held a bar of soap from our last hotel stay. It's always the thought that counts.

The rest of the day was spent playing games with the kids, and working on a jigsaw puzzle. Both activities will reduce even the most stable person to visible jitters and hand-wringing. They require an amount of self-control that my nine-year old has not yet attained. His future wife will need a good, sturdy frying pan.

We cooked steaks on the grill. My husband manned the grill and I made corn on the cob and cut the bread. No long grain rice. My husband would not be eating grit on our anniversary.

After the kids went to bed, my husband and I watched an old black and white comedy that was made before we were born. Comedy was much better then.

Anniversaries are not like winning a race, where you get to the end of the year and throw up your hands in victory. They are more like the beginning of another long-anticipated journey. Like flying off in a hot air balloon together and not knowing where it will take you.

Planting those cherry trees was just our way of saying, "I will fly with you anywhere."

After 30 years, we still "do".

Little Stories About You & Me

By Nancy Allen

The Unfortunate Melon

Uncle Charley was tall as a ladder and impossible to climb. I guess you could say us boys were uneasy around him.

The only words I ever heard him speak were about his prize winning watermelons when my pa took me for a visit with him. Uncle Charley was sitting on the front porch of his cabin cleaning his rifle.

"Come sit a spell," he said as he moved to the edge of the steps.

"Don't mind if I do," said my pa.

"How's the watermelon crop this year?"

"Got the finest melon in the county—it'll win first place at the fair if I can keep the varmints away from it till it gets ripe," said Uncle Charley.

I just listened. I wasn't supposed to enter the conversation. I was only 11 years old. But my friend, Tommy, was 13 and he said he knew how to plug a watermelon to see if it was ripe. I told him about Uncle Charley's prize winning melon and he convinced me we should sample it to see if it was any good. I know better now, but at the time it sounded like a good idea. But how? Uncle Charley was determined to keep the varmints away from his prize. He sat on the porch with his rifle across his lap. As we watched from the edge of the woods we noticed his head beginning to drop.

"He's asleep," whispered Tommy.

And sure enough I reckon he was asleep because Tommy and I slithered on our bellies right past him into the watermelon patch and rolled that winner to the back of the field. Tommy knew how to plug that melon alright and I don't believe I ever tasted anything better.

The next day my Uncle Charley told my daddy, "Them varmints stole my prize winning melon right out from under my nose with me watching them." I think I noticed a tear in his eye. But I didn't say a word—I wasn't supposed to—I just listened.

Watermelons were first written about 5,000 years ago in Egypt and they most likely made their way to the United States with the African slaves.

The health benefits of watermelons are many: i.e. low sodium, a good source of vitamins A, B6, C and potassium. The melon has no cholesterol and almost no fat. It comprises 82% of your total daily dietary fiber and is 92% water and 8% natural sugar. The watermelon is the most economical fruit choice per pound. If you buy organic, you can use the rind for juice.

Tommy and I didn't know much about nutrition back then, but we did know what tasted good and Uncle Charley grew the best watermelons in the country. Looking back, I feel bad that he didn't get to take his melon to the county fair. There's no doubt in my mind—it was a winner.

National Play-Doh
Day

September 16, 2011

BY ANGELA WOODALL

The story of PLAY-DOH modeling compound begins in 1956 when scientists at Rainbow Crafts, a Cincinnati soap and cleaning compound company, stumbled upon a new use for the unique dough-like cleaning product. The company realized this product's potential as a child's modeling compound; and thus, the original, reusable PLAY-DOH compound was born." The only color available is off white.

Play-Doh Fact: If you made a big ball of all the PLAY-DOH Compound ever created, it would weigh more than 700 million pounds!

*****

Homemade Scented Play-Doh

Ingredients:

- 1 cup water
- 3 teaspoons of Cream of Tartar
- 1 cup of flour
- 1 package of Kool-Aid Mix (any flavor of unsweetened)
- 1 tablespoon of cooking oil
- 1/2 cup of salt

Mix dry ingredients in a large/medium pan. Add water and oil. Stir over medium heat until it looks light dough. Whatever the color of kool-aid used should be the end result. This takes about 8 minutes.

Play-Doh Creation Ideas

- Use pans, rolling pins, and cookie cutter to make "cookies"
- Use birthday candles and silk flowers to make a "cake"
- Use giggle eyes to create "monsters" and "animals"
- Use cars and trucks to make flattened "tracks"
- Use Mr. Potato Head parts to make Play-Doh "characters"
- Use Easter grass to make a home for your "bugs"
- Use sea shells to make "impressions" in your Play-Doh
- Make holiday "ornaments" or holiday themed characters

Recipe Of The Month

Crescent Roll Chicken

WHAT YOU NEED

- 1 chicken, boiled & deboned
- 1 can crescent dinner rolls
- 1 can cream of celery soup
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1 1/4 c. milk
- 1 c. shredded cheese

MAKE IT

Cut chicken in bite-size pieces. Place chicken in crescent rolls, roll up and place in greased casserole dish, seam side down. In saucepan, mix soups, milk and 1/2 cup cheese until heated. Pour over crescent rolls and top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

TIP

Arrange asparagus tips around chicken; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Our Meat Department will cut meat to your order. Please call ahead or see someone in the meat department for your special requests.

Our Deli can also prepare large orders for your party or special event.
